NEW SPORTS CAR NEAR PRODUCTION

Berwick, Pa. — The Multiplex 186 goes into production here shortly, and automobile enthusiasts are predicting it will be the quality car of the United States.

The new car will be made by the Multiplex Manufacturing Co., which built the old Multiplex between 1912 and 1914. It will be designed to compete with European sports cars in economy and performance.

The statistics: The Multiplex 186 will have a 750 cc aerodynamic engine on an 85-inch wheelbase, an over-all length of 126 inches, outside width of 52 inches and an over-all height of 48.2 inches.

Chassis of rigid tubular truss type will give high structural strength with light weight. The body will be of aluminum with two form-fitting seats of top grain leather over foam rubber. Standard equipment will include two safety belts.

With an over-all weight of less than 1,000 pounds, the top speed will exceed 90 MPH with a speed of 60 MPH being attained from a standing start in less than 11 seconds. Gas consumption will average 35 miles per gallon. The engine will be highly polished.

Production at first will be limited as the car will be manufactured by hand. No prices have been announced.

The 1912 Multiplex was ahead of its time. It had a dual ignition system, overdrive, electric starter, electric lights; the prices ranged from $3,125 to $3,600. Production was suspended with the start of World War I and never resumed.

Iowa Had Freezing Temperature

Cold nights, but fairly warm days prevailed in Iowa the last of the week. Early morning temperatures were in the low 30's and one morning a low of 16 was reported at Elkader.

A frost is beneficial for the corn and bean crop. Corn is drying out nicely. Most beans are running about 30 bushels to the acre, many field much more.

YOUR RAILROAD...
the Rock Island
celebrates its 100th anniversary
October 10th

1852 1952

Since that memorable day when the first Rocket made its initial run from Chicago to Joliet, the Rock Island has played an important role in the great drama of the Nation's development. That first 40 miles of single track has expanded to 8000 miles of modern railroad and 5000 miles of coordinated truck routes, directly serving 14 great midwestern states . . . and through its connections the entire nation.

Achievement Through Planned Progress

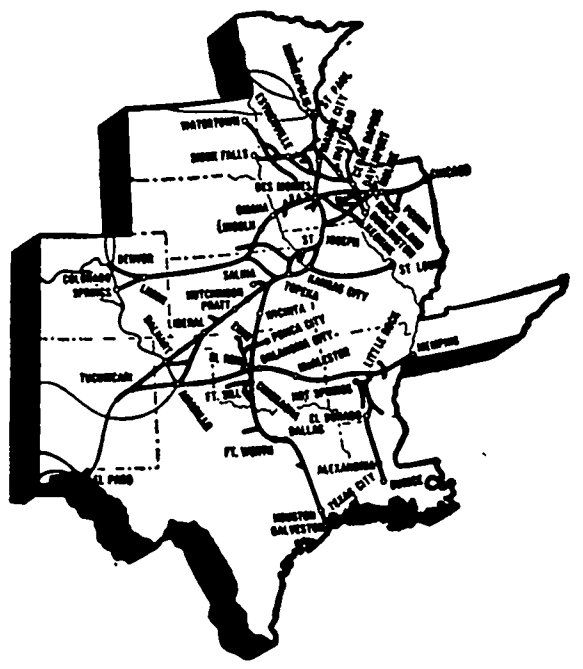
Today Reck Island Lines embody the most modern features of rail transportation in right-of-way and equipment:

- smooth, level roadbeds, heavy rails—
- shortened lines and reduced curves—
- centralized traffic control—
- diesel power for passenger and freight—
- light weight passenger equipment—
- modern freight cars constantly augmented—
- testing laboratories, to insure the highest standards of quality—

Rapid, sure movement of freight constitutes the most important function of the fleet of fast, diesel-powered Rocket Freights. Hump-Retarder Classification Yards facilitate make-up and through routing. 23,000 Special L.C.L. Package cars reduce loss and damage. The New Freight House at Armourdale with its many modern innovations is typical of Your Railroad's continuing improvement of shipping service.

The Route of the Rockets

Your Railroad is equally proud of its Golden State and Passenger Rockets that provide swift, smooth comfort and luxurious facilities—Pullman and Coach accommodations, observation lounges, diners and snack cars serving the finest of foods and refreshments at moderate prices.



Within the Rock Island area are many exceptionally advantageous industrial sites. If your plans call for expansion or a relocation of operations contact Rock Island. A special department is maintained to help you. All inquiries are held in strict confidence.

Rock Island representatives are courteous and well trained experts, ever ready to assist in your traffic problems.

May Pay To Have More Hogs In 1953

Iowa farmers will probably find it more profitable to increase their hog production next year over that for 1952, according to E. L. Quaife, animal husbandman at Iowa State College at Ames.

With a good feed supply, producers with the necessary equipment for caring for early pigs should breed for early farrowings, he says. This past season, those who got their pigs to market weight inJuly and August got the higher price. This is true most years, Quaife says.

Sort Out Gilts

Planning for a July or August market means that sows must farrow in January or February. This means breeding in October. Gilts must be sorted out now or should have been sorted out some time ago, says Quaife.

He advises producers that the gilts should be weighing 200 pounds or more, should be growthy and not carrying too much fat. He says there is plenty of evidence to show that the well-developed gilt, preferably 8 or 9 months of age, farrows a larger litter and is better able to care for her litter than is the gilt bred at 5 or 6 months of age that is lacking in sexual maturity.

Need Pasture

The gilts should have access to pasture and be fed a ration made up primarily of oats. They might be self-fed a mixture of 1,800 pounds ground oats, 200 pounds of a good 35 percent protein supplement with about 20 pounds of mineral mixture added. The corn might consist of two ears a day, enough to keep the sows in good growing condition.

Iowa producers who are well-equipped and have a good feed supply are in a favorable position to produce a larger hog crop in 1953 than they did in 1952, Quaife says. Farrowings were later this spring of 1952, largely on account of the short feed supply. Producers had their sows farrow later, looking forward to pasture and the 1952 corn to play a larger part in their production.

Corn Moves Out Of Frost Danger

Favorable drying weather continued the past week and most corn is out of danger of frost damage with some farmers ready to start cribbing corn in the next two weeks. Soybeans are only about 15 per cent combined due to weeds in the fields but combining is now getting into full swing. Silo filling is about 90 per cent completed.

November 1 is the deadline for either an owner or a tenant to notify the other that his lease will end next March 1.

According to a 1939 Iowa law, the lease will automatically continue for another year beyond March 1 unless either party is notified by November 1, reports I. W. Arthur, extension farm economist at Iowa State College.

The law, however, doesn't keep landlords or tenants from ending their leases by mutual agreement. Nor can either party take advantage of this notification law if he has broken the rental agreement.

How To Notify

The economists reports written notices can be given in one of three ways:

1. Delivering the notice in person by one party to the other—who must sign to indicate receipt.

2. Serving either party by a representative of the other party in the same manner law suit notices are served.

3. Sending the other party the notice by registered mail—with a return receipt demanded to his last known address at least 10 days before Nov.1.

Some Are Exempt

Three classes of leases are exempt from the notification law, says the specialist. They include sharecropper arrangements, or field-renting agreements anl all other tenancies under 40 acres.

He explains that only a few sharecroppers are hired in Iowa anl including them in the law might make it hard to enforce. The law includes the 40-acre exemption to keep out part-time farmers, rural residences and situations where farming is only a sideline.

Cropper and field renting arrangements expire when the crop is harvested. But if the crop is corn, one party must notify the other by December 1st, says Arthur. If a tenant lives on and farms less than 40 acres, either party can end the arrangement by March 1 if he gives the other 30 days notice.

State Tax Toll Establishes Mark

DES MOINES—Iowans paid a record breaking $522,272,257 in federal taxes during the fiscal year ended June 30.

This was disclosed Thursday in a report issued by the Assistant Internal Revenue Collector Frank Halpin who said it was the largest tax yield ever collected in this state.

Hen Chooses Cool Spot To Lay Eggs

The cellar door at the Buckly home has stood open all summer and the hen goes in there to lay her eggs.

When the nest was found recently in a 20-gallon jar half filled with sand there were 20 eggs on the pile, just as fresh as the day they were laid.

The hen still visits the ready made cooler frequently to lay a nice fresh egg.

IOWA BULLS BEST

A Holsien bull, Mercedes Veeman Beets, owned by Northwest Iowa Breeders Coop. of Sheldon, Iowa, took top honors at Ames on Sept. 11 as being the highest proven holstein sire, living and in use in Iowa on July 1st.

This award was given by Wallaces Farmer, Iowa Homestead and Iowa State College. Awards are given to the top 10 sires proven in Iowa each year.

Farmers in this community can have the use of this bull as well as many others through the North Ia. Breeders Coop. of Kanawha. Lester Anderson of Kanawha is the technician for the Coop. Lester owns property and pays taxes in the state. The bull is coperatively owned and all its money is kept in the state in taxes paid by itself and its employees as well as contributing 5c of each firt service to Iowa State College for research. Patronize North Iowa Breeders Coop., they are supporing the state and community.

Recently the Coop. received two bulls from the U. S. Dept. of Agriculture at Beltsville, Md. Both are linebred and plus proven. The USDA has carried on a program of using only well proven sires and have developed a wonderful herd with their use.

Artificial Breeding has grown fast the last few years. Northwest Iowa Breeders are servicing 30% more cows this year than they were a year ago and have doubled their volume in the last 3 years. The use of outstanding sires and above average technicians has been the reason for their fast growth.

Lester Anderson has been servicing cows for many years. He is one of the better inseminators in the state. He has service available from all dairy breeds as well as Hereford and Angus in the beef. For service call Kanawha 123.

Minnesota Valley Breeders Has Long Experience

In eleven years of operation, Minnesota Valley Breeders Coop. Artificial Breeding Assn. has learned much about success in breeding dairy cows. In that time they have grown from a few customers to the 3rd largest artificial breeding organization in the U. S. While many other organizations have been marking time M.V.B.A. business has reached 180,000 cows.

Robert Stith, technician for M.V.B.A. at Klemme is well trained, both at head quarters and at Minnesota U. He is a local man and pays his taxes as does everyone else. Mr. Stith graduated from Kanawha high school, lived on a farm between Klemme and Kanawha for 11 years and later near Britt. He is a son of Blanche Stith who now lives in Britt. Service may be secured by calling Klemme 135 or Garner 17.

M. V. B. A. has nearly 120 units in 4 states, a tribute to their success. Taxes ar epaid in all of these states. In Iowa a contribution of 5c per cow is paid to the College of Agr. at Ames for research in artificial breeding. The size of the organization is to the advantage of the farmer members who own the organization. It means that it is possible to return large rebates and dividends to the farmer, greatly reducing his cost.

Bulls are selected on the basis of performance of offspring considering the conditions under which they make their records. Uniformity of offspring is carefully analized so that any dairyman, whether large or small can use any of these bulls with confidence.

There is a choice of six Holstiens daily as well as a total of five dairy breeds and two beef breeds.

Dallas County lost one of its oldest residents, by death, last week. 94 year old A. M. McColl, who had been a citizen of the county for nearly 75 years, died after a few month's illness.

RED HERRINGS

OR RED, WHITE AND BLUE

Every time some of the commies and perjurors have been caught the administration and the yes men have yapped "red herring." Let's have a change and let's quit wondering whether we have parlor pinks, red communists, socialists, or any other kind of a crook in our national government. For the last ten years or more we have been continually alerted by commies being caught and then lulled by the "red herring" label. Let's quit wondering by electing Republicans this time.

VOTE REPUBLICAN

The Republicans plan to do just this. Turn out every kind of parlor pink, the red commies, and the grafters and crooks out of government office. Only by electing republicans can you be sure to get rid of them, because the present administration has continually SHIELDED, DEFENDED AND APOLOGIZED for known communists and perjurors in high government office. For Political reasons the present captors of the Democratic party have kept secret all information they could, and have continued in office, men known to have been, or were communists.

The captors of the Democratic party, which include the big city bosses with crime, gambling, and all the horrors of corrupt city government, and the big labor bosses have perverted the grand old Democratic party into a grab fest for themselves. No honest democrat could ever countenance the things that have been going on. The only way the honest democrat who believes in the principles of Thomas Jefferson can free his party, is by voting Republican this fall. Democrats can join with Republicans to free this country from the grafters, the big city bosses, and the union bosses, and also FREE THE DEMOCKATIC PARTY by voting Republican this fall—by voting for Eisenhower, Nixon, Beardsley, Dolliver, and all the Republican ticket.

THE KLEMME TIMES

Publisher Turns Over The Times After 35 Years

Lyndon "Pete" Kilgore New Editor and Publisher

(By R. A. Jorgenson)

It is a rather difficult task to write a "farewell" to our readers, advertisers, friends and neighbors, after being at the helm for 35 years as publisher and editor of The Klemme Times.

We published our first issue of The Klemme Times on July 19, 1917, after having purchased the business from M. M. Manger. In that issue we promised to give the people of Klemme and community a better newspaper. We think we did that by keeping up with the trend of the times and making changes from time to time to give the readers and advertisers a better newspaper. We also promised to be a good booster for Klemme, and we believe we accomplished that angle of our residence in Klemme.

We can think of no one more capable to carry on than Lyndon "Pete" Kilgore, who has leased the business and building. Pete is one of "our boys" who learned the printers trade at the Times office. Pete worked for us for several years on both the newspaper and job printing. We are sure that he will give our readers and advertisers a much better paper than we have been publishing, as he is ambitious and very capable.

We would appreciate it a great deal if all of our readers, advertisers and friends will give the new publisher and editor their full support. A newspaper in a town the size of Klemme MUST have the full support of the entire community. At this time we want to thank all who have given us their business and good will and have helped in so many ways to assist us in the newspaper field. To all we say, "Thank You."

We will always have a warm spot in our hearts for Klemme and Mrs. Jorgenson and myself will always extend a welcome to all of you . . . our latch string hangs out to greet you.

Thanks for everything, and good luck to "Pete."

R. A. Jorgenson

NEW EDITOR'S SAY

After 35 years as Editor and Publisher of The Times, we know that Ray is going to feel a little lost for awhile, even though he is still in the printing game. He's going to miss the fun of gathering the news and getting it into shape for presentation to the readers of The Times. He's going to miss the conversations that he had with his friends and business associates while soliciting ads . . and he's going to miss the "old town."

The "old town" will miss him, too. He was a familiar figure on the street, and through the columns of the paper and by his active participation in many civic projects, he was a benefit to the town in every way.

We know that he was averse to leave the old stand, but in the last 10 years, he has been steadily building up the commericial printing business which he ran in connection with The Times. It finally grew to the point where he had to expand, so he opened the North Iowa Printing Company at Garner. Trying to do justice to the two places was a pretty big order. Being a little partial to the commericial work, he decided to lease out the paper and concentrate his efforts at Garner.

Now, in what is probably his last appearance in the columns of The Times, he has been quite lavish with his praise. We thank him for the nice "send-off." We have been away from the printing business for several years and may have to burn some midnight oil for a few weeks before getting back into the swing of things, but we'll do our best to get out the kind of paper which you, as readers, would like to have.

CO-OP GRAIN CO. ADDING OFFICE SPACE

Northern Lumber Company carpenters are busy this week, building an addition to the east side of the office at the Klemme Co-Op Grain Co. Manager "Mike" Lemke says that the extra room will be more than welcome as they have needed it for some time.

M. L. Harson has purchased the E. C. Buntenbach house, located on Main Street in Klemme. The Harsons expect to move in about the 1st of November.

CIVIC CLUB TO MEET

The Klemme Civic Club will meet Thursday evening at the grade school at 7:30 o'clock. [illegible] Project Coordinator, says that [illegible] of improvements including the annual Christmas promotion. All members are urged to attend.

LEGION WILL AGAIN SPONSOR BOY SCOUTS

DRIVE FOR FUNDS WILL BEGIN TUESDAY, OCT. 21

At the regular monthly meeting of Adam-Schaefer Post 625 of the American Legion, it was decided that the Legion would again sponsor the local Boy Scout Troop. They have been the sponsoring organization since the troop received its charter in 1948.

BENEFITS OF SCOUTING

Every year at about this time the Winnebago Council of the Scouts, puts on a fund-raising drive to help in taking care of the expenses involved in their many worthwhile projects. One of the main items of expense for the Council is Camp Roosevelt at Clear Lake . . . and what boy wouldn't give his right arm for a week at such a camp? Of course, there are many more benefits derived from scouting. Boys learn how to be self-sufficient and learn to be good loyal, upstanding Americans. Perhaps some of them do not absorb all of the information that is made available to them, but a part of it is bound to "soak in", and it is all good.

LEGION TO RAISE FUNDS

Begining next Tuesday, members of the local Legion Post, will be calling on you to give you opportunity to contribute to this worthy cause. COACH CAPPON IMPROVED

F. C. Cappon, coach at Klemme High School, who was stricken with Polio last week, is much improved, according to a [illegible] given by his wife. Coach is in the Iowa Heap [illegible] Iowa City and is now on the [illegible] list. He is to take treatments for approximately [illegible] days and then he will be allowed to come home. His address is F. C. Cappon, Polio Ward, University Hospital, Iowa City, Ia.

Rust College Singers at Methodist Church

A musical treat is in store for the people of the Klemme community on Sunday evening when the Rust College Singers will present a concert in the Klemme Methodist Church at 8 o'clock. Six singers and their leader, three young women and four young men, representing Rust College at Holly Springs, Mississippi are on a concert tour in the North Iowa Conference in the interest of their college, an institution maintained by the Methodist Church for the training of Negroes.

The concert will consist of sacred, semi-classical and classicial songs, as well as Negro spirituals. Groups representing the college that have appeared on previous occasions in Klemme have always presented splendid programs. The group this year is larger than those that have been on tour in recent years and promise an even better program.

The people of the community are invited to attend and enjoy the inspiration of this musical hour. An offering will be received that will go toward the support of the program at Rust College.

Blood Donor Pool To Be Formed In Klemme As Rapidly As Possible

EX EDITOR MOVED TO GARNER, THURSDAY

Thursday was moving day for Ray and Mary Jane Jorgenson . . . the first one in 35 years. They are now living in southwest Garner, in the house vacated by Ray Jr. and family, when he went back into the service. They have a nice location and we're sure that when Ray said the latch string would be hanging out for their Klemme friends, he meant it.

Ray and Mary Jane made their presence felt in all community activities, Ray in civic circles, and Mary Jane through her church work and social activities. We wish them good luck in their new home, and are sure that Garner has gained two good citizens.

KILGORES MOVE, TOO

Friday, we Kilgores, vacated the Wm. Stille house north of the post office and moved into the home vacated by Ray and Mary Jane. We are sure that we are going to like it here very much, and our latch string, too, is out.

FIRE DEPARTMENT CALLED TO GRASS FIRE

Saturday afteronon about 2:00 o'clock the Klemme Fire Department answered a call to the Wayne Schoenwetter farm six miles west of Klemme. Mr. Schoenwetter had been burning weeds and grass in the ditch along the side of the road and the fire got out of control. The local boys soon had everything under [illegible] the fire had [illegible] a corn field, it could have caused considerable damage.

TEACHERS RECEPTION HELD OCT. 10th

The annual reception for the teachers in the Klemme school was held last Friday evening, October 10th. The event was sponsored by the Home Fathers, and the two Klemme churches each of the organizations presented a skit for the entertainment of those present.

Superintendent, T. G. Ahrenkiel, introduced the teachers, and talks were given by Rev. Jaberg, and Rev. Egeland.

At the conclusion of the program the teachers were in their rooms and the parents had the opportunity to visit with them. At the close of the evening, lunch was served in the grade school basement.

This year's reception was a tremendous success, and the largest crowd in the history of the event was present.

55th ANNIVERSARY

Monday, Mr. and Mrs. George Albers had been married for 55 years. In honor of the occasion, their children came to spend the evening with them.

Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. John Albers and Gene, Mr. and Mrs. Menno Albers, Mr. and Mrs. Lubbe Albers of Ventura, and George, Jr. and family of Clear Lake. Rev Jaberg called during the afternoon to offer his congratulations.

WILL EXPIDITE BLOOD PROCUREMENT

GOAL IS TO TYPE BLOOD OF ALL POSSIBLE DONORS

Announcement comes from Dr. A. H. Dulmes, that the local American Legion Post will sponsor the organization of a "Blood Donor Pool" for Klemme and the surrounding territory.

This should be a very worthwhile project and one that everyone should want to take part in for many reasons. In the past whenever an emergency has arisen calling for a blood transfusion for some local person who was near death, it has been very hard to locate donors. Blood can still be purchased in some instances, but it is becoming harder and harder as time goes on. Usually when a transfusion is given, the blood has to be replaced, and this "Donor Pool" would make replacement much easier.

Present plans call for the typing of everyone in the community who wishes to donate blood, and a list of volunteer donors will be available at all times. Each person who is typed will be given a card with his blood type noted on it. Then if the occasion ever arises where he might need an emergency transfusion, his type will be readily available to attending doctors, and the time saved might be the difference between life and death.

Members of the local Legion Post, and Dr. Dulmes, hope that everyone will see the benefits to be derived from this plan and [illegible] 100 percent. For further details on this plan, contact Dr. Dulmes. He will be glad to answer your questions.

ROAD IMPROVEMENT PROGRAM PROGRESSES

Hancock County's farm-to-market road construction program advanced $414,686.58 worth towards its good roads goal during the last four [illegible], according to figures released today by the Iowa State Highway Commission. This investment secured 51 more miles of grading and 37 added miles of surfacing for this county, according to records of the Iowa Highway Commission at Ames.

This indicates the extent of progress being made in the over-all road building program set in motion by the Iowa Road use Fund Tax bill adopted by the 53rd General Assembly upon recommendation of Governor William S. Beardsley. These accomplishments have been made possible with this county's share of the road use fund money allocated by the state to county farm-to-market roads, which is 15 percent of the total fund collected. The success of the current road program is evidenced by the fact that 100 percent of the total Hancock County farm-to-market road system was all weather surfaced as of January 1, 1952.

Road Construction and improvement have been pushed vigorously in spite of steel and materials shortages due to the Korean war and difficulties in maintaining staffs of engineers, according to John R. Hattery, chairman of the Highway Commision.

NOW IS THE TIME

We remember once hearing a young soldier, a patient in a military hospital, say, "Boy, am I glad I didn't get it in the hands." Then he went on to give his reasons and they were pretty good. If you think over the things that you are dependent upon your hands to accomplish, you will probably feel the same as he thankful that you have them.

For a farmer this time of the year, keeping his hands is something that should be foremost in his mind. Corn picking time is here, and we are all aware of what that brings. In Iowa, last year, cornpickers ground off a total of 309 fingers, 31 thumbs and three lives.

Now is the time for you to think it over. Is that few seconds you save by not shutting off the power worth more to you than all the things you can do with your hands? If so, anytime now is liable to be your time.

WHO'S RIGHT

Truman and Stevenson tell us that we never had it so good!

"Ike" says things are in an awful mess!

We wouldn't even pretend to know which side is barking up the wrong tree, but we recently read of a thief who must certainly think that the "never-had-it-so-gooders" are all wet

He broke into the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hinder, near Allison, and if he never had it so good he must have been in bad shape before. He went away unmolested, but he took with him one loaf of bread and one pair of pants. That chap must have been down to the bare necessities.

COURTESY AFTER FIRE WHISTLE BLOWS

As The Times was going to press the fire whistle blew. We learned that the fire was at Merle Schoenwetters. His corn picker had caught fire in the field. We hope that not too much damage was done.

Shortly after the fire whistle blew, Bert Jones, local manager of the Central Iowa Telephone Company stopped in and showed us some figures that would surprise a lot of people. In the first four minutes following the blowing of the whistle, there were 45 calls handle by the local switchboard, and by the time eight minutes had elapsed, there had been 57 calls.

So many calls right after a fire alarm could be a bad thing. Someone might need to use the phone for something important in connection with the fire, and the operator would be too busy giving information to the curious, that she wouldn't be able to give the call proper attention.

Bert says they're glad to tell people about the fire, but they would rather you would wait a few minutes until the important calls have been taken care of.

CLEAN UP DANGER SPOTS KEEP DOWN WINTER FIRES

Old Man Winter brings danger with him—danger to your family and home. That's because most dwelling fires happen during this season. Every winter terrifying fires destroy families, homes furnishings and a lifetime of accumulations.

Most fires are preventable. The greatest cause is defective chimneys and heating systems. That's why one of the most important safeguards this time of year is a careful check-up of your home.

Clean Out Furnace

Start in the basement, or whereever your furnace or other heating equipment is located. You should clean out your furnace once a year, according to Norval Wardle, extension safety specialist of Iowa State College. If you have an oil burner, an experienced repairman should do the job.

Inspect the whole length of chimneys. If you find any cracks or holes, fill them in or repair them. Don't forget to check the chimney where it goes through the attic, for this is often a danger area, particularly where the chimney enters the roof. Check all flues and flue pipe connections to make sure they are sound for the heating season ahead.

The days of the agile, soot-covered chimney sweep are gone. But that doesn't mean it isn't as important as ever to have chimney and stove pipes cleaned of accumulated soot. Once caked soot ignites, it burns fiercely and can cause a bad fire, explains Wardle.

Electrical Appliances

Don't forget your electrical appliances, says Naomi Shank, extension household equipment specialist at the college. Check the cords for breaks, frayed or worn ends and have them replaced.

Before pressing electric bedding, heating pads and floor heaters into daily service, make sure the heating elements, theremostats and switches are all firm and operating properly.

Motors of electrical appliances can overheat and start a fire too, so do clean and oil them, Don't forget your refrigerator motor, unless it's the sealed-in type that needs no oiling.

Check Your Range

Your kitchen range should come in for a check-up, too, says Miss Shank. If it's coal-burning, make sure the grates and ash container will serve the season. Build up a stockpile of kindlling, and make it a family resolution that no one ever tries to start the fire with kerosene.

Inspect your fuse box, too. Be sure only proper size fuses are installed in the house circuits, and keep a supply of extra fuses on hand. If you're not certain as to fuse service requirements, it's best to call in a service man for advice.

This week, Oct. 5 through 11, has been set aside across the nation as Fire Prevention Week. Family observance and attention to this special week has prevented countless fires each year.

THE FARM OUTLOOK

County Extension Director
By Paul Henderson,

About normal feeding margins may be expected from pigs farrowed next spring, Francis A. Kutish, extension farm economist at Iowa State College, believes.

We raised 9 per cent fewer hogs this year than in 1951. The cutback came because of the poor 1951 corn crop and the disappointing hog prices of last winter. Our 1952 hog production is only slightly higher than the 1941-50 average. Meanwhile, we have 10 per cent more people in the country to eat meat.

These consumers have a high buying power. That's a vital factor in the price of meat. We may see a little let-up in that demand for meat next fall. There are signs that businessmen will soon be tapering off their spending programs for new factories and factory equipment, Kutish points out. The rising defense spending program, however, should offset this weakness until the latter part of 1953.

LARD DEPRESSES PRICES

The weak points in the hog outlook are the depressing lard prices and the rising supply of competing beef. Cattle slaughter is increasing, as a result of out growing cattle numbers. We have more beef coming to market this fall than a year ago. And we can look for a further boost next year.

The boost in beef slaughter probably will be enough to offset the expected slight cut in the 1953 spring pig crop. Reports from the southern drouth states indicate that farmers plan to slash back their 1953 spring farrowing by at least 10 per cent.

Such a cutback in the South would be enough to drop the national spring pig crop about 2 per cent. Kutish doesn't think that Corn Belt farmers will find the present hog-corn ratio encouaging enough to cause them to make any boost in farrowings next spring. In fact, with the problems of disease and only an average hog-corn ratio, they might cut back farrowings slightly. Thus our 1953 spring pig crop might be down 2 to 4 per cent from the 1952 figure.

AVERAGE FEEDING PROFITS

So he concludes that the increased beef slaughter would about offset the smaller farrowings. This would leave us with around a 12 or 13 to 1 hog-corn ratio—or above average.

It would give a little profit to the efficient producer. But the profit prospects are not favorable enough to cause any great investment in new equnpment to expand numbers.

DROWNED

Two year old Randall Arndorfer of St. Benedict, was drowned in a stock tank recently while playing on his father's farm. The youngster was found about 20 minutes after he fell into the tank.

CASUALTY

At New Market, Mrs. Chick Brown became a casualty of "war", recently. While helping her small son play with a toy jet engine, the projectile which drives the engine exploded, lacerating the scalp.

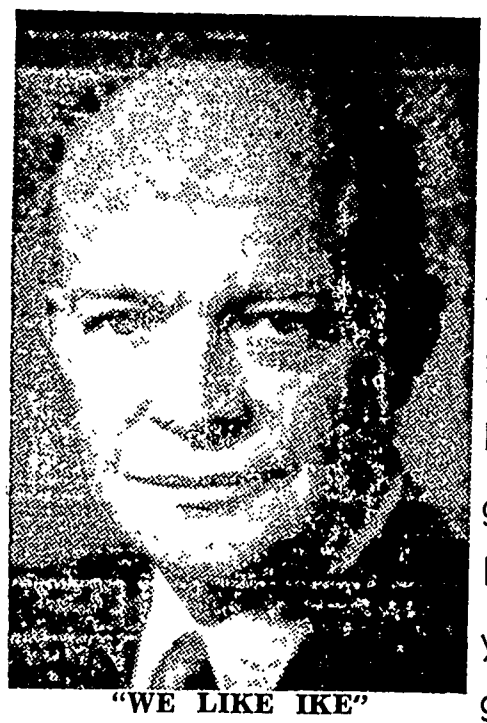
It's Your Mink Coat



"WE LIKE IKE"

Yes—you paid for it—the mink coat worn by the wife of a grafting corrupt government official! It was paid for by your tax money—money that you worked hard to get and paid in to pay for defense and to aid the men in Korea. Don't let them keep taking it away from you! Don't let them keep taking your tax money for graft, for mink coats, for deep freezes. Don't let them continue to keep taking it away from you and paying for five airfields in Africa and getting only two.

VOTE REPUBLICAN

This orgy of spending and spending, and taxing and taxing in Washington must stop. Despite all the fine promises the Democrats have made for more than 20 years, your taxes are now higher than ever RIGHT NOW THE GOVERNMENT IS SPENDING MORE MONEY than was spent IN ANY YEAR DURING WORLD WAR II. THINK THAT ONE OVER.

Stop this socialization and regimentation. Drive ALL the rascals out of Washington. Don't let them get buy with a change of a few faces —LET'S CHANGE ALL THE FACES that have been involved in corruption that has never been approached in the history of this nation.

VOTE REPUBLICAN THIS TIME. Vote for honesty all the way in government. Vote for an honest deal for everyone whether a "friend of a friend" or not. Vote for honest agricultural benefits — administered by a non-partisan group of farmers. (By the way, the Kossuth Republican Committee has been searching to find a republican in the PMA. They don't run that non-partisan.)

Visiting around Iowa

Vegetables or Meat?

Edna and I got invited out to supper last Tuesday . . . a "vegetarian" supper.

It was fun for a change. We had things like molasses bread, Yogurt, and other eatables we'd never heard of.

Cousin Em, who put on the supper, was especially nice about one thing. She didn't try to reform us, and make vegetarians of us, too.

Em didn't say: "Now, you evil old meat-eater, don't these 'health' foods taste better . . . besides being better for you?"

I wish all vegetarians and other folks were like that.

From where I sit, whenever a person starts waving his arms and telling me why I should go for HIS way of living, instead of MY way, he starts to get off bounds. He may like carrot juice, and that's fine. I may enjoy my temperate glass of beer, and that's fine, too.

Private idiosyncrasies are all right, just as long as we have tolerance for our neighbors' freedom of choice, too.

XMAS SEALS GO ON SALE NOVEMBER 17

The 1952 Christmas Seal Sale sponsored by the Hancock Co. Tuberculosis and Health Association will open on November 17 of this year and continue until Christmas Day, according to an announcement made recently by C. E. Barnes, president of the association.

C. E. Barnes said that Mrs. Marchant of Britt had been named to head the fund-raising campaign.

This chairman will be assisted by town and township chairmen over the county, as well as other volunteers who will share in the promotion of the Christmas Seal Sale.

"The 1952 Christmas Seal Sale will be the only public appeal for funds made by the local tuberculosis association during the year," the group's president declared. "The program of tuberculosis control in the county is supported by Christmas Seal purchases from persons in this community."

He also pointed out that this year again the Iowa Heart Association is co-sponsoring the sale of Christmas Seal and that the very important program of education, research and community service of the heart association will be supported by Christmas Seal funds.

FROZEN MEAT KEEPS AFTER THAWING

Many a homemaker, for safety's sake, cooks frozen meat the moment it has thawed. But results of recent experiments with fresh and frozen meat indicate this precaution isn't necessary.

Thawed frozen meat is no more perishable than fresh meat, say research workers in the U. S. Department of Agriculture. In fact, their tests show that spoilage actually may be slower in meat that has been frozen than in meat that has not.

Perishability tests were made with ground pork and beef loin to which were added bacteria that cause spoilage and food poisioning. Part of the meat was kept frozen from two weeks to a month, then thawed and kept in the refrigerator 5 days. Similar unfrozen meat was held in the refrigerator for those same 5 days. Samples were tested daily to learn how rapidly the spoilage organisms were growing and increasing.

Bacterial growth started at once in the unfrozen meat, but not for 48 hours in the meat which had been frozen and thawed. Researchers feel that these results indicate freezing may actually cause a lag in growth of spoilage bacteria.

Check Oat Bins for Bugs

You should check your oat bins for bugs at once, is the advice Hancock County Extension Director is giving to farmers in the county. He says many oat bins are infested with one or more kinds of bugs that invade stored grain. These bugs will spoil the grain. They will ruin the germination of seed oats.

Henderson suggests that you sample the grain in a number of places then shake the samples, through a screen, catch the screenings on a white piece of paper. If the grain is infested you will see the bugs on the paper.

Get a leaflet from Henderson's office. It gives the recommended control of these insect pests. Remember that cold or freezing weather doesn't kill these bugs. They move deeper into the grain in clusters and the heating grain keeps them warm.

Treating now is the cure.

HANCOCK CO. STILL LEADS IN COLLECTION OF TAXES FOR 1952

WE SHOW COLLECTIONS OF 95.33 PERCENT

(By Roy McMillin)

While the total amount of tax handed to the county treasurer for collection this year is far above what we have had in other years, we still remain in the same percentage usual at this time of year.

Real estate taxes are nearly complete, but we do have a number of personal taxes that are still unpaid. These taxes draw three-fourths of one percent for each month that they are unpaid.

On making an audit of the tax which was given to us for collection in 1952 we find that they are over a million and a quarter. The total amount was $1,366,-320.16, which is below that reported to us the first of the year.

To date our collections are $1,302,465.00, or just 95.33 percent of the total. This is a little above the average for the October first apportionment.

Not alone is the collection of these taxes a big job, but having them apportioned out to all the different funds and sending the money out to the schools, towns, and townships come in for a big amount of the treasurer's work. Each one in the office has his special work to do. We have just finished having an audit of our last year's work. This was done by the state auditor's office and the men spent just two months going over every item which we handled during the year.

Each office in the courthouse has been checked in this way.

Taxes that are unpaid at this time must all be checked again and statements mailed to get this in before the first of Dec.

We received from the state auditor's office the following refund checks:

Homestead exemptions — 25 mills on $2500.00, on each home owned and lived in for 6 months of the year. The total received was $137,280.00, and this amount was credited on your tax receipts.

Military credit — to boys who were in service. We have over 1100 of these in our county, and they received a total credit amounting to $13,230.00

Agriculture Land Credit—This is given to the farm owner who is in a school district where the school tax alone amounts to more than 15 mills. This credit helps the owner in and out of a school district to even up the amount of tax paid. We must mail in a report showing how each district is assessed, to the state. They in return, send us the amount asked for, which was $56,129.00 for 1952.

Automobile registrations are as follows:

Auto registrations to date, 5,277
Truck registrations . . . 1,475

Amount collected for the above was $203,987.00 for which the county fund received a credit to the treasurer's office of $3,376.00.

ACROBAT

Craig Hanson, four years old startled the Palmer community recently when he was discovered at the top of the 120 foot water tower. Two men brought him down, but not before he had performed a number of balancing stunts, to the horror of those watching from the ground.

WILD RIDE

Someone took a wild midnight ride on a tractor near Rockwell City recently and did $625 damage to corn-fields and fences. The tractor had been left hooked to a plow in the field and the marauders unhooked it and drove it through several corn-fields and fences.

LOSES ARM

Steve Johnson is recovering in the Beuna Vista hospital, after losing an arm in a stalk-cutter recently. The cutter pulled his arm into the blades, amputating it next to the shoulder. Johnson then walked half a mile to his home.

WHEN YOU SEW, CONCENTRATE ON—

Details That Make A Difference

You buy lovely fabric and choose a fetching pattern in just the right size. You tuck them under your arm and start out for home with a happy vision of the finished garment floating along before you.

Whether or not the dress you sew lives up to that vision will depend to a large extent on the careful attention you give or fail to give to important construction details along the way.

Alter Your Pattern

Nowadays, accurate pattern alteration comes first, says Lucille Rae, extension clothing specialist of Iowa State College. That means comparing our own measurements to the pattern measurements and altering the pattern where needed. Pattern alterations need not be difficult, but should be done accurately, says Miss Rae. Once you've made the needed changes, you can cut out your dress, skirt or blouse with confidence that it will fit you.

Use Interfacing

Many homemakers take a sewing shortcut that by-passes the use of interfacing. Don't be tempted—proper use of interfacing makes your garment wear longer and steers you clear of that "homemade look." Be sure to choose the proper weight interfacing for the fabric you're sewing.

Trim Out, Clip

If you want necklines, that lie flat, collars that fit without curling or puckering and no needless bulkiness elstewhere, put your shears to work trimming out, clipping, notching. Wherever 2 or more layers of fabric come together, such as blouse fabric, interfacing and facing at front of back opening, "stagger" the seam by trimming each layer a different width.

Making a trim, neat collar isn't difficult when your shears are close at hand. Clip the neck edge of your blouse, notch the seam allowance along the outer curve of the collar, trim off seam allowance at collar corners and trim seam edges different widths.

Press As You Go

Your automatic iron is as important a sewing tool as our machine. Keep it handy and press as you go along. Never stitch across an unpressed seam if you want professional looking results. Press seams with the grainline of the fabric. Press from the wrong side first, then from the right side if necessary. Press shoulder darts toward center, and side and sleeve darts down.

Tape Waistline

For a permanently good fit at the waistline of your dress, tape the seamline at the skirt top with quarter-inch straight-woven tape or selvage before joining it to the blouse. If you've altered your pattern correctly and followed the correct seam allowances, the waistline of your dress will probably be about 1 inch larger than your waist measurement. The seam tape should equal the waist measurement which is a comfortable fit for you. For a good fit, the waistline of the skirt top must be eased in to equal the tape length.

Pamphlets Tell How

A pamphlet titled "Plackets and Waistlines" will tell you just how to tape the waistline of your dress. It's written by clothing specialists at the college, is free of charge, and can be ordered from the Bulletin Office at Iowa State College.

Other useful pamphlets you can send for are: "Necklines," "Pattern Alterations" and Unit Construction. These are also available at your County Extension Office.

IOWA DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC SAFETY

By Bob Hullihan

For the first time in nearly ten years, Thomas lay in the small upstairs room in his mother's home, listening to the silence of the country, trying to drift off into sleep. But he seemed to be waiting for something, something he could remember only dimly and not identify.

Since late that afternoon, when he had driven in on the long-delayed vacation, memories of his early years had been flooding in bringing him a sad kind of peace. But now there was something else to come.

Then, he heard it. Through the window, open to the chill October night and from a great distance came the sound of a train. That was what his sleep had been waiting on—the sound of the train that every night, as a boy and young man, had stirred him to restlessness in this room.

Now, listening to the long, lonely wail of the train coming toward the crossing just below the house, he knew it for the promising sound of the world and distance that had lured him away years before. Then he slept.

The next morning was sharp and cold and while his mother plied him with an enormous breakfast that surprised his toast-and-coffee stomach, he began to worry about his car.

"If the weather is going to keep on like this. I'd better drive into town and have the car winterized," he said. "I can look up some of the boys at the same time."

He drove out of the yard with all the windows of the car closed tightly against the cold. Probably he switched on the heater, too His mother, watching him drive down the road, said he was driving slowly as though he were looking at all the old scenes carefully.

It was later decided that when he approached the railroad crossing he had not heard the train through the closed windows, that he had not slowed down or watched for a train because the crossing had such a friendly familiar look.

SENIOR

In English we are diagraming sentences. We have a substitute teacher, Mrs. Robert Andreae, due to the illness of Mr. Cappon.

In history we are going to start on chapter VI. The War for Independence. We are also doing and checking our program of Information on World Affairs.

The addition of fractions now constitutes our business arithmetic diet.

In physics we have been concerned with the specific gravity of solids and liquids.

We are working on budgets in bookkeeping.

In shorthand we are still reading shorthand in our books. We haven't started to write it yet.

Odd as it may seem, we are typing in typing class!

JUNIOR

Another year has come and the problem of writing the class news has risen. We start with Drivers' Training: BEWARE! All pedestrians off the streets between 1:40 and 2:40 p. m. Monday. Driving begins with Lois Helps and JoAnn Burgess at the wheel.

Typing

English

We are trying to recall our knowledge from last year about verbs along with studying our play parts.

Government

We studied different stages of civilization along with Commerce, Congress, Congressional and Presidential elections and various qualifications and duties of each.

Business Arithmetic

We have added and subtracted fractions along with working with decimals.

Physics

We have studied molecules and their behavior, pressure and liquids along with atmospheric pressure.

—Daisy and Lois

SOPHOMORE

Biology has been a steady round of trying to talk Brother Johnson into cutting up the bullfrog in the cupboard.

In Algebra we have been doing what we should have done last year because we didn't and we should have. Anyway, we're doing it what ever it is. Oh yeah, we listened to the world series.

We haven't done anything worth writing about in history so we won't.

English is different. We got the boards dirty, used up a lot of chalk, and learned that intransitive pasive isn't intransitive passive.

THE MODERN WIFE

The modern wife is quite precise
In caring how she looks.
In fact, she dresses fit to kill
And that is how she cooks.

EDITORIAL

After waiting impatiently for the first six weeks of school while difficulties in The Times office were being settled, we have finally started work on our paper. Instead of the usual edition we put out every two weeks, our paper will be printed every week in The Klemme Times. There won't be room for all of the articles that we had last year, but we're trying to squeeze most of them in. Since we won't have our own paper this year, we are hoping to put out a yearbook. From reports so far, this plan isn't very hopeful.

Harvey Johnson is taking over the position as sponsor of the paper to replace Mr. Cappon, who had this job for the last two years.

—Your Editors

SENIOR INTERVIEW

Ila Mae Anderson was born August 24, 1936, on a farm 4 miles south of Klemme, where she lives now. She has 4 brothers and 2 sisters. Ila Mae is 5 feet 7 inches tall, and has brown hair and brown eyes. She attended Twin Lake No. 6 through the 8th grade and then came to Klemme. "Squeak" is her nickname and people who continually pester her is her pet peeve. Reading and roller skating are her favorite pastimes and collecting dolls is her hobby. When she goes to a movie she likes to see Esther Williams or Bing Crosby. Ila Mae likes eating hamburgers and french fries and listening to her favorite song, "Tennessee Border". Her activities in and out of school consist of: playing girls basketball for 3 years, Treasurer of the Girls Society of Christian Service, member of the Methodist Church and Youth Fellowship, and had a part in the Junior Class Play. After graduation her plans are to get a secretarial job or work in a telephone office.

—Eunice Helps

In math we have been constructing and bisecting angles and segments. For this we need all kinds of tools (rulers, protractors, and compasses) which half the class doesn't have and always forget to buy.

In English we have all been straining our brains by attempting to learn 300 spelling words.

In home ec. we've been trying to make all the things we need for an entire breakfast. Sometimes these things don't turn out so well. We sometimes think we have more failures than successes.

In shop the boys have been learning to use drawing instruments and the purpose and language of drawing. They haven't started to hit their fingers and thumbs with hammers yet.

In science we've been slaving away like mad. We have tried to conduct some experiments which practically blew up the school house. We have all been faithfully trying to catch up with our notebooks, but we haven't yet.

Sports . . .

BOYS BASKETBALL

This year, Mr. Cappon, thinks that we will have a good team. There are three seniors out for basketball; Larry Stille, Bill Waddingham, and Bobby Beier. There are 6 juniors; Noel Egeland, Tom Waddingham, Roger Terhufen, Dennis Ridder, Dick Baack and Ronald Karsjens. There are 9 sophomores out; LuVerne Josten, Graydon Barz, Dick Dulmes, Donald Thieman, Gary Day, Allen Neuberger, Cecil Jacobs, Harry Anderson, and Lyle Pannhoff. There are 6 freshmen out; Douglas Jones, Donald Kramer, David Waddingham, Warren Terhufen, and Dennis Haefner. Altogether there are 24 out for basketball. There may be more later on that go out for it. Our first game is November 11, with Woden. Mr. Francis Johnson and Mr. Ahrenkiel, are taking over for the time being as coaches.

—Calvin Sandry

BASEBALL

Our season this year has been above average. The team went to the finals in the sectional tournament being beaten by Kanawha 24 to 1. We beat LuVerne 9 to 1 the first game, Meservey 14 to 6 the second game and Kanawha beat us in the final game. We have scored 74 runs to our opponents 55. The team has made a little more than 2 errors per game, 24 errors in all. Thieman was our power hitter, hitting .429. Our season record was 6 won and 4 lost.

—Larry Stille

GIRLS BASKETBALL

Wednesday afternoon we went in to see Mr. Johnson about this year's basketball team. He has 16 girls out for basketball. They are: Harriet Anderson, Faye Janssen, Elda Polsdofer, Dorothy Lacey, Emily Goll, Shirley Wilson, Daisy Schaefer, Lois Christians, Jo Ellen Clabaugh, Margaret Haefner, Ione Rosendahl, Ila Anderson, Sharon Bridges, Carol Bridges, Gracka Gerardi, and Shirley Barz.

If the girls work hard, he believes they will have an average team. He also said he doesn't believe the eighth grade girls are mature enough to play on the high school team.

The girls started practice on Tuesday, October 7th. Their 1st game will be November 11 with Woden. The schedule for the coming year will be:

Nov 11, Woden, here
Nov. 14, Hayfield, here

RECIPE FOR HAPPINESS

It is not what we take from life but what we give which makes us rich.

"BILL'S NIGHT OUT" HAS COMEDY, DRAMA

"Bill's Night Out!" This is the title of the Junior Class play to be given tonight, October 15th. The plot of the story centers around Bill Anderson, a typical seventeen year old high school boy. The play begins when Bill gets up Saturday morning and remembers that he wrecked the family car the night before. He had been making a big impression on Patricia Harris, the new girl at Central High, when someone ran him into the ditch. Bill is at his wits end because a friend arrives to tell him that it will cost a thousand dollars to get the car running again; but he is sure he can work things out in time. First Bill's older sister, then his mother, and finally his father all tell him they want to use the car. To make matters worse, Bill's dream girl, Patricia, arrives to announce that they are no longer speaking to each other. Mr. Harris, Patricia's father is going to thrash the boy who is responsible for Patricia's black eye, which she received in the accident. To add to the excitement, Bill discovers that the car which he wrecked was not his father's car at all. In the car which Bill wrecked was a little black bag, which was mistaken for one of Patricia's belongings and contained the loot from a bank robbery. The bandits are right after the money. So all in all Bill is really in trouble. This promises to be exciting as well as humorous. Be on hand at 8:00 P. M. Wednesday, October 15, at the high school gymnasium.

HISTORY OF KLEMME

(Second Installment)

Last week we told you about Anson Avery, our first settler.

The next settlement was in Ellington Township, on Lime Creek. The pioneers were John Maben and Jacob Ward, and the date of their location was Sept. 27, 1855. During the next year several more families moved to the Ellington settlement.

Ten years later, in 1865, the Crystal Lake settlement was started by Edwin Trumbell and Myron Booth, and in 1870, Garner was platted by John Maben.

HANCOCK COUNTY

Hancock County was organized in 1858, and eleven years later, in 1869, the brick court house building was erected in Concord at a cost of $10,000.00. This building was used for thirty years. Then in 1899 the Garner community put up $30,000.00 with which the new court house was built in Garner.

The government survey divided Hancock County into sixteen townships, and the four townships in the southeast corner of the county may be called the close-in territory of the Klemme community. Klemme is located where the four townships meet. Namely; Ell, Liberty, Twin Lake and Avery. Ell Township, organized Oct. 14, 1879, was named for Sebastian Ell an early settler.

Liberty Township, organized Oct. 14, 1879, was first named German Township because the first settlers were from Germany. During World War I some meddling agitator succeeded in getting the name changed to Liberty. This, in the opinion of many, was a mistake, for the people of this township were, and still are, 100% loyal to this country. Changing the name could not change the hearts of the people . . . . and furthermore, the name German Township was most appropriate.

Twin Lake Township, organized Oct. 7, 1882, was named for the two lakes it contains.

RAILROADS

In 1875, the "Slippery Elm" pushed its grade northward from Dows, through Klemme and on toward Forest City, but bad luck overtook them and the road was never completed The contractors who were building the grade, absconded with the money, which bankrupted the company, and cheated many a teamster and many a laboring man out of his summer's wages.

Nine years later, in 1884, the B. CR & N. built and completed a railroad running parallel to the old Slippery Elm grade. This new road extended from Dows to Hayfield. It is interesting to note that Mrs. Frank Roths was the cook for the B. CR & N. construction crew.

For convenience in unloading ties and material while building the B. CR & N. track, they put in a temporary side track at what they called "Porter Siding" which was about one and a half miles north of Klemme.

THE OLD TRAILS

When Iowa was first organized as a state they enacted the "Herd Law" which said if you had cattle or other livestock you must herd them so that they would not molest your neighbor. Then about 1892, the state enacted the "Fence Law" which said if your neighbor puts up half the line fence between you and him, he can force you to put in your half. When the question came up as to which half of the fence each neighbor should erect, it was customary for neighboring land owners to stand facing each other over the fence and each build the fence on his right hand. Thus there was no confusion as to which half of the fence each owner should build.

Thus you see, there were very few line fences enclosing the farms or the fields in 1884, and in driving from town to town you followed trails along the higher ground. There was a path in the tough prairie sod for each horse to follow. When you came to a slough or a pond the paths would make a detour. The trail from Klemme to Garner followed the old Slippery Elm grade and went straight north from Klemme and connected with the main road about two miles south of Concord which was the county seat at that time.

Going south from Klemme to Amsterdam (Goodell) and Belmond, the best trail was a mile east from the present No. 69 pavement. There was another cross country trail from Belmond to Clear Lake. The government land office was at Clear Lake and all settlers arriving before 1870 went there to pay the one dollar per acre for their farms. Some eastern speculators purchased most of the land in Twin Lake Township and held it for two dollars per acre. They got it, too.

In 1884 there was a wet draw through the farm where Klemme now is located. It extended from the town park, southwest to the corner of the T. Blank property. Mr. H. J. Klemme had a "Bull Ditch" put through, but still there was a pond on the park site, which even had some muskrat houses in it. To cross this wet draw, they put in a small bridge near where Clifford Montgomery now lives (Block 13 in Klemme's Add). All the traffic from south and east of Klemme came over this bridge. This wet draw has now been tiled and one could hardly believe that this spot was often impassable.

KLEMME BEGINS

1889 was an important year in the history of Klemme. In the spring of that year, several thrifty farmers petitioned the B. CR & N. railroad to put in a side track at this place. The railroad had just been extended from Dows to Hayfield and these farmers wanted a nearby side track where they might load and ship their grain and hay.

The superintendent of the railroad came to view the proposed site, but the crops were growing so thick, and the tall corn was growing so close to the tracks that he couldn't see a thing. The farmers showed him a haystack nearby and he climbed up and got a birdseye view of this beautiful farm land, and he liked what he saw, so the site for the side track was approved.

The side track was built at once, and also a platform where the farmers could stand and "flag" a ride on the train, or could stop the train and talk to the conductor about ordering cars. The prospects for business looked so good that the railroad company built a small depot the same year. Fred Smidt of Belmond was sent here as the first agent. He was married the next spring and he and his wife lived in the depot. All this was in 1889—63 years ago.

COMMERCIAL

A woman from Garner brought us a sewing machine for repairs. It was a New Home Sewing Machine — treadle type — purchased for $30.00, sixty years ago from our predecessor, Eli Schaefer. All it needed was a new shuttle, a few adjustments, and cleaning, which made it sew like new again.

We still sell the NEW HOME. Not because we are in a rut, but because the New Home stands up well, and we still consider it best for the money.

LARGE CROWD HEARS COLLEGE SINGERS

(By Rev. E. M. Egeland)

A large and appreciative audience from surrounding communities, which filled the sanctuary of the Klemme Methodist Church on Sunday evening, heard six students from Rust College, Holly Springs, Mississippi, under the direction of their faculty counsellor, Miss Margaret Bays, present a concert of sacred music. The program included vocal solos, male quartet numbers, and selections by the entire ensemble of two young women and four young men.

The group, one of four on promotional tours representing their college, in Iowa, Minnesota and the Dakotas, was to appear in Clear Lake on Monday evening and in Crystal Lake on Tuesday evening of this week. Since the Klemme concert was presented on Sunday, there were no novelty numbers on the program, but all of the religious numbers, including Negro spirituals and jubilee numbers were greatly enjoyed by those present. This was particularly true of the solo, "Bless This House", sung by the second tenor of the group. While every member of the group did a fine job, special mention should be made of soprano, Pecola Thurman, for her typically Negro leads in the spiritual and jubilee numbers.

A social hour followed the program, in the Church parlors, in which some of the young people became a bit better acquainted with the visiting singers and their leader. Following coffee and cookies served by Mrs. Kenneth Medin, Mrs. Vivian Mace and Mrs. John Chambers, the group enjoyed a period of informal singing around the piano. The Rust College singers were over night guests in the Emil Beier, John Chambers and E. M. Egeland homes.

Corn Has High Moisture Content Despite Unusually Dry Weather

Record Breaking Yield, But Danger of Heating Slows Down Harvest

This has been an ideal year for corn. From planting time right on through the growing season until now when picking time is here, conditions for corn have been nearly perfect. However, there is one "fly in the ointment", and no one seems to be able to figure out just what is the cause.

As dry as it has been during the past weeks, a time when corn normally wants dry weather to make it mature and dry out, there is still a surprisingly high amount of moisture in most samples brought in for testing.

We sat in the office of the Klemme Co-op. Grain Company, Monday afternoon, and saw several samples tested. Dryest of any was from Ed Becker's farm operated by Walter Blumer, and it was still at 21%. Most of the samples being run are showing from 25 to 28%. With 23% being the accepted safe-cribbing figure, many are reluctant to really start picking in earnest, yet they would like to get their corn out of the field before bad weather sets in. Some who got the "bug" too early have had to shell what they had cribbed because of heating.

BIG YIELDS

Aside from the fact that the moisture content is holding back final operations on this year's crop, most are extremely happy about it. Yields are running at an unusually high rate, and we heard of one 20-acre field (Bill Neuberger's) that ran out 135 bushels to the acre. That'e corn. Especially for a field that large.

Dwight Helps dropped in at the Grain Company office while we were there, and talking with him brought forth this comment: "Ive never seen corn like this before. I thought all season that I had good corn, but I sure didn't know how good. Man, it's really nice! One round and I've got a load. Takes just about ten minutes."

GOOD THING

These large yields are coming at just the right time, too. We talked to "Mike" and "Walt" at the elevator, and they said that due to the past two bad corn years, on-the-farm supplies were running pretty low. Many were having to buy corn for feed, and with the drop in the cattle and hog markets they were forced to operate on a pretty small margin. For those who have been farming and feeding long enough to build up a little "cushion" this isn't so bad, but for the ones just getting started it makes things tough. These are the ones who are really glad to see this bumper crop.

Interview With County Auditor Erases Confusion for Local Voters

Reformation Day Service at Klemme High School

The annual Hancock County Reformation Day Service will be held in the Klemme High School auditorium on Sunday evening, October 26th at 8:00. The meeting, sponsored by the county ministeral association, is one of many being held across the nation on the last Sunday in October by groups of cooperating city and county Protestant congregations.

Guest speaker at the Klemme service will be Dr. J. J. Davies, minister, lecturer and world traveler, the pastor of the First

DR. J. J. DAVIES

Methodist Church of Fort Dodge. Dr. Davies, always an informative, humorous, patriotic and inspirational speaker, was born in Amlwch, Wales and has lived in Iowa 40 years. He has made six trips to Europe and on his most recent trip a year ago, visited several Iron Curtain countries, "Chips" is the general title of a weekly column by Mr. Davies appearing in a number of daily papers.

Special music for the service will be provided by the youth choir of the first Methodist Church of Garner and the women's chorus of the Immanuel Evangelical and Reformed Church of Klemme. Presiding at the service will be the Rev. S. W. Cunningham, pastor of the Garner Methodist Church and association president. Other ministerial members of the county association will assist in the service. The general public is cordially invited to attend.

Goodell Fire Department Stops Grass Fire, Sunday

Sunday afternoon, about 1:30 o'clock, the Goodell Fire Department was called to the Sumner Fuller farm, 5 miles southeast of Klemme. Mr. Fuller had started to burn a pile of cobs in the ditch along the road south of his buildings, and things got out of hand. However, the Goodell firemen arrived on the scene in good time and soon had the fire under control.

Hancock County Voters Need Not Register to Vote in Big Election

CONFUSION RESULTS FROM HIGH-POWERED RADIO, TV ADVERTISING

In an interview, Friday, with County Auditor Maynard Schoneman, it was ascertained that much confusion has arisen among Hancock County voters as to whether or not they must register to vote. Schoneman says that many people have been in to his office wanting to know where they should register, and when told that they did not, seemed very surprised.

It is necessary for voters to register in cities whose population exceeds a certain figure, and in some cities it is necessary that they register, due to a city ordinance requiring registration. However, no city in Hancock County falls into either of these categories . . . so don't be confused by the high-powered "get out the vote" advertising you hear over the radio and see on TV. If you live in this county you don't have to register to legally go to the polls.

EXPLAINS VOTING MIXED BALLOT

In talking further with Auditor Schoneman, it came to light that many people are in doubt as to just how to mark their ballot in order to be sure that they are voting for all their favorite candidates. He explains just how it should be done, in a simple and easy way.

If your inclination is to vote a straight Republican or Democratic ticket, you will find a circle at the top of each party's column that requires an X to make your vote count for every candidate in that column. If, however, you wish to vote for nearly all candidates of one party, and only few of the other party, you handle that very easily, too. Simply X the circle at the head of the party column that you want most of your votes to benefit. Then X the small squares by the names of the candidates from the opposing party, that you wish to vote for. Your X in these squares will automatically cancel the opposing candidate.

If you're voting a thoroughly mixed ticket, the safest way is to go over the whole ballot, and X in each and every candidate you want in office.

CHRISTMAS SEAL MEETING TO BE IN BRITT CHURCH

Fire Hazard

In the past ten tays our fire department has had to answer several country calls. None of them were because of fire in buildings. Rather, they were grass fires . . . or in a couple of cases corn pickers had gotten ablaze in the field. Sunday, the Goodell Fire Department was called out to fight a grass fire.

It seems to us that these fires, all started in dry vegetation, should point out something to us.

In the mountains around Los Angeles, California, where there is much dry grass and scrubby growth, there are many areas where they are very strict about fires of any kind. In fact, they even go so far as to put signs on the highway, "No smoking beyond this point". That always seemed to us to be carrying things a little too far, but we would guess that they have lost to many homes in flash brush fires, to take any chances.

Our mountains here, are pretty flat, but our vegetation is just as dry right now as that in California ever is . . . and a lot of our dry acres are carrying a valuable crop of corn. A little extra care with fire and cigarets at this time would seem to us to be quite in order.

None of us would like to be responsible for the burning of one of those beautiful corn fields, and if we try we can make sure that we aren't.

Too Busy

Last week we were busier than the proverbial cranberry merchant. The work was a little new, we had extra pages to get out, and we made a few changes in The Times. All of this made towards more time in getting out the paper.

We wanted to thank everyone for the fine send-off that they gave us, but we just couldn't seem to find the time to get anything to that affect written. However, whether we've got the time or not, this week we can at least give out with a big "THANKS", everybody.

New Type

Among other things that we didn't get done last week was to tell you that we had new "body" type for our paper. Ray was good enough to furnish us with a brand new font to start with, and if you had compared the looks of the news type in last week's paper with that of two weeks ago, you would certainly have noticed the difference. Where the old type had "been through the mill" and had been beaten out of alignment, the new lines up perfectly and shows none of the hairlines between letters that were noticeable in previous issues. We know that this will help us to have a neater looking paper and an easier one to read.

Better Vote

Once every four years you get a chance to vote for the man you want for President of the United States. That's a privilege you shouldn't miss out on. Pick your "boy", go to the polls on November 4th, and have the satisfaction of having done our part in running our country.

Help! Help!

The story carried in last week's Times with regard to formation of a "blood donor pool", has not brought forth any great quantities of donors. In fact, as of Tuesday evening, there was one name on the list. We don't know just why people should be so reluctant to take part in this project. It is certainly for a good cause . . . and in carrying it to completion there should be a great deal of satisfaction derived for the individual donors . . . not to mention the fact that everyone in the community will benefit. All that is required is to see Dr. Dulmes, and he will "zero you in" as to what steps need to be taken to get your name on the list.

Funnies vs. Shamrock

Something had to go. We don't have room enough in our normal paper for both the funnies and the school pper, so out went the funnies. We thought that the dailies carried enough funnies for most people, but none of them carry a detailed account of what is going on at KHS.

New Department

This week we started something new out of something old. We hope you will get a "bang" out of the items taken from old copies of The Times. We did when we looked back to hunt them out. We have taken them from the papers published nearest this date, ten, twenty and thirty years ago.

CORN IS USED IN NEW TEXTILES

The next time you shop for a suit of dress and find one with a luxuriously soft feel at a price that leaves your budget intact, you might discover that the Midwest's best-known farm product—corn—accounts for its air of luxury.

Called Vicara, the new fiber is made from the protein in corn and is becoming increasing popular with manufacturers because of the feel of softness which it gives fabrics when blended with other other fibers, according to Merle Ramer, instructor in textiles and clothing at the State University of Iowa.

Vicara, blends with nylon or wool in sweaters, for example, to produce garments unmatched in softness and that "luxury feel" by anything except pure cashmere, Miss Ramer says. Yet they carry an economical price tag. Also the marked elasticity of Vicara makes it particularly suitable for knit goods.

Since it makes dress and suit materials easier to drape and work with, it is good news for those who make their own clothes Miss Ramer explains. Vicara also adds to wearing comfort, since the softness is gives blends in with harsher fibers tends to lessen the "scratchiness" that irritates tender skins.

Blended in fabrics with a crisp surface, such as gabardine, Vicara softens their texture, improves their draping quality and appearance, and also increases their wrinkle resistance. Hence, a suit or dress of such material will feel better on, hang better, and resist wrinkles and creases.

Vicara is totally resistant to moths and mildew and is washable. Its high absorbency means is adds to the comfort of any fabric worn next to the skin, Miss Ramer explains. Blended with nylon in socks, for example, it keeps them from feeling clingy or clammy, offsetting nylon's slowness to absorb perspiration.

The strength of Vicara fiber is approximately equal to that of wool, it may be increased considerably by blending with such strong fibers as nylon. In fact, the qualities of nylon and Vicara dovetail particularly well, nylon contributing durability and strength to fabrics, while Vicara gives them softness and absorbency, Miss Ramer says.

EDITORIAL

School business is serious and more students should take it that way. Too many students take school for granted and expect teachers to make grades for them.

Poor grades are the results of lack of interest, study and poor conduct in class. If a student hasn't an interest in his work you can't expect him to get good grades, and it is up to the teachers to keep up his interest. The teachers can't be expected to build up the students interest if he will not co-operate in class.

After all. the future of America rests with the young people who are now in school. This is where they develop the knowledge and ability to be good citizens and intelligent leaders.

What kind of citizens will we make?

—The Editors

? ? OF THE WEEK

Question: Who do you think will be elected president in November? Why?

Merlyn Olson: Probably General Eisenhower because so many people are in back of him now.

Sharon Ward: General Eisenhower because we need a change in the government.

Lois C.: General Eisenhower. There might be another world war and we should have a president who knows something about fighting. If Stevenson became president, I think he would do just what Truman did and would not improve the government one bit.

Carole M.: Ike. He's best liked by the people.

Margaret B.: Ike. He presents the best policy, knows more about the foreign policy and what we should do about the Korean War.

Lois Ann Jacobs: Ike. He has had military experience and should know what to do in time of war.

SENIOR

The seniors are still waiting for the return of our English teacher, Mr. Cappon. In English, we are diagraming sentences on appositives and participles. Mrs. Andreae is taking over for the time being.

In history we are studying, The Making of the Constitution and trying to get out of taking tests. Just ask John about that.

In typing we are still working on our practice sets which will continue the first semester.

In bookkeeping we are trying to learn how to make a budget and a cash journal, which seems very difficult to some people.

We are studying the atmosphere and its pressure in Physics.

In shorthand class we are starting to write. We find it difficult, but it will be even more so as we have to use a pen.

SOPHOMORE

This is biology? Dodging questions and Harvey is Biology? I'll take vanilla. When do we forget books (officially, I mean) and start to decapitate worms and such.

Now history is different. We had a test a while ago and haven't come from under the tables yet. Isn't there some sort of law against slave labor?

"Something is rotten in the state of Denmark," Huh? Well anyway we had to diagram that thing in English. What's all the fuss about? Shakespeare was dead long ago.

As usual in algebra we have been doing algebra, heaven rest our poor, cussed souls.

In study hall we've been doing everything we shouldn't be and nothing we should.

Well, I guess that's all. Goodbye. It's class time.

FRESHMAN

Here we are again trying to make our class news sound interesting. We are getting the floor and ourselves, too, all full of chalk dust from the new erasers in math class. After we finish finding the areas of rectangles and trapezoids on the board we wipe the chalk dust that is on our hands on our clothes and shake the erasers on the floor.

English class is really rolling along, but will probably stop with a jerk or lose half the class any minute. We the learning about transitive and intransitive verbs.

Muffins were experimented with in Home Ec. We put dates in some, cherries ni some others, and blueberries in some more. The date muffins weren't so bad, the cherry muffins weren't so good and the blueberry muffins looked like my bruised knee.

In shop the boys are finishing some kind of drawings. (The word is to big for me to spell.) They are about to make plans for their projects.

In Science class we conducted an experiment which instead of blowing up the schoolhouse practically burned it down. We aren't doing much more, so, "So much for that."

TEACHER INTERVIEW

Francis N. Johnson was born on a farm near Forest City, Ia., January 1, 1928. After attending Mt. Valley No. 8 school, five miles east of Forest City, from kindergarten through the eight grade, he went to high school at Fertile for two years and finished high school at Forest City.

After serving two years in the navy, he attended Waldorf College at Forest City for two years. He also attended Luther College at Decorah. Liking to work with children was his main reason for starting to teach.

When he gives an assignment and a few minutes later somebody asks him to repeat it is his pet peeve.

Strawberries are his favorite food. Hunting and fishing are his hobbies and pastime. Marilyn Monroe and Humphrey Bogart are his favorite movie stars. His wife's name is Marilyn and they have two children, a boy and a girl.

This is his first year of teaching. He teaches Bookkeeping, Shorthand, Typing I and II and coaches girls basketball. Plans as to how long he will teach are indefinite.

RECIPE FOR HAPPINESS

If nobody smiled and nobody cheered
And nobody helped us along,
If each one, each minute, looked after himself,
And good things all went to the strong;
If nobody cared just a little for you,
And nobody thought about me,
And we all stood alone in the battle of life,

Ticket Sales of $231.00 for "Bill's Night Out"

The Junior class play, "Bills Night Out",. was a huge success. The gym was filled to capacity. Ticket sales amounted to $231.00

The play was enjoyed by everyone who attended I'm sure. Each person in the cast acted his part very well.

The setting was a typical living room of an American home. The furnishings, loaned by the Wellemeyer Furniture Store, were very appropriate.

Music was provided between acts by Barbara Thompson and Val Stromer. Barbara played a baritone solo, "Magnolia," and Val, a cornet solo, "Polka Lilacs."

Congratulations, Juniors for a grand performance!

EIGHTH GRADE

The eighth graders have completed their booklets, "My Life Story". This booklet was completed for the "open house" the past week. It contains a story of their lives with pictures. These booklets are very interesting and the students invite anyone to come and read them.

We were very fortunate to have a speaker from Sweden, Mrs. Hermanson, give a talk and also answer our questions on her native Sweden. The class thoroughly enjoyed this.

The junior high basketball boys and girls are looking forward to another good year. So far only four games have been scheduled but we hope to play about twelve this year.

The junior high will sell magazine subscriptions to get money for suits. Please cooperate with them by buying a subscription from some junior high student.

SEVENTH GRADE

We have made a chart to record the class standing in Self-Testing Drills in math. Those showing improvement in the second drill are: Barbara Avery, Charles Bacon, Jeanne Barz, Harlan Block, Karen Clabaugh, Betty Clayton, Paul Gilpin, Raymond Helps, Gordon Johnson, Elaine Jurgemeyer, Dorothy Kroehnke, Joyce Lassahn, Diana Masterson, Roger Olson, Rosalie Rosendahl, Douglas Roul and Linda Swalve. Greatest improvement was made by Raymond Helps and Diana Masterson.

This week we have a new student, Coleen Cline. She came to us from Forest City and we hope she enjoys her work with us.

SIXTH GRADE

One day this week the sixth grade enjoyed hearing about Sweden from Mrs. Hermanson, who is visiting in this community. She wore her native costume and told us many things about her country. Then she answered questions which we asked her.

In science we are studying the solar system. We are learning many interesting things about the planets.

Last week eighty percent of our class had perfect spelilng scores.

FIFTH GRADE

Mrs. Nels Hermanson, dressed in her national costume, gave a talk on Sweden in our room Monday. The children feel they now know more about her native land.

In our geography and history classes we are studying the beginning of the United States. Our history deals with the settling of our country while our geography explains how the settlers found the land in this new world.

Craig Wilson left our room October 17. We are sorry he moved away, but we hope he will be happy in his new school at Roland.

We are having a dental race between the boys and the girls in our room. At the present our sides are tied. We hope our parents will take the rest of us children to the dentist soon.

FOURTH GRADE

During the last seven weeks we've been very busy studying many new things.

In geography we've taken fanciful travels to Iceland, Norway and the Netherlands We've found all three countries fascinating, especially the Netherlands, its large cities and the customs of the people.

Arithmetic has proved to be full of all kinds of new methods. This year we are learning to multiply and divide.

Those to get perfect scores in spelling last week were: Mariyane Baack, Sharon Bachman, Billy DeMeritt, Billy Heginger, Jerry Kropp, Duane Kramer, Claudia Neuberger, Daryl Schlei, Joanne Trampel, Patricia Ulrich and Ellen Waddingham.

CORN BORER INFESTATION BAD THIS FALL

Harold Gunderson, Iowa State College Entomologist says a high corn borer count of 250 borers per 100 plants with a 100% infestation was found in a corn field near Hutchins in Hancock County. This means a heavy corn borer year in 1953 unless every farm is prepared to combat these pests in 1953. Clean plowing, frequent observation and wise use of chemicals are suggested for 1953.

Check our own fields this fall is the advice given to Hancock Corn producers by Paul Henderson, Hancock County extension director.

HISTORY OF KLEMME

(By Arthur Wellemeyer)
(Third Installment)

PLATS TOWN

H. J. Klemme, of Belmond, owned the farm on which this new depot was built. He got busy and laid out streets and lots and recorded the plat for the original town on October 18, 1889, and he called the town, KLEMME.

Summer Hall, of Chicago, an uncle of Sum Trumbell, was the surveyor for the original town, and the two men who dragged the surveyor's chain and drove the stakes were August Barz and Henry Wille.

It should also be mentioned that Henry Wille farmed this quarter section of land where Klemme now stands, for four years prior to the platting of the town. The farm home where Mr. Wille lived was located at the east end of the land near where Jake Hess now lives. This house was later moved toward the center of the town and is now known as the Martha Bredbenner residence.

It should also be noted that a farm boy by the name of Herman R. Stromer hauled the first gravel into the new town. They needed filling for the new depot platform, and he hauled them three loads for which he received a total of 75 cents.

Dan Webner, Sr. happened to be the man who hauled the first load of wheat to the Klemme side track.

ERECTS WAREHOUSE

While the side track was being built, Henry Lau erected a warehouse near the tracks where the Northern Lumber Yard now stands. He dealt in hay, grain and coal, and carried a small stock of staple groceries. He also bought butter and eggs. John Terhufen (Glen Terhufen's Dad) worked for him in the store, and J. J. Stille also helped during rush times. After about a year, Mr. Lau sold his stock of groceries to Schaefer and Dow. From his old ledger we copied names of "Old Timers" who traded at his store. Here are a few of them.

Henry Suckow, Will Lau, Asa Gibbs, Wm. F. Stille, Chas. Velau, Sr., Ernest Schuldt, Wm. F. Greimann, Julius Bettin, Fred Haupt, C. Schoenwetter, Andrew Schwartz, Herman Ludeke, Fred Schuldt, Henry Freie, Anson Avery, August Katter, Geo. Schaefer, Edw. Schaefer, Louis Sampson, Carl Priebe, Fred Schlei, Val Josten, Sr., Carl Stromer, August Stromer, Wm. X. Smith, A. B. Schaefer, Henry Wille, August Martin, Chas. Lund, Joe Costello, Wm. Beier, Sr., and Frank Roths.

Shortly after Mr. Lau sold his store, carloads of lumber and limestone began to arrive and after the tall corn stalks were chopped off, they built a store building for Schaefer and Dow, on the lots where Pete's Service Center now stands.

The same fall (1889) Erickson and Jackson built a warehouse for grain where the south elevator now stands, and they sent a young man by the name of Nels Erickson to run it. This was a fine business. All you had to do was shovel grain into the warehouse and when a carload accumulated, young Erickson would load out the car with a wheelbarrow.

Thus the first year of 1889 came to a close, and while the snow lay deep on the ground, this lively group of Klemme Boosters were planning further improvements for the town. In the early spring of 1890, even before the frost was out of the ground, these people were busy rolling niggerheads into piles and unloading lumber.

BUILDING BOOM

The building boom had now started in earnest. In fact a score of business places were completed during the next two years. They were built in about the following order:

A farmers creamery was built near the R. R. tracks with Dan Webner President, Ed Dow Secretary and Alex Kirkwood buttermaker. Mike Haskins and A. C. Wright were cream haulers. We want to mention here that Mrs. Alex Kirkwood was the 1st woman to live in the new town of Klemme, she was here six weeks before any other women arrived.

FIRST CHILD BORN

Next J. W. Buetner and Henry Peitzke built a Blacksmith Shop on the lot where the State Bank now stands (now occupied by Dukes Cafe) and they built a little residence size 14 x 18, on the rear of the same lot, and in this little house Hazel Peitzke was born, June 6th, 1890, the first baby born in Klemme

About this time Walter Bloom came to town He bought the grain warehouse from Erickson and Jackson for $200.00, moved it to one side and built the south elevator, putting in a regular dump and used two blind horses on a horse power, they went round and round in a covered shed.

George Kluckhohn built the Meat Market where the C. A. Larsen Food Market now is, and lived in the rooms over his meat shop.

FIRST BOY ARRIVES

Here we pause to report the second baby born in Klemme, namely Helen Ruth Bloom. Shortly after Clarence Kluckhohn was born in the rooms over the Butcher shop. He was the third baby born in town, but he claims special honor because he was the first boy baby. He arrived December 31, 1891. (he was the beginning of Klemme's famous baseball team.)

OLD TOWN WELL

A town well was located in the center of main street, at the intersection between the stores. All the horses and cows in town were watered here, and the merchants families, who lived over the stores, came here for water. This first well was about 65 feet deep.

Lew Lewis, civil war veteran, came to Porters Siding in about 1887, two years before Klemme was platted. He rented prairie land, cut the hay, baled it and shipped it out a car at a time from this spot. His partner, William Price, bought hogs. About the time Klemme started, Lew Lewis moved to town, put up a big hay barn of 10 car capacity on the August C. Lau lots. It is interesting to note that the Railway Company built a short length of track up into his hay barn so that he could load a few ton of baled hay onto a hand car and push it to the side track for easy loading into the box car.

Mr. Lewis stated that the oats crop in 1889 was the best ever raised here. Many fields averaged 100 bushels per acre and sold for 12c per bushel. Mr. Lewis, in 1890 bought a fine milk cow for $16.00.

Finch and Hayward built the North Elevator which was operated by John Gruetzmacher and Henry Terhufen (Glen Terhufen's granddad.)

The First National Bank was established in 1892, they built a small frame building on main street.

THE FIRST DEATH

About this time the first death occurred in Klemme. Alma, the three year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Gruetzmacher died in February 1892, and was buried in the Klemme Cemetery. This was one of the first burials in this cemetery. There were possibly a half dozen burials prior to this but these were brought in from the rural area nearby.

This Ell Township Cemetery was platted and opened for use on April 3rd, 1899, B. D. Webner, Asa Gibbs and Fred Bock, who were the Trustees at the time. The land was purchased from S. B. Day for $380.00. The surveyor was J. E. Rathburn.

More than 70 million dollars a year in state funds is available for building and maintaining roads under Iowa's current road building program. All taxes connected with highway use — gasoline tax, automobile and truck licenses, motor carrier taxes, etc. — are set aside for maintaining and improving Iowa highways.

Lions Club Charter Night Marks Milepost for Klemme

Grass Fires Give Fire Department Bad Time, Sunday

Fight Wrong Fire But Mission Accomplished

Sunday morning was a big one for the local fire department. They got a call to get right out to Carl Pearsons, as they had a grass fire going that could give trouble if it wasn't controlled.

Away they went, headed for the Pearson farm. However, when they got as far as Roy Jacobs' place, there was a good hot fire going there. Several rods of roadside ditch had been burned, and about half of his meadow was already gone. The flames didn't need to go too much further, and they would have been eating a hole in a corn field. The boys assumed that here was there fire, so they immediately went to work.

It took them some time to get the fire under control, but with the aid of John Waddingham who brought his tractor and plow and helped Roy plow a strip between the fire and the corn field, they finally got the job done.

About this time, along came "Herb" Pearson, and he said, "Boys, you won't need to come out to our place now, we've got our fire out." Imagine the surprise of the fire laddies. Here they thought that someone had given them wrong directions in the first place, and then to find out that they had stopped at a fire to which they hadn't even been called well . .

Pearson's fire could have been bad. It was threatening their grove, and if it hadn't been controlled could have taken all the buildings, but so far as we can learn, the only real damage resulting from both fires was to Leon Gilpin. A pitchfork was run through his hand while helping at Pearsons. Dr. Dulmes patched him up, and says that he'll no doubt recover.

Anyway there was a hot time out southeast, Sunday morning, and the confused and busy fire department is praying for rain.

Farmer has Narrow Escape with Picker

Virgil Waddingham, farmer southeast of Klemme, nearly lost his hand last week. He got his hand caught in the snapping rollers of his corn picker. He was able to shut off the machine after he was caught, but he could not free himself.

Harm Katuin went by on the road, and Virgil waved to signal him. Harm, seeing nothing amiss, waved back, and kept on down the road. Finally, after he had been trapped for about an hour, neighbor Dwight Helps, came to his rescue. Dwight and son Stanley, got him loose and then brought him to town to the doctor.

Virgil had gloves on when he got caught in the machine, and wouldn't take them off until he got to the doctor's office. He couldn't feel a thing in the hand that had been caught, so he was fearing the worst. However, he was extremely lucky. His hand was just bruised a little and he is now thanking his lucky star that it was no worse.

Remodeling and Repair Work Noticeable on Several Buildings

The past week has seen remodeling and repair work started or continued on several buildings in town.

CORNER STORE

Glen Terhufen, proprietor of The Corner Store, has greatly changed the appearance of his end of the "main drag". He is taking out part of the windows in the front of his building and having the front covered with a brown stained-shingle siding. The rest of the building, he has given a new coat of buff paint.

His store will have a more modern and much neater appearance.

ETCHEN AUTO

Jack Etchen has been remodeling the front of his garage building. He has made some changes for the better on his big doors that have given them a more stable appearance. Should help to keep out the cold this winter, too. The work is not finished yet, but should be soon.

KLEMME GRAIN

The Klemme Co-op. Grain Co. is progressing nicely with their office remodeling, and manager Lemke is looking forward to having a much larger sales room and a private office.

KLEMME SCHOOL

The windows in the main school building have been rather bad at leaking, but that fault is being remedied this week. The Meighan Construction Co., of Minneapolis, Minn., who put new brick sills in the windows three years ago, and guaranteed a leak-proof job, is replacing them with concrete sills . . . and at no cost to the tax payers.

Last Rites Saturday at Reformed Church for Mrs. Herman Priebe

Had Lived in Klemme Vicinity Since Infancy

Funeral services were held Saturday, October 25, at 2:00 o'clock in the afternoon, from the Evangelical and Reformed Church, for Mrs. Herman Priebe, 64, who died Thursday, Oct. 23.

Services were in charge of Rev. Vernon E. Jaberg, and he used as his sermon text, Timothy 1:5, "I am longing to see thee, remembering thy tears that I may be filled with joy; having been reminded of the unfeigned faith that is in thee; which dwelt first in thy grandmother Lois, and thy mother Eunice; and I am persuaded is in thee also."

Funeral arrangements were in charge of the Wellemeyer Funeral Service, and interment was on the family lot in the Ell Township Cemetery.

Mrs. Priebe was born in South Dakota, but since infancy she had lived in the Klemme community. She acquired a host of friends in this time through her church work and other social activities.

Mrs. Priebe was carried to her final resting place by close friends and neighbors. They were: Lew Griffen, Clarence Kluckhohn, John Clements, Carl Wille, Henry Buseman, and Walter Lemke.

An obituary of Mrs. Priebe appears on page seven.

Former Publisher Ill

R. A. "Jergie" Jorgenson, publisher of The Times until three week ago, is confined to Mercy Hospital at Mason City, with a heart ailment.

"Jergie" is getting along fine and is in good spirits. His many friends ask about him every day, and wish him a speedy recovery.

Shot Large Hawk

Erwin Nuehring has had a large chicken hawk around his place all summer. Erwin wouldn't have minded him hanging around, but about every so often he had to have a chicken to keep up his strength.

Sunday evening, while doing chores, Erwin got a chance at the "old boy". He got out his trusty rifle and "lowered the boom". Result: one big dead hawk.

Erwin said the bird had a wing spread of 7½ feet, and was 36 inches from tip of the beak to the tip of the tail.

Vote Reminders

Saturday of this week, the boy scouts will hang a little bell on each door in Liberty and Ell Townships. Each bell will carry a messege reminding people to vote.

This is part of a national effort by the boy scouts to get out the vote.

Stroke Fatal to Mrs. Nagle, 83

At 3:00 o'clock this morning, Wednesday, October 29, Mrs. Marie Nagle, 83, passed away at Mercy Hospital in Mason City, as the result of a stroke from which she never regained conciousness.

Mrs. Nagle had been in apparently good health until Tuesday night, October 21, when she suffered the stroke. She was taken to the hospital last Wednesday morning but medical treatment was to no avail.

Funeral arangements are incomplete at this time and as yet no date has been set.

Basketball Season Tickets Go on Sale

Season tickets for the coming basketball season go on sale tomorrow, Thursday, and you can purchase yours from any squad member.

Supt. T. G. Ahrenkiel, who is coaching the team in the absence of Coach Cappon, says that he has a pretty fair outfit in the making, and that they should win a good percentage of their games.

Season tickets are good for 10 home games, and holders of these tickets should see lots of excitement when the team goes into action on the home floor.

First home game is scheduled for November 11.

Tail Twister Keeps Crowd in Uproar; Fines Freely

Klemme now has a service club.

Last Wednesday evening, at a seven o'clock banquet, the recently organized Klemme Lions Club received its charter from Lions International, making it an official Lions Club. District Governor, Frank Shimanek, of Monticello, presented the charter, to Donald J. Schaefer, president of the Klemme club, and other notables of the Lions organization were there to witness the proceedings.

BOYLE GIVES ADDRESS

Ed Boyle, of the Clear Lake Club, was the principal speaker of the evening, and directed his talk to the members of the newly chartered local club. He pointed out that any man who was in the club for personal gain, or just for the fun and fellowship to be derived, might just as well resign. He said that service was the only excuse for the existence of Lionism, and petitioned the club's members to get a worthwhile community project to sponsor, and carry it through.

Members of the sponsoring Garner Lions Club, and their ladies, turned out nearly en mass for the occasion, and Charles Bethke, president of the Garner unit, presented the local club with a bell and gavel for the use of the president in presiding over meetings.

G. W. "Bill" Templeton of Garner, was toastmaster for the evening and kept the program rolling.

Allen Stroh, tail twister of the Garner club, kept things lively before and during the banquet. He assessed fines for practically anything, and was even going to fine Mayor Cook. However, the Mayor talked his way out of it.

Biggest laugh of the evening came when Stroh got T. G. Ahrenkiel and Supt. Miller of the Britt Schools, on the stage. He armed them each with a fishing rod and reel, let out about six feet of line, attached doughnuts, and told them to feed each other. That was worth seeing!

Everyone took part in the group singing that is traditionally a part of a Lions meeting. Rev. Vernon E. Jaberg gave the invocation and Rev. E. Morris Egeland, the benediction.

It was an evening to be remembered by local Lions in time to come, and they hope that they will be able to build a strong and active unit that will be a credit and a benefit to the community.

BOUQUETS

Bouquets are in order for the following:

Arthur Carlson, for the fine trombone solo.

The ladies of the Legion Auxiliary, for the fine food and the efficient way they served it. It,s no small chore preparing and serving a banquet to 157 people.

To the sponsoring Garner Club, for the fine turn-out, and their help in making the charter night a success

Following is a roster of the charter members of the Klemme Lions Club:

Local Lions Presented with Gift by Sponsors

One of the high points at the Lions Charter Night banquet last Wednesday evening was when the sponsoring Garner club presented a commemorating gift to the local Lions. Shown holding the gift are Don Schaefer, president of the local club and Charles Bethke, president of the Garner Club.

Cigarettes vs. Grass

The two simultaneous grass fires, Sunday morning, point out a good reason why you should not throw cigarettes out of your car. Both of these fires started in roadside ditches, and chances are about 100 to 1 that a carelessly thrown cigarette was to blame in each instance.

Don't be a "fire bug". Use the ash tray in your car.

Halloween

Halloween is coming up, kids, and you are going to have a lot of fun. Keep it on the safe side, though. Don't be destructive. We read enough about vandalism by unprincipled teen-agers in other communities.

Blood Donors

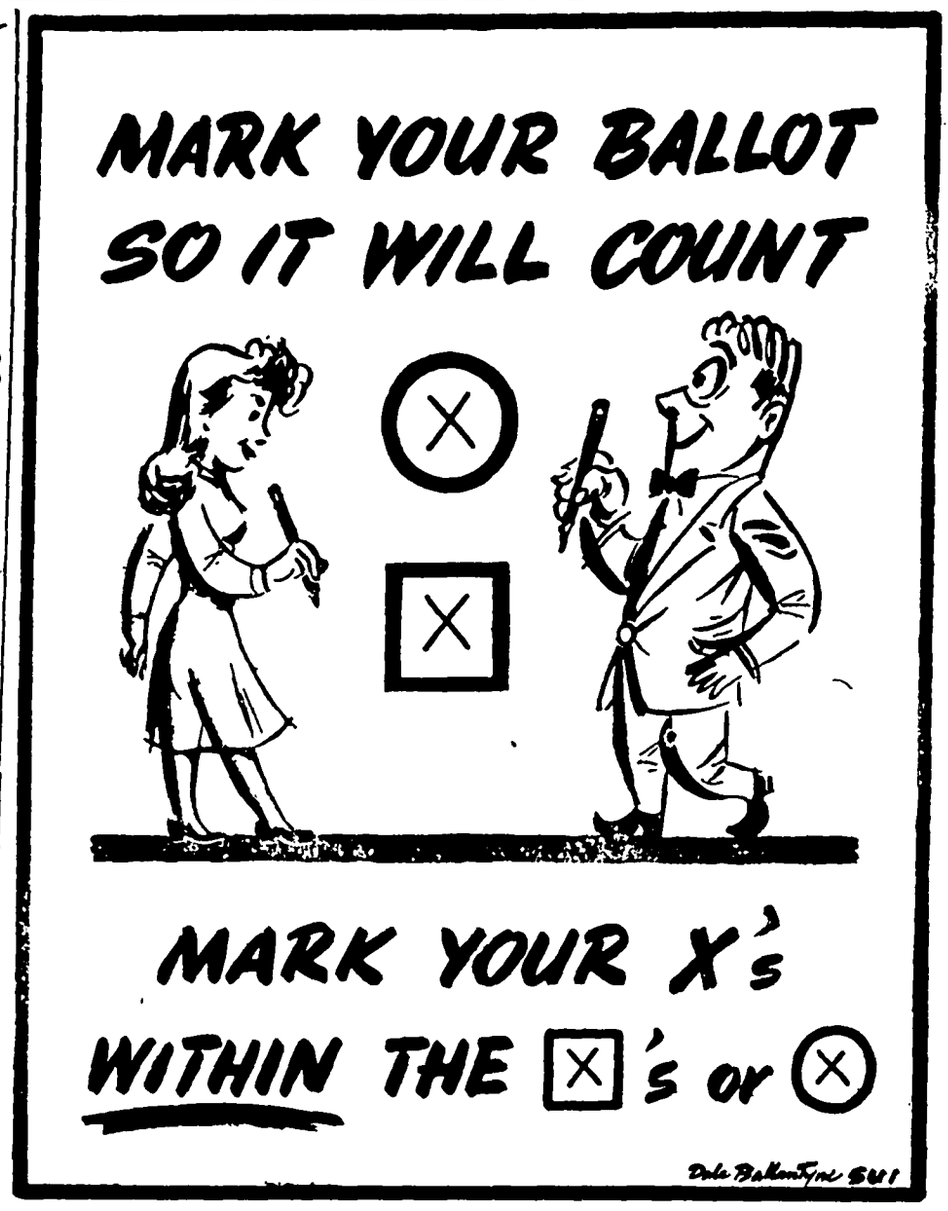
Dr. Dulmes informs us that the Legion sponsored "blood donor pool" is beginning to grow. However, it's not growing as fast as it should. There are plenty of red-blooded people in this community, and the expense to donors is nil.

Late

We're late again. We've burn-the midnight mazda three nights this week, and we're still late. Tired, too. Bear with us, though, and maybe we'll get things worked out yet.

"Oops"

Police in Mason City must have wondered "what next" the other evening. According to the Globe-Gazette, they arrested 3 men for "carless" driving.



THINGS NOT TO DO

Don't mark your ballot with a check mark or any other mark but an "X".

Don't sign your name to your ballot or put any marks on the ballot that might lead some one to think you were trying to indentify your ballot.

Don't write in the name of any candidate except in the blanks provided for each office. Be sure to put an "X" in front of the name you've written in.

DON'T BE BASHFUL!

When you go to vote and you have questions about the voting procedure, just ask the election officials. They'll have cards of instructions and sample ballots to show you how to mark your ballot so it will be counted and counted the way you intended to vote.

The important thing to do is to go to the polls on November 4 and vote!

Senior Class to Publish Year Book

Will be First Such Project for K. H. S.

We have been putting the pressure on Mr. Harvey Johnson and Mr. Ahrenkiel since the school year began. We wanted permission to publish a school year book. It seems that we caught Mr. Ahrenkiel in a weak moment for he finally gave in and the work has already started. Klemme is going to publish its first year book.

A campaign to help defray the cost of publishing the year book was held Wednesday by the students, who canvassed the town. The businessmen proved very helpful in purchasing advertising space in the book. We, the present seniors, with the help of Mr. Harvey Johnson, Mr. Francis Johnson, and Mr. Ahrenkiel, will try to make this first Klemme year book a big success.

SENIOR INTERVIEW

Our senior subject for this week is Robert Dean Beier. Robert, better known as Bob, was born at Mason City, Iowa, on Jun 14, 1936. He has medium brown hair and blue eyes. His height is 6 feet and one inch.

For three years he attended Liberty school No. 9; then he went to Liberty No. 8. Here he completed his elementary education. He has been attending Klemme High the past three years.

His activities in school are: president of the Student Council, member of the band, and basketball. He has been in Glee Club and baseball. He is a member of the Methodist Church and the M.Y.F.

His pet peeve is people who think they are smart but aren't. He hasn't any favorite food. He likes everything but spinach. His pastime is talking. In band once Kay asked where his class ring was, and that is his most embarrasing moment. Marilyn Monroe and Gary Cooper are his favorite movie stars. His favorite song is "Piano Roll Blues".

He plans to be a farmer after he graduates.

—Marie and Eunice

BAND NEWS

Margaret Boland and Lois Christians went to Spencer, October 18, to compete for the all state band. Lois Christians is going to play with the all state band. A mixed chorus has been started. There are about 35 or 40 out. The school has a new French horn. Margaret Haefner is going to play it.

Beginners in band this year include: Rosemary Medin, Clarinet; Marcile Bachman, clarinet; Harlan Baack, clarinet; Jane Renner, clarinet; Daryl Kothenbuetal, cornet; Gary Kothenbuetal, drums; Neva Johnson, clarinet.

? ? OF THE WEEK

What are your plans for Halloween night?

Ione Rosendahl: Going to the midnight show or messing up the town.

Margaret Haefner: Might go to a midnight show or mess around in town.

Faye Janssen: Harriett plans to stay with me and we're going to Belmond and Goodell, tear the town apart if we can get by with it.

Harry Anderson: I'm going around and have a little fun.

Dennis Ridder: I am going to the show at Britt and tear around and mess things up a bit.

Daisy Schaefer: I'd like to go to a real spooky midnight show, but you know how things are. Basketball rules, etc., and the show starts at twelve, but he didn't say which twelve to get in on weekends.

Beverly Clark: I plan on going to the show in Britt.

John Bisom: Oh, messing things up a bit. Ha! Ha! Quite a bit. Go to a midnight show.

Conclusion: It kind if looks as if nobody is going to be staying home. We certainly hope nobody gets in trouble.

—Kay, Ila and Dorothy

RECIPE FOR HAPPINESS

If we do not stand for something, we may fall for anything.

If you want to reach 90, don't look for it on the speedometer.

TEACHER INTERVIEW

Miss Carol Johnson, the kindergarten teacher, was born at Eagle Grove, Iowa, July 7, 1936. She is 5 feet 8 inches tall, has medium brown hair and brown eyes. After attending four different elementary schools she graduated from the Alexander High School. For her college education, she attended Teachers College at Cedar Falls.

People who talk too much is her pet peeve and she likes eating steak best of any food. All kinds of sports are her hobby and reading is her pastime. "What's the matter?" is her favorite saying. Liking to work with children was her main reason for starting to teach. This is her first year of teaching. In her kindergarten class she has 31 pupils, 15 boys and 16 girls. Plans as to how long she will teach are indefinite.

—Eunice and Marie

GIRLS BASKETBALL

The girls have been having basketball practice at least once a day since practice got under way. Sometimes it is from 2:40 until ? ? and then again it is from 7:00 til ? ? The girls are working hard and are trying to get a good team for the people to back. They hope to have good sized crowds at every game so that they will feel more like giving their all toward making a win instead of a loss.

What happened to four of the boys the day we had our pictures taken?

Is apool hall that fascinating, or should we say three boys and the ————? Yes.

Did you hear about Shirley and Marvin? They've been going down to dinner together every noon.

Correction! Wrong information was put in the paper last week about Daisy. We hear she no longer has a roving eye for anyone else but Clarence H.

It seems that Lois H., Lois C., and Daisy S., are all running around with INSURED stamps on their hands. Those numbers are very confusing what do they mean?

It seems Darlene isn't very good at sitting on her feet in study hall. Well some how she was on the floor and no one can figure it out, except D. S. and J. S. Dar, we didn't know you got so nervous when you thought of Stan.

It seems Larry forgot to erase some name in his book last year. I think the name belongs to some junior girl. Maybe you could ask Lois C. whose name it was. After all she has the book. Don't you, Lois Ann.

Say Eleanor, did you know that you shouldn't lead people on. It may cause accidents. When you park on the road by your place everyone gets the temptation to honk.

Has anyone ever seen a cat going around chewing a tongue that wasn't his. Be sure to tell me if you do, as I hear the junior class all lost their tongues in government class Thursday. Do you know anything about this Ronald K. Ha!

What is the last report on the Harriet Anderson and Noel Egeland case? No one knows but Noel and Harriet. Well good luck kids for the best.

Magazines! Magazines! Everyone is selling magazines. But it seems that Mr. H. Johnson just wasn't interested in Dennis R.'s sales talk.

It seems that Shirley Barz would sure like to live out in the country. I mean about 3 to 5 miles south of Duncan. Somewhere around there, but closer to Marvin, but maybe some time you can go out with Daisy to play cards.

Mr. Fischer: "Lee Gruis, would you like to write out of the dictionary?"

Lee: "Well, I ain't crazy about it."

Anybody seeing the Driver Training car with Lois C. at the wheel, beware! She may run you up a tlephone pole. Mayoe it was only her bad day. Who knows?

How did Lois C. Get home from basgetball, Thursday night. She was supposed to have gone home with Daisy. She must like beat-up Buicks better. Is this true, Lois?

Lois H. is having quite the trouble getting a way to that Jr. skating party. It seems she wants to go over but she wants to come home with someone else.

Class News . . .

SENIOR

In English we are still diagraming which seems to get more difficult every day. Some of us are still down very low from the test we had Thursday.

In history we are having tests right and left now that we have the year book and the paper to take care of evry week.

In typing we are still on our practice sets. We work up to Job 26 and hold it there until the rest catch up. John and Elda are the only two finished.

In bookkeeping we are on chapter XII, Recording the Selling of Merchandise on Account.

We have been studying the metric system of measures in business arithmetic.

Boyle's law and compressed air is currently our topic in physics.

JUNIOR

Only 25 days till Thanksgiving, 63 days till Christmas and 70 days till New Years and that wouldn't help us with our class news, and here we go and English is first on our list.

English

We are diagraming sentences from day light till night light so you can see by the time we finish diagraming will be diagrams ourselves.

Business Arithmetic

We are on the Metric System. (Such big words those little kids use.) That's all Roger T. told us so that's all we can write.

Physics

Boyle's Laws concernig air pressure and volume is what is going on in physics.

Typing

Shorthand

we are still writing and sure hope we are progressing. But we doubt it. The rate we are going now we'll never write more than a few words in shorthand. P. S. I sure hope Mr. F. Johnson doesn't lose his patience.

Government

We are learning about our government. That is, Transportation, Communication, and Power. 38 and 18-2 (Insured).

FRESHMAN

In math class we have been studying perimeter and areas and the construction of figures.

Proofs Bring Moans and Groans But Everyone Had Enjoyable Day

The first big event of our senior year took place Tuesday, October 21, when 25 seniors and Mr. Andreae left Klemme at 7:45 for Mason City to have our pictures taken at Russels.

By 8:45 we all had arrived at the studio. Finding it closed, we entertained ourselves for 15 minutes until the studio opened. Being told where the dressing rooms were, the girls soon had them occupied, and at 9:30 the photographer arrived and began photographing the boys.

While Bill Velau was picking out his folders, he had a narrow escape. He just happened to look out the window as a policeman was writing out a ticket because the parking meter had expired. Bill made a quick dash just in time to save himself from getting a ticket. After that we were all more watchful.

To the disappointment of many girls the picture taking continued until 2:00 p. m. which was a long and tiresome wait.

All of us who were through before dinner made sure that we got on "Man on the Street". Dinner was eaten at a number of places— Town House, Laurence Welk's Diner, Park Inn Hotel, Green Mill, and the dime stores. Most of us spent the afternoon going to the show at the Band Box because we had received free tickets from Russels. It was a double feature, "With a Song in My Heart" and "Corporal Dolan Goes A.W.O.L.". Between times we managed to do a little shopping.

At 4:30 the class met at Russels again to get our proofs. While waiting for our proofs most of us were munching on huge delicious apples which we had purchased from the corner grocery store on the same block. As each one received his proofs many different expressions were seen and heard. After their was an exchanging of proofs, we were on our way home once again, concluding a tiring but a very enjoyable day.

Challenge Iowa's Corn!

In a Hartford, Conn., paper the other day, a County Agent there said:

"Whether Iowa likes it or not, the soil of central Connecticut grows the world's best corn."

Now, isn't that something! If that County Agent had checked the records, he would see that Connecticut's expected yield this year is 47 bu. per acre . . . Iowa's 62.

Sure, he is prejudiced in favor of his home state. But that's the trouble with prejudices of any kind.

So often they're based on a limited view . . . whether they concern things like corn yields, or our neighbor's everyday preference for what he eats or drinks.

So I say . . . let's watch out for those prejudices. They're too easy to get, too hard to shake off. They generally mean that we've gone blind to the other fellow's point of view. Actually, the fewer prejudices we have, the better neighbors we are, and the better citizens of our community.

Obituary of Mrs. Herman Priebe

(By Rev. Vernon E. Jaberg)

MRS. HERMAN PRIEBE, nee Katie Swalve, whose earthly departure is deeply regretted and mourned by her loved ones and friends, was born on November 3, 1887 at Marion Junction, South Dakota. She was the third child of Berand and Fanny nee Fuls Swalve. During her infancy her parents moved from South Dakota to Hancock County in Iowa. As an infant she was received into the Christian Faith by the sacrament of Holy Baptism administered by the Rev. Henry Treik.

As a youth Mrs. Priebe attended the rural school in Twin Lakes Township. After having been instructed in the precepts and doctrines of the Christian Religion she was received into the fellowship of the church through the rite of Christian Confirmation by the Rev. Albert Muehlmeier, Pastor of Immanuel Reformed Church of Klemme. Her confirmation blessing was taken from the Book of Proverbs 23:26, "My child, give me thine heart, and let thine eyes observe my ways."

On December 13, 1905, Miss Katie Swalve was united in the bonds of Holy Marriage with Mr. Herman Priebe by the Rev. Albert Muehlmeier. Almighty God in his loving providence blessed this union with three children, Albert, Verner and Alvin who died in infancy. Mr. and Mrs. Priebe established their home on a farm one mile west and one mile south of Klemme where they lived and labored together for some thirty years. In 1936 the Priebes retired from their farming activities and moved to their home in the Town of Klemme.

Mrs. Priebe was a member of Immanuel Evangelical and Reformed Church and prior to the failure of her health she attended the worship services and partook of the sacrament of Holy Communion with devout regularity. She was an active member of the Women's Guild and of the Sunday School. At one time she served her Lord and His Church as a teacher in the Sunday School.

Mrs. Priebe or "Katie" as she was lovingly known, suffered considerably from the affects of ill health, but was not given to murmur or complain. She possessed an outstanding and remarkable faith in the love and faithfulness of our Father in Heaven as shown to us in the loving heart of our Lord Jesus Christ. She was under medical care since February of 1952 and was taken to the Hampton Hospital in the early part of September where she underwent surgery.

She was taken to her home in Klemme where she lived during the last month of her life. She was called to her eternal reward on Thursday, October 23 having attained the age of 64 years, 11 months and 20 days.

Those who survive her are her deeply bereaved husband, Mr. Herman Priebe, her two sons Albert and Verner, both of Klemme, sisters: Tina, Mrs. Henry Behrens of Clarkesville; Fanny, Mrs. Charles Schupeltz of Wessington Springs, South Dakota; Clara, Mrs. Clyde Marshall of Milwaukee, Wisconsin; Lena, Mrs. Ingrid Lauritzen of Los Angeles, California; and brothers: John Swalve of Clear Lake, Iowa and Bennie Swalve of Compton, California. She is also survived by grandchildren: Mrs. Francis Ames, Mrs. John Gaffney and Miriam Priebe as well as by Carol, Kathleen and Seth Priebe. Surviving great-grandchildren are Randy and Edward Gaffney. Mrs. Priebe was preceeded in death by her parents, brother Derk Swalve, grandchild Joan Priebe. She is also survived by a host of more distant relatives and many dear friends.

Klemme Civic Club to Sponsor Sale

Free Coffee and Doughnuts for Crowd

It's not legal to sell your wife . . . even at Klemme's big Community sale . . .but anything else goes, according to Don Schaefer, who is in charge of arrangements for this event.

At 2:00 o'clock Saturday afternoon, November 15, on the street between Duke's Cafe and Thada's Shopping Center, Ben Reemstma is going to "cry" a sale for the Klemme Civic Club. Items to be sold at this sale are to be brought in by the public, and everything is to be sold on a commission basis.

If you have items that you would like to get rid of throug the medium of this auction, you can list them before noon of the 15th at any of these three places: Thada's Shopping Center, Gerardi's Cafe or Don's D-X.

We questioned Don as to whether or not there would be any entertainment, and he said that there would probably be plenty of entertainment right in the sale, and there is to be free coffee and doughnuts for everyone.

For further details about this event see the ad on page 2 of this issue.

Shirley Bisom is New Chief Operator for Local Exchange

Miss Shirley Bisom has accepted the position of chief operator for the Klemme Exchange of the Central Iowa Telephone Company. She took over her duties last Saturday, November 1.

Bert Jones, manager of the local exchange, feels that he was fortunate to secure Miss Bisom for the post. Although he lost a good operator when Mrs. Wilson resigned to accept a position at Roland, he says that Shirley has the experience and the background to make an efficient and capable operator.

She has had three years as assistant operator on the Klemme board, and has served the last seven months at Garner as an operator for Bell Telephone. She graduated from Klemme High School with the class of 1951.

From mid-October until Saturday our "Number Please" girl was Mrs. Bert Jones. She was sort of drafted into the job, but our hat is off to her for the way she took care of it.

Boy Scouts Ran Short of "Vote" Bells, Saturday

If you did not get a vote reminder bell hung on your door last Saturday, it wasn't an omission on the part of the scouts.

All over the country, scouts participated in this effort to get out the vote, and all over the country they ran short of bells. However, they are to be commended for this project, for it no doubt had its share in bringing the record number of voters to the polls.

New Tenants for White House

We knew that come January, the White House was to have new tenants, but we weren't just sure who they would be. Now, we know. This picture, taken during the recent campaign, shows a pleased "Ike" and a beaming Mamie. We hope they will still feel that pleasant after a year in the White House.

K. H. S. Basketball Gets Underway, Tuesday

Woden will be the first opponent for both the boys and girls basketball teams when the 1952-53 season for the local high school opens here next Tuesday night. Most of the team is back from last year, and with a little more age and a little more experience, they should make formidable opponents for most of the teams on their schedule.

Plenty of excitement is in store for fans, all winter long, so don't miss out on it. Back the team. The better the crowd there to cheer for them, the better they will play.

Latest word on the condition of R. A. Jorgenson, is that he is improving. He is still confined in Mercy Hospital in Mason City but is coming along much better. His son, Capt. Beardsley Has "Rough Time" But Gains Slender Margin Over Loveless

Nitrogen Fertilizer Bulletin is Available

A new bulletin giving the full story on "Nitrogen Fertilizers for Corn", is available at the offices of the county extension directors in Iowa, or at the Bulletin Office at Iowa State College.

The new bulletin outlines the results of recent experiments with nitrogen fertilizers in different crop rotations, on differferent planting rates.

It was prepared by Lloyd Dumenil, assistant professor of soils at Iowa State College, and covers his research results, as well as some carried out earlier by some Iowa State College agronomists.

A good supply of the bulletin, No. P114, entitled "Nitrogen Fertilizers for Corn," is said to be available at all county extension offices.

Klemme Goes Strong For Republicans

Tuesday was a big day in the United States. People from all walks of life responded to the "get out and vote effort" and went to the polls in the largest numbers on record in the history of the country.

Since this presidential campaign began, the Republicans have struck hard at corruption in Washington, and have urged the voters to "throw the rascals out." There has been a difference of opinion as to whether or not there were rascals in Washington, but a large majority of people in the nation must have thought that there were, and they registered their disapproval in the tremendous vote for General Eisenhower. With not quite all precincts heard from "Ike" had over 31,000,000 votes, and the previous high was some over 27,000,000 for Franklin D. Roosevelt in 1936, when he won easily over Landon.

In the Iowa race for Governor, William S. Beardsley, rode in on Eisenhower's coat tails. He had 50,000 more votes than his Democratic opponent, Hershel Loveless, but Loveless drew 130,000 more Iowa votes than did Stevenson. Democrats in Iowa are doing a little "squawking" on the strength of the showing Loveless made. They want a stronger organization in Iowa, and figure that if they had it in this election their man would have been in.

Voters in Klemme turned out in the largest numbers ever to cast ballots in a single election. 561 votes were recorded here and the previous high, in 1942 was 476. Of the 561 ballots, 272 were straight Republican, 64 were straight Democratic, 208 were mixed, and 17 were spoiled. The 208 mixed ballots are assumed to show the feelings of many toward the Republican candidate for Governor, but for other offices, the sentiment in Klemme, was strongly Republican, and stringing along with voters in the rest of the state, people here contributed their share to the "grand slam" Republican victory in Iowa.

James I. Dolliver, Republican incumbent for representative to congress, and Herman M. Knudson, Republican incumbent for State Senator from this district, were re-elected by wide margins. All Republican candidates for Hancock County offices were unopposed as was Penn Eckels, candidate for state representative, and all of these people receivel over 5,000 votes each.

All-in-all, the election was a widespread renunciation of the administration of the past years.

Funeral Services Held Friday for Mrs. Nagle Who Died of Stroke

Due to the serious illness of Mrs. Henry Jost, a quiet funeral was held at Jost home Friday afternoon for her mother, Mrs. Marie Nagel. Rev. Vernon Jaberg was in charge.

Pallbearers were Charles Bielefeld, Billy Bielefeld, Walter Bielefeld, Verle Wooten, Merlin Smith and Seabo Lamfers.

Mrs. Marie Louise Nagel, nee Schluter, daughter of Christian and Louise Uphoff Schluter, was born on a farm near the village of Cottage Grove, Wisconsin, which is near the city of Madison, on March 15. 1869.

She received her schooling in the rural schools near Cottage Grove in Wisconsin. As a youth, she was received into the fellowship of the German Evangelical Church of Cottage Grove.

Her residence was changed when she was united in marraige with Mr. Charles Bielefeld and they established their home in the vicinity of Thornton, Iowa. This marriage was blessed in the providence of Almighty God with four children, Fleeda, Helen, Atlanta and Charles Adrian.

Mrs. Nagel lived a very active life serving her family and her loved ones according to her ability and strength. Having enjoyed good health through most of her life, on October 21, 1952, she suffered a stroke and was taken to the Mercy hospital in Mason City where she passed to her eternal reward. Her death occured on Wednesday, October 29th at 3:00 a.m. She attained the age of 82 years, 7 months and 14 days.

Mrs. Nagel was preceeded in death by her parents, a sister Caroline, Mrs. Fred Letzring and brothers, Rev. Henry Schluter and Fredrick Schluter. She is survived by three daughters, Fleeda, Mrs. Taylor C. Wooten of Des Moines, Ia, Helen, Mrs. Henry Jost and Atlanta, Mrs. Ola Thompson, both of Klemme, Iowa, and one son Charles Adrian Bielefeld of Dougherty, Ia. She also is survived by ten grandchildren, ten great grandchildren and three great great grandchildren.

"I am the resurrection and the life; he that believeth in me, though he were dead yet shall he live; and whosoever liveth and believeth in me shall never die. John 11, 25.

Interment was in the Ell Township Cemetery.

Tenant House Burns at Ben F. Greimann Farm

Wednesday night, November 5, at 11:30 the Klemme and Garner fire departments were called to the Ben F. Grieman farm, northwest of Klemme. A tenant house there was burning. The local fire department made a quick run to the scene of the fire, but by the time they got there, the house was beyond saving. They wet down the grass and the trees around the house as a precautionary measure to keep the fire from spreading in the dry vegetation, and confined the flames to the one building.

No one was living in the house at the time of the fire and hadn't been for approximately a year, so the origin of the blaze is in doubt.

With the extreme dry weather, and the high wind that was blowing, it is fortunate that no nore damage was done. If the wind had been in any other direction but northwest, it is very probable that other buildings would have been burned.

YIELD

On the Louis Ahart farm, just north of Dow City, a corn yield of 162 bushels to the acre has been reported.

Stores to Close

Stores and business places in Klemme, will be closed next Tuesday, November 11. That day will be Armistice Day, and as such, is a legal holiday.

Adlai Pledges Support

We liked what Adlai Stevenson said the other night when it had become clear that Eisenhower was to be the president-elect. We can't quote him word for word, but we can give you the gist of it.

He said that it had been a hard and bitter campaign, but that he hoped people of both parties would get squarely behind "Ike", and forget about party differences. He said that America should come first and then party, especially with the world situation what it is today. We all know that "Ike" will need all the cooperation and help he can get, and Mr. Stevenson pledged him his whole-hearted support.

Who Got the Best of It?

Eisenhower won the election by a landslide vote, but we wonder if maybe Stevenson didn't get the best of it. He can go home and relax, but "Ike's" troubles are just beginning.

Country "Shot"

We have, at various times during the recent presidential campaign, heard people complaining about this country being "shot." We can't quite agree with them.

Sure, there are many changes since grandpa was a boy, but we still live in the best country in the world. True, our rent is a little high right now, what with the high taxes, and high cost of living, but at least we get something for our money. That's more than the poor down-trodden citizens of some countries can say.

We wouldn't trade places with any of them . . not even with the high rent.

Armistice Day

Somebody is going to "squawk" about the stores being closed in Klemme on Armistice Day. If they would think a little, we believe they wouldn't squawk very loud.

Armistice Day was orginally intended to honor the dead of World War I, but has come to include all our war dead. If you knew what these fallen ones went through for you, you wouldn't complain because you couldn't go in the store one day out of 365, to get a loaf of bread.

We would like to think that the fellows who gave their all for their country are deserving of a little more respect than that.

Time Comes High

If time was as cheap as money, we might get this paper out on publication day.

Lunch of sandwiches, coffee and kool-aid was served.

The Thursday preceeding this meeting the whole Pack visited the Mason City airport. We met at the E. and R. Church and left in four cars. We arrived a little too late to see a Barniff transport land but we did see it take off. We were escorted over the airport grounds and showed the planes there. We were taken into the tower and saw the eqiupment and instruments used by the men in charge. While we were there he gave the weather report to the planes who are equipped with receiving sets. Upon leaving, each boy was given a souvenir pencil of the airport.

Each load went home their own way. One load took a tour of the Clear Lake fire station. Another group went through the Mason City Post Office. Everyone enjoyed the day.

Mrs. Don Christiance entertained at three tables of bridge on Friday afternoon. High score was won by Mrs. Buntenbach, second by Mrs. Kudje and third by Mrs. Myrtle Jacobs. A delicious lunch was served later in the afternoon.

Card of Thanks

The Andersons wish to thank all of the folks who helped in any way to make their wedding anniversary such a happy occasion.

1tc —Dr. & Mrs. D. P. Anderson

We don't know what kind of feed this particular hen has been eating, but when she lays an egg, she isn't kidding.

Last Saturday, Mrs. Glen Bridges, got eggs from her mother, Mrs. A. G. Koerner. They were a very normal looking lot of eggs, except for one rather large specimen. It measured nine inches the long way around, and 6 inches the short way.

That's not the last verse, though. When the egg was opened, another normal egg was found inside of it. Between the outer shell and the normal-sized, egg was albumen and yolk, just like an egg ought to be.

We don't know what got wrong with the production line in this particular egg factory, but we'll bet it doesn't happen again for some time to come.

Corwith Farmer has Steer in Exposition

Chicago, Oct. 29 - Forrest Bennett, of Corwith, will have an Angus steer in the classes of the coming 53rd International Live Stock Exposition, show officials announce. The calf was won in the Armour calf scramble at the Iowa State Fair.

The Exposition, world's topmost event of it's kind, gets under way in the International Amphitheatre on November 29, for an eight-day run through December 6. It is expected to draw 12,000 head of cattle, hogs and horses from 34 states and Canada.

Entries for individual classes for the show closed November 1, while carloads of cattle, sheep and hogs close their books on November 22. Grain show and Horse entries close Nov. 10.

Jess C. Andrew, Exposition president from LaFayette, Indiana, states that prizes will again total well above $100,000, with more than half of that amount earmarked for breeding and fat cattle classes. Swine prizes total $10,000 and sheep premiums $8,300.

Known as the "final court of judgement" among agricultural fairs and shows, the International will bring the continent's best for final competitions to determine world grand champions. An International championship is the most coveted award among livestock raisers and crop growers the world over.

What are business prospects for 1953? That's a question to which every farmer and businessman in Hancock County would like to have the answer.

No one knows for sure naturally. But here are some clues picked up by the three Iowa State College farm economists who have just returned from a week's discussion of the 1953 outlook at the National Outlook Conference sponsored by the United States Department of Agriculture. They are Francis A. Kutish, Carl Halone and L. G. Kral.

GOOD FOR SIX MONTHS

They found general agreement that most business will be active for another six months. Spending for defense will increase. The steel mills are humming full time again. Textile and clothing business has perked up, and demand for popular automobiles is running strong.

But when talk shifts to prospects for next summer and thereafter, the Iowa State College representatives found more uncertainty. Neither government officials nor private businessmen agree among themselves on the prospects for late 1953.

TWO VIEWS

The bureau of Agricultural Economics is predicting a strong business picture all through 1953. It bases this on the belief that spending for national defense will continue upward until it reaches 55 to 60 billion dollars annually—then level off. It expects state and local government spending to rise, consumer spending to again increase, and business investment to continue at a high rate.

A group of economists serving one of the large insurance companies is even more optimistic. They believe business activity will continue to climb throughout most of 1953. They figure that businesswill be stimulated by increased spending on the part of both government and consumers.

PESSIMISTIC OUTLOOK

On the other hand some of the government economists in other departments and many of the business trade journals are talking of a moderate business slideoff, beginning in late 1953.

These observers believe that business investment programs may have reached their peak. They look for a moderate falloff in the latter part of 1953. They also argue that consumers are getting bought up on refrigerators, washing machines and other consumer durables. They don't think consumers will be buying at a heavier pace than present—and may drop back.

These two forces, these observers say, will be enough to bring about the slow-up in spending needed to cause some easing in general business late in 1953.

NO BUST LIKELY

While it is too early to tell which group is correct in their prediction, the Iowa State College economists believe the second point of view is more likely to happen than the first—assuming no change in the international situation.

But they point out that no sharp break is likely in 1953—if history does prove the second point of view correct. In total, it should be a good year.

Iowa Seeks 15th Grand Champ

At right, the Lord Elgin trophy, perpetual award given to owner of grand champion and donated by a watch company in honor of the Earl of Elgin and Kincardine in Scotland where Aberdeen-Angus cattle originated. The breed has captured 27 of the International's 50 championships. Scotty dog pictured also is a champion but on a smaller scale.

EDITORIAL

Nine weeks of school have passed, and with it come nine weeks tests. This usually means that everyone buckles down and does a little extra studying. This year it's quite the contrary. Why study when it's easy to compare and exchange answers with other members of the class. Then again, considering, maybe we're assuming too much by classifying these fun house exhibitions as class periods. You, the students, may defend yourselves by saying that you're still young, and you're only having a little fun. None of us are that young, and we're missusing the word by calling such juvenile actions fun. So why not cooperate just a little, even though it may seem hard at first. You may discover that the class you thought you hated so much can be interesting after all.

This and That Around K.H.S.---

We decided to dig up a little gossip from the senior class this week so here it is.

We saw quite a few couples Friday night. Some of them were; Janet and Bill V. (we understand this is getting to be a pretty regular thing), Reverdy and Emily, Kay and Ronnie, (you would have guessed that), Elaine and Larry, Sharon W. and Bill W. and Miriam and Bob.

What happened to Beverly Clark last Tuesday morning? Do you think it was right to keep your new brother-in-law out so late. Did you two have fun going in circles? Better use a map the next time.

What happened to your date last Tuesday night, Elda?

I suppose that everyone can tell by the look on Sharie's face that Dick is home.

What happened to Larry Stille's Business Arithmetic book? If a certain girl wouldn't keep him so busy on the phone maybe things like that wouldn't happen.

We hear that Bill V. paid a whole dollar just to find out the location of Stahl's farm.

It seems as if the ring that has been bothering D. R. is off her hands for good. Could it be she's casting eyes in other directions????

Cruising by Lois C. place on Wed. night, some Jrs. met none other than the dream man himself---- Richard Bohn. No wonder Lois didn't come skating.

Janice, were you tieing your shoe lace on Wed. night about 11:30???? Just what were you doing? Did Gene have anything to do with that???

Garner has always been quite popular with Lois Helps. NOWADAYS its Francis.

NEVER A DULL MOMENT--That's Drivers Training. This week Eleanor has kept up the dear record of stunts performed by the Drivers Training Class. It seem ditches were her fancy. Who will have the honor of keeping next weeks record?

Fritz seems to come to the schoolhouse about every noon. Could it be Harriet he was to see???

New couple of the week ---- Merlyn and Joan L. It looks good so far, but I wonder how long it will last.

It looks as if Gary D. and Jo Ann Burgess were getting along quite well at the Halloween party. Maybe this will blossom into a new romance.

It seems that Gerry and Leola have broken up. This romance sure didn't last long. I wonder why??? Leola doesn't seem to know.

No one can understand why Alan keeps running after Jo Ann Bacon all the time, after all she has been going steady for quite some time.

Gordon L. seems to be having his troubles too. I guess Ione R. doesn't care for him anymore, and he can't see anyone for the dust..... Oh well, it will blow over

It's been explained that Marlene and Graydon are not starting another LOVE AFFAIR--- It's just mutual friendship.

Late Edition ----

What's this we hear about Jo Ann Bacon on Wed. night? Alan may have a chance after all.

DAISY - - - - What would Clarence think if he saw that picture of Jo Ann Bacon's. Mustn't let it get around- - - SHH---

We hear that Jo Ann B. decided to change boy-friends. She really got a good start on Wed. night.

Who was that phone call from last Friday Eleanor????

Who is it that Gracka and Carol are riding to school with. (It wasn't that cold girls.)

SENIOR

English

In English we are studying dangling participles and gerunds. We are also diagramming sentences.

History

We have been studying chapter 10 in history, which discusses avoiding foreign entangle ments following the Revolutionary War. Our next chapter is on the presidency of Thomas Jefferson. He was inaugurated in 1801. He had a thrifty administration and purchased the Louisiana territory which was later made into states.

Business Arithmetic

In business arithmetic we are working with fractions, decimals and per cents.

Physics

In Physics we have been studying the mechanics of solids and how forces act together.

Bookkeeping

We have been recording cash receipts and cash payments in bookkeeping.

Typing

We are still working on our practice set. We had three, time tests Thursday which showed us we need more practice.

Shorthand

We are taking dictation and find it hard to keep up. We are working now at the rate of about 30 words a minute.

JUNIOR

Since we are doing the usual things in every class, we will give you famous quotations from each class, if possilble

English

In the sentence, "My fathers favorite dish is oysters." Mr. Cappon asked Roger T., "What are oysters?" Rogers reply was, "My fathers favorite dish."

Government

Mr. Johnson had just lectured on keeping quiet. A few minutes later he said, "Dennis, can't you remember anything from one hour to the next?" Dennis, Well we had gerunds in the class an hour before."

Typing

It seem that a couple girls just couldn't tell the right side from the left side of their name. If you would like to know who they are, just peep in the typing room some day. last period.

Physics

This must be the more serious type of class. Unless they have their famous quotations and never let us laugh at them.

Shorthand

Mr. Johnson said, "And this brief form is speak." The girls come up with speech!!! It's a wonder that F. Johnson has any patience left.

Drivers Training

It seems Delwyn B. has learned a new word INSTRUCTOR. The other day he said, "It's up to the B-o-s-s." Daisy quickly replied," Mr. Fischer is the instructor and not the boss." Delwyn was saved by time.

Business Arithmetic

This is another one of those serious classes. It may be the class that uses big words or what ever you call it.

SOPHOMORE

Well we're back again. Don't look so sick friend, it's not my fault.

Biology	Tests
History	Tests
English	Tests
Algebra	Tests
Study Hall	Books, review and headaches.

Mathematics

We are all very busy studying areas, perimeters, circumferences, volumes etc. We are now finished with our nine weeks tests, thank goodness.

English

We are still studying about transitive and intransitive. It seems that no one can remember from one day to the next.

Home Ec.

We have now completed our study of breakfast by serving half of our class breakfast.

Shop

The boys are drawing material bills by drawing boxes.

Science

We took a corker of a test in science. It was so long we took half of it one day and the other half the next. The second part was written out????? The first part was drawing an ear, windpipe, some one celled animals and the cell.

Guess Who

? ? OF THE WEEK

Question: How can the school parties be improved?

Jo Ann Bacon: "If more kids would turn out, the parties would turn out better."

Janet Stahl: "Everything was OK but all the big school kids should come."

Larry Stille: "Turn the lights down lower and have more dancing."

BOYS BASKETBALL

The boys basketball squad of twenty-two members have been working out the past three weeks preparing for their opening game next Tuesday, against Woden.

There are six lettermen back from last season and they are Roger Terhufen, Larry Stille, Dennis Ridder, Donald Thieman and Graydon Barz. The sixth letterman, Ronald Karsjens, will not be eligible until the second semester.

We feel that this year's team will be slightly better than last season since many of the boys have gained valuable experience, although the team this year will still be made up primarily of sophomores and juniors.

Let's back the team and everyone attend all the games.

Cheer Leading Tryouts Held Friday

Three Girls Chosen From Large Number of Candidates

"Rah! yea team, fight, fight, fight! This was one of the yells which echoed throughout the gymnasium Friday, the twenty-fourth of October. This was the day of cheer leading tryouts at Klemme High. Cheer leading tryouts are a very important event because cheer leaders are the ones which create the enthusiasum and school spirit to back both basketball teams.

A large number of girls participated in the tryouts. Included were Elaine Neuberger, Daisy Schaefer, Carol Bridges, Janice Swanson, Jo Ann Bacon, Lois Helps, Lois Ann Jacobs, and Sharon Bridges. Chosen from this group were Elaine, Carol and Janice. This will be Elaine's third year and Carol and Janice's first year. Congratulations girls!

But the cheer leaders alone cannot make the team feel that we're all routing for them. Since we're all students of Klemme High, let's all support the team by attending as many games as possible, and yell for our team; however this doesn't mean impolite booing toward the opposing team or nasty remarks to the referee.

Even if we do lose the game lets show the other team that we are good sports by our conduct.

Recipe For Happiness

Hope is like the sun which as we journey toward, it cast the the shadows behind us.

GIRLS BASKETBALL

In girls basketball, they are going through some new drills. Some of them are quite tricky, and some of them are a lot of fun. Of course they have to do them sooner or later anyway, so it might as well be now. Some days it will seem like Mr. Johnson is about to flip his lid, but he always seem to get over it and treat the girls like humans again the next day, so its OK. Anyway they seem to be getting something out of the practice every day, but if they didn't get it every day, they would only say that they never get practice. So I guess it'll have to stay the way it is, especially since the first game in only a little more than a week away.

Pheasant Season to Open November 11

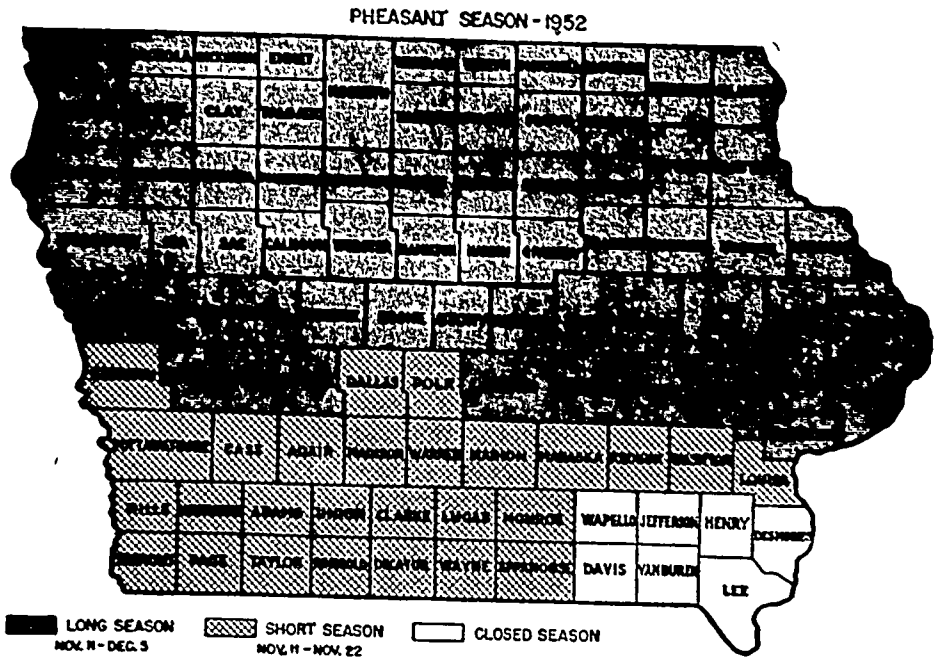
We are to have a good long pheasant hunting season this year. For this locality, Nov. 11 is the opening day, and shooting will continue through Dec. 5. Some counties will have a shorter season, with the same opening date, but shooting to continue only through Nov.22.

Hours in which you my pursue the wily pheasant are from 12 o'clock noon until 4:30 p.m. daily, and the bag and possession limit is three cock birds.

We have seen and heard some talk to the effect that if we don't get some rain between now and the opening date, that the open season may be called off for this year. With as many hunters as we normally have in this section, prowling cornfields, sloughs and ditches, quite a fire hazard would be imposed upon farmers. We have heard nothing definite on this, though, so we assume that present plans are to hold true.

The following map shows the length of the season for the various counties.



Breaking and Entering Costs a Buck

Here's some more on that buck deer that suddenly had a yen for flowers in an Ames florist's shop on October 23.

At 4:48 p.m. on Thursday, the 200 pound deer charged through the plate-glass front door of Paul Coe's flower and gift shop. Mrs. Coe and a helper, working in the back room, jumped up on a table while the buck, frightened and bleeding, galloped around in the bric-a-brac. Surprisingly enough, he didn't break anything.

The frightened women phoned the police, who entertained some doubts about the whole thing. When they arrived, four policemen were required to subdue the struggling animal. The buck was taken to the the Iowa State College veterinary clinic where its cuts were treated, and it was released northeast of Ames.

Such an event testifies to the power of a wild animal, since plate glass doors are constructed with an eye to durability. A passerby who saw the deer shortly before it charged into the store said that it leaped over a parked car to cross the highway.

The deer had evidently wandered upon the campus from Squaw Creek, just north of the college. Deer are not uncommon in that area, particularly at this time of the year, when they are coming into breeding season and the bucks may do extensive traveling.

the Highway Story

By Bob Hullihan

Highway patrolmen around the state are braced for a wave of accidents that will come, they say, with the first appearance of ice on streets and highways.

"Accidents will settle down to a normal rate the rest of the winter," one veteran patrolman said, "but that first icy day we will be pulling people out of wrecks from morning to night."

He explained that many motorists, used to months of dry summer highways, fail to adjust their driving quickly enough when ice first appears.

"They have to learn winter driving all over again and that costs many of them a lot of miney and some of them their lives," the patrolman said.

He recalled the first icy day of some winters back when he covered seven consecutive accidents in the wake of a school bus.

"The bus would stop to pick up children and the driver behind the bus would stop, too, but usually he'd forget that hand signal.

"The driver behind him would hit the brakes and then remember there was ice under the tires. He wouldn't get stopped until he smashed into the car ahead of him.

"That happened seven times before that school bus got to school. But there were 14 drivers who had a little schooling themselves that morning.

"They knew you can't stop on ice the way you can on a dry pavement but they had to learn it all over again.

"Fat" Kluckhohn looked unusually fed up Monday morning and on inquiring the whys and wherefores of the rotund appearance found that he and family enjoyed a Sunday dinner in the country with the Ben Reemstma family. Now of course we are not casting any reflections on the fine cooking of "Fat's" wife by saying he looked 'fed-up' but we are trying to convey the fact to our readers that he must have made an awful big hole in Ben's food supply. These town guys sure do eat when they are turned loose on a country dinner.

Ralph Elder has resigned his position as manager of the creamery at Bode, Iowa. His resignation took effect on November 1. Ralph likes it much better in Klemme.

There are quite a number of farmers near here who have corn picking machines in operation this year. The way they make the corn fields look sick is a caution. And then most of them also own elevators so it is easy to unload. Lot's of fun to pick corn with a machine says the happy farmer now-a-days.

WOI TV Series for Use in Classrooms

Marking another milestone in Iowa television history, the state's three institutions of higher education and the State Department of Public Instruction, serving elementry and high schools, have undertaken a joint television project to bring to the classrooms of Iowa a series of programs for in school viewing.

Aired over WOI-TV, the Iowa State College television station, the Iowa TV Schooltime series is designed to supplement regular classroom instruction in the fields of elementary music, art and science, and secondary guidance.

Subjects for the programs were selected early this summer at a meeting of school administrators at WOI-TV. At that time, school officials indicated that supplementary teaching in these specific areas would be of the greatest value in such a television series.

As the programs have been developed, content material is supervised by committees composed of subject matter experts from all three state schools—the State University of Iowa, Iowa State Teachers College, Iowa State College—and the Department of Public Instruction. Production responsibilities for the music program have been assumed by Iowa State Teachers College; the State University of Iowa produces the Tues. guidance program; and the science, art and second guidance programs are produced by WOI-TV in cooperation with the State Department of Public Instruction.

Such programs have been under consideration by the station for some time. Pre-school and adult education have been the major areas for WOI-TV consideration prior to the station's entry into the morning telecasting field this fall. With this additional, suitable time now available, the in-school programs are scheduled to continue throughout the school year at 10 a.m. Monday through Friday.

History of Klemme

By Arthur Wellemeyer — Fifth Installment

THE WATER SYSTEM

Just after the school house fire in 1901, when Klemme was 12 years old, a progressive town council bonded the town for $5000.00 and put in our first water system. This consisted of a new well about 160 feet deep, a pump driven by a 12 horse power Fairbanks-Morse one cylinder gasoline engine, an air compressor and an 8000 gallon tank, all housed in a new frame building on a separate lot one block south of main street. A two wheel hose cart, a ladder wagon, a fire bell on the new building, with 800 feet of six inch water mains, mostly down main street, completed the improvement.

In 1916 another town council extended 4 inch water mains, 1400 feet, about four blocks. This work was all put in by Fred Ridder.

In 1920 the town council went on a real speading spree and put in a complete sanitary sewer system, spending $6500.00, and at this time 3,600 feet of 4 inch water mains were extended to nearly all parts of the town.

More people were putting city water into their homes each year, until there came a time when the pump and well could hardly keep up with the demand for water.

So, a few years ago, the town council again got busy making improvements and as a result we now have a new well, our third in 50 years, 1,512 feet deep curbed with 10 inch non-rusting iron, an electric turbine deep well pump, two pressure tanks, each of 8000 gallon capacity, and an electric fire alarm operated from the telephone central office, We now have an abundance of water enough for a town ten times our size.. It is good water too, free from sediment direct from the Jordan Sandstone vein. This last improvement cost $12,500.00 and was completed in 1935.

About 1945 both water and sewer were extended into the Morningside Addition.

The Barz Addition seems to have been overlooked when previous extensions were made to the sewer and water lines. No doubt this can be corrected.

OUR FIRE FIGHTERS

In the beginning, when Klemme had its first community well on main street, the merchants contributed and purchased a portable force pump. The suction hose would be thrown into a cistern or into the water trough at the well, four men would work the pump handles and while the water lasted they could pump one stream of water on the fire. This was better than the method of "passing buckets."

The school house fire of 1901 awakened the community to the need of better fire protection. City water was put in as stated before, new fire fighting equipment purchased, and the first fire company was organized on December 9th 1901, with 18 members as follows:

John E. Baumgartner, president, George Nissen, Vice pres., A. G. Koerner, Secretary, Wm. Meyer, Chief, Ed G. Ell, Ass't Chief.

Other members were: Lionel Fuller, Jake Kaufman, Julius Henschen, Frank Terhufen, Wm. Lau, Joe Nissen, John and Theo. Henschen, Chas. Schroeder, Fred Koken, Frank Kluckhohn, Fred Henschen, and Bash Nissen.

The new equipment consisted of a ladder wagon and a hose cart. The ladder wagon was a home made affair. It carried several ladders, some with hooks on the end, and a few long poles, and about a dozen leather buckets hung on the side.

The hose cart was a thing of beauty. The town council bought the very best on the market. It was painted red with silver stripes, and the hub caps were nickel plated. This cart was strong and well built with wheels seven feet tall. It carried 400 feet of hose wound up on a big spool which revolved on the axle between the wheels, had two nozzles and a compartment for tools. The tongue was metal and was about six feet long. To this a rope was attached so that a dozen men could grab on and help pull. The fire lads kept the axle well oiled, but even then the cart pulled hard and seemed to weigh a ton.

One November evening when the muddy street had frozen sharp and rough, the bell in the cupola on the fire house "clanked", (In those days in the event of fire someone would run to the fire house and ring the bell.) and John Baumgartner and the writer were the first to arrive. The two of us started out for main street, but we got stuck. Couldn't get up the little hill. While we were waiting for more help to arrive, Fred Schuldt came along on a beautiful bay saddle horse. He placed the end of the rope over the saddle horn, and while we guided the tongue of the cart, he easily pulled us up the hill. However, this fancy cart had a loud nickel plated bell which would clank as the wheels turned around. This frightened the young horse, and as we headed west on the level stretch of main street, the horse broke into a gallop. We couldn't keep up so we jumped clear and let the horse run away with the cart. Schuldt, the rider, got enough slack to throw off the rope, but the cart continued down main street, crossed the railroad tracks and upset in the ditch beside the road. The damage to the cart was slight and more help having arrived, we continued on our way to the fire.

After that we arranged with the dray man to pull the cart back of his wagon for each fire run. He was paid the handsome sum of one dollar for each trip.

Some years later, maybe about 1916, the town bought a Model T Ford truck which was rebuilt into a nice red fire wagon to haul all the fire fighting equipment. This was better than pulling the hose cart and ladder wagon by hand.

But even a nice new Model T truck will get old and out of date. It got temperamental and hesitant about starting when we cranked it . . . especially at night in the winter time. The paint began to get bad and our fire company was so ashamed of the old truck that they would hang their heads when they rode the thing to a fire.

Then in 1938, after we had the deep well, plenty of water and plenty of hydrants all over town, the fire company got busy and worked out a plan whereby the town and the nearby farmers cooperated for better protection. So in the year 1938 it happened that a complete new outfit of fire fighting equipment came to town. The main item was a new fire truck especially built for Klemme by the Luverne Fire Apparatus Company of Luverne, Minnesota. It is built on a Ford V-8 chassis and is equipped with a high pressure booster pump which sucks water from city mains, ponds ditches, or farm water tanks, and shoots it out under high pressure. Special nozzles turn this high pressure water into a heavy wet fog which is poured over the fire and hangs there like a wet blanket. This truck also has a 400 gallon tank for water, four chemical bombs gas masks, ladders, axes, pike poles, three special search lights, and several hand lanterns.

In 1949, the Ell Township trustees purchased a very good Dodge fire truck to be used especially for servicing rural fires in the township. This machine is housed at Klemme, the town having erected a block building, size 24 x 48, where both the town truck and the rural truck are kept for quick use.

This extra good protection reduces fire insurance rates which makes a small savings to each property owner. If your buildings in town or country should catch fire, phone Klemme Central. The operator will press a button which sets off the alarm and almost before you hang up the receiver, one or the other fire trucks will be on its way to help you put out your fire.

Most of the calls are for small fires when some stove gets out of control, grass fires and the like. These are put out in a hurry, but once in a while we have a big fire which gives our fire lads a real workout.

Following is a list of some ou

In 1891, the school house. In 1923, the Aaron Greimann cement block garage, size 44 x 80, and the John Etchen Pool Hall, size 24 x 60, both burned to the ground. In 1926, the Klemme Hotel burned. In 1927, the Paul Stille Implement building burned. In 1937, a big hole was made on our main street when Jacobs' Hardware, Stott's Grocery, and the Post Office burned to the ground. In 1941, Jacobs' new hardware store burned. In 1948, The Northern Implement Store made a very hot fire.

These are the twelve members of the present day Klemme Fire Department: Harold Kothenbuetal, Chief; Graydon Back, Assistant Chief; Garland Brinkman, Secretary and Treasurer. The other members are Fred Bell, Frederick Bell, Harvey Barkema, John Clements, Wayne Buseman, Kenneth Kluckhohn, Glen Bridges, Lloyd Lau, and Marvin Lemke.

School Reorganization Groups to Visit All Schools in Hancock County

Lay Committee to be In Students Shoes as Aid to Survey

For the past several months, a Lay Committee, made up of Non-school men from every school district in Hancock County, has been studying the school situation in the state of Iowa, and especially in this county. They have heard talks from school men from all parts of the state, and read literature on school situations in other counties, all with an eye to seeing what can be done toward bettering school facilities locally.

On Tuesday, November 18, this commitee will visit all the schools in Hancock County. They will be split into two groups; half to visit schools in the east part of the county, and half in the west part. At a later date they will make another visit with the two groups changing areas, so that they can get a complete picture of all the schools.

During the course of these visits, the members of the groups will act almost as students, they will ride in school buses, eat with the students in certain schools, look in on classes, and see just what conditions are. They will inspect each school and find out all they can about such things as plant facilities, lunch program, extra curricular activities, cirriculum, etc.

The members of this committee hope that by making this survey, they will be better able to make sound recommendations when the question of reorganization comes up.

The Klemme School will be host to the visitors from 9:45 to 10:45, and the group will be divided into four parts, with the Superintendent and three board members acting as guides.

Blood Donors Can be Typed Free of Charge

Although it may not seem too pressing to many people, still it would be a good idea to have your name on the list of blood donors for the Klemme community. Not just because by having your name there you might be instrumental in saving someone's life, but because it might help in saving your own.

Arrangements have been made at the Belmond Hospital, to have blood typing done free of charge . . . provided that certain stipulations are adhered to.

On Mondays, Tuesdays, or Thursdays, between three and five o'clock in the afternoon, groups of four or five people will be taken care of. First though, arrangements should be made in advance with Dr. Dulmes, so that the technichian at the hospital can have things ready, and get the typing done as rapidly as possible. The technichian by the way, is donating her services for this cause.

Will Meet to Discuss Adult Driving Class

According to Supt. T. G. Ahrenkiel, there is considerable interest in Klemme for an adult driver training class. If enough people are interested, the local school will set up such a class.

There will be a general meeting in Monday night, November 17, at 7:30, in the high school building, to talk over plans for formulating the class. Anyone interested should make it a point to attend.

Klemme Soldier In Germany

In a letter to his sister, Mrs. Arlin Olsen, Pvt. Herbert Schwartz, son of Mrs. and Mrs. Pearl Schwartz, tells a little of what he is doing in Germany. He says that he is a bus driver, and his job in case of an alert is to go into town and pickup officers and return them to the base. He says that they have practice alerts quite frequently, so that if the real thing should come, they will be able to get their assigned tasks done as quickly and efficiently as possible.

The weather has been "lousey" according to Herb, but the only complaint that he has is that there is no heater in his bus. Says it gets pretty cold.

Herb's address is as follows:

Hancock Fair Ass'n Holds Annual Meeting

The annual Fair Association meeting of Hancock County was held Monday night, November 3rd at the REA Basement in Garner. The meeting was attended by 44 Hancock County voters. Jack Ostercamp of Britt was elected to the Board of Directors for a 3 year term to replace Dale Brede of Klemme.

Other important changes in the articles of incorporation that were passed by the voters are that the fair board may carry an indebtedness up to $25,000.00 for the purchase of a site and buildings for the Fairgrounds. This is only for the original purchase, after that the indebtedness limit will again go back to $5,000.00. Formerly this clause read, the Fair board could go in debt only $5.000.00 even when purchasing a Fairgrounds for the first time. Two other classes in the Articles of Incorporation were changed. They are that the place of the annual meetings will be in Hancock County, Iowa, and the time of the meetings will be changed to the First Monday in December. This clause formerly read that the meeting would be in Garner and the first Monday in November.

After the annual meeting, the Board of Directors held their meeting and elected officers. They are as follows: Floyd Friedow, president; Merle Hall, vice-president, Mitchell Bock, secretary, and Ray Hobbs, treasurer. Jack Ostercamp will be the fifth member of the Board.

Commission Explains Game Storage Law

The State Conservation Commission reminds all hunters of the law governing the storage of game. According to this state law, "any person having lawful possession of game may hold same for not to exceed ten days after the close of the open season for such game."

However, a permit to hold such game for a longer period may be granted by the Conservation Commission.

Coach Cappon, Home

Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Lemke drove to Iowa City, last Friday, and brought Franklin Cappon, Klemme High School Coach, home from University Hospital.

"Cap" has been confined there with polio, but is now making a good recovery. He expects to be back teaching this Friday. He will teach in the mornings only until he gets stronger, and then will work into a full schedule. He plans on taking over the coaching duties from Mr. Ahrenkiel, after the Christmas holidays.

Chances are that Hancock County farmers are puzzled over the hog market these days. Hogs are selling for less money than a year ago. Yet, we had a 9 per cent smaller spring pig crop. One of the reasons is the drop in lard prices, Francis A. Kutish, Iowa State College farm economist, points out. Lard is bringing around 8 cents per pound today. A year ago it was around 16 cents per pound. That makes a difference of about $1.30 per hunred alone in the value of a hog to the packer—other things being equal.

And of course, other things are not equal. We have more beef to compete with pork than we had a year ago. And this also is a price depressing factor.

A third reason why the early fall market was weaker than a year ago stems from the large supplies of pork in cold storage this summer. Packers stored pork at a heavy rate last winter when slaughter was high. This pork had to come out of cold storage this summer. Sales of storage pork were a price depressing factor during August and September, says Kutish.

Cold storage holdings now are about in line with earlier years for this time of season. But last year packers began to put pork in storage about mid-November. They are not beginning as strong this early in 1952. So this removes one of the price supporting elements from the hog market that was in existence at this time last year.

Finally, hog sales have held up more than you'd expect, Kutish points out, considering the 9 per cent smaller spring pig crop. Two causes seem behind this: early farrowings were maintained better than late farrowings last spring; and farmers have been selling their hogs at slightly lighter weights than last year.

Looking ahead, the farm economist expects hog marketings to let up as we go into January and February. The biggest end of the 9 percent cut in farrowings last spring came in the later farrowed pigs. And we are not likely to see as heavy gilt liquidation as a year ago. In addition, we should see more aggressive storage buying by packers then.

We will have more beef to compete with pork, however. Even so, we should get some seasonal hog price rise after the first of the year. And prices should be better than the depressed market last year.

Hancock county farmers who can ride into this market with hogs weighing not over 260 pounds or so, should find it profitable.

Safety Department Cites Figures Proving Decrease in Fatalities

The state safety department Thursday released a summary of fatal traffic in Iowa during the first nine months of this year and stamped it the "most encouraging" such report in the history of the state.

The report listed 395 traffic fatalities for the period January 1 to September 30 this year, 37 fewer highway deaths than during the same period in 1951.

During the nine months the death rate was declining, Iowans actually traveled some 563 million more miles than they did during the same period last year, the department said.

An even brighter note was added by State Safety Commissioner Pearl W. McMurry. He said that since September 30, closing date of the report, the traffic death reduction has more than doubled.

He warned, however, that November and December are dangerous months that could bring a sharp reversal in the safety trend.

"Our hope is that after so many years of increasing fatalities tolls the people of Iowa will be so proud of this new record that they will do everything possible to help preserve it, McMurry said.

Of the 395 deaths recorded in the department's summary, 37 were pedestrian deaths, 178 were killed in collisions between two or more vehicles, 26 were killed in car-train crashes, 37 were killed in collisions with fixed objects, and 88 were killed when vehicles ran off highways.

Compared with the first nine months of last year, pedestrian deaths were down 16, deaths due to collisions between vehicles were down 15, car-train fatalities were down 15, deaths due to collision with fixed objects were up 6, and fatalities caused when vehicles ran off highways were up 10.

The total of 322 fatal accidents during the period involved 471 vehicles and 469 drivers. Seventy-five of the drivers involved were not residents of Iowa.

During the same time last year there were 359 fatal accidents involving 540 vehicles and 532 drivers, 73 of whom were non- residents of Iowa.

Friends of Scouting Contributed Well

The finance committee of the local scout troops informs us that in the recent campaign to raise money for the Winnebago Council of the Boy Scouts, Klemme contributed its fair share. In the several years since the Legion and the Adult Bible Class of the Reformed Church have been sponsoring these troops, Klemme has always done well in helping with finances.

There are 25 boys in scouting in Klemme, and they are no doubt learning many things that will help them to be better citizens. The money you contribute to the boy scouts is a good investment.

Shamrocks Roll 52-22 as Shamrockettes Go Down to Taller Sextet

The 1952-'53 basketball season got under way in the local gym, Tuesday evenmg, when the Klemme and Woden teams split a double header. A full house watched the opening fray, and got a look at what may be coming up for the season.

SHAMROCKETTES LOSE

In the first game of the evening the Shamrockettes took a 55 to 42 shellacking from a taller Woden aggregation. The game was fought on fairly even terms until midway in the last period, when Devine went on a scoring rampage for the victors, and raked up 12 points to put them safely out in front.

The Klemme guards had trouble all the way with the taller Woden front court performers, and two left the game via the foul route in the fourth quarter. Even so they turned in a commendable performance.

The Klemme forwards played well but were having trouble getting off their shots. When they did get a chance for a good clean shot, they just couldn't seem to find the hoop. Close, but they wouldn't drop.

Lacey, with 20 points on three fielders and 14 free throws, led the Klemme scoring, and Carol Bridges, with 16 points on 7 field goals and 2 free throws, contributed heavily to the total.

Devine led the attack for Woden, by dropping in 28 points. She had 9 field goals and 11 free throws.

SHAMROCKS POUR IT ON

The Shamrocks poured it on right from the start when they got into action. Woden threw a man-to-man defense against them, and they split it wide open. The guards, Ridder and Thiemann, almost took turns in driving through to score buckets. By half time they had a comfortable lead of 32 to 10.

The second half was a little different story, though. The opposition came out with a tight zone defense that seemed to puzzle the local boys for some time. They bogged down pretty badly during the third quarter, and were held on almost even terms for that period. However, in the final period, they seemed to solve part of the riddle of the zone, and drew away till at the end of the game they were out in front 52 to 22.

The Shamrocks showed well balanced scoring attack in this game with four men contributing heavily to the total. Stille lead the attack with 15 points, while not to far behind was Thiemann, with 12. Barz dumped in 11, and Ridder got 8. The opposition is going to have more than one man to watch if they want to hold the Klemme quintet down.

It looks as though the Shamrocks might do alright this year. They have a few things to learn, and a rough spot or two to iron out, but they are driving and trying, and that's a large part of the battle. For a season-opener, they looked alright, and they have a lot of time to improve.

IOWA DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC SAFETY

By Bob Hullihan

A sound began to come to him through the darkness. It seemed to be the sound of spilling water. And there was another sound, one softer, more fluid and like a sigh, coming from somewhere ahead. And all around him there was a settling, metallic noise. And then a sharp snap like a taut wire breaking.

His mind reached out to fit these clues into an answer to where he was and what had happened. Then he smelled gasoline and knew that what he herad were the souds of an automobile dying.

A reflection of terrible fear lit the darkness and he saw again the curve glistening with light frost under the headlights. He saw the concrete abutment just beyond and he felt again the sense of going. going helplessly.

His arms began to jerk as they had upon the steering wheel and he tried to throw himself aside. The movement sent signals srceaming to his brain and he realized that he was pinned in the car, his body twisted in the seat and his head held down almost upon the floorboards.

And the movement did something else. It told him there was nothing, nothing in his waist and legs - no feeling. There was only a numbness as though he were being prepared for pain.

Somewhere in that numbness he might be bleeding out his life and not know it. He struggled to rise but could not. Then he simply waited in thedarkness and thought he had come to a very lonesome way to die.

EDITORIAL

On Thursday morning all the students had the privilege of hearing a talk on narcotics by Mr. Bob Roach. Mr. Roach is a feature writer for Listen Magazine, and has interviewed famous people from all parts of the United States.

His talk included many interesting facts concerning alcoholic beverages and how it affects the human body. He gave many examples of how drinking affects the home life and how it prevents many youthful Americans from living a healthful life and becoming useful citizens.

Mr. Roach gave a very descriptive talk and we hope the students will give their most serious thought to this topic.

EIGHTH GRADE

We have been going over our tests and finding out all our mistakes. Some of the test grades were real good and some were very poor.

Our room was decorated for Halloween with black and orange crepe paper which we have taken down now.

In arithmetic we are reviewing percents which we had last year, but it seems we have forgotten all we knew. Our arithmetic tests turned out pretty well.

In English we are studying compound subjects, simple subjects and other forms of verbs. At least we are trying to.

In science we are going to do some experiments with growing corn, beans and oats. We expect to have quite a crop in science.

We are practicing for Junior High basketball during our P. T. periods. Our first game is Nov. 19 at night, here. We hope that everyone will come and help us win. We are charging admission of 25 and 35 cents.

Beverly Christiance

? ? OF THE WEEK

Do you think the teachers should object to the asking of the "Question of the week" during classes if that's the period assigned to us to work on the paper?

Herman G.: No if that period was assigned to work on the paper, the teachers shouldn't object."

Terry K.: "Definitely not! The 'Question of the Week' helps the student develop his own ideas, and no teacher has the right to stand in the way of an individual's mental development."

Noel E.: "No, if it is done in a hurry."

Dennis R.: "No, if it has to be done during that period."

Conclusion: We think it would be okay to ask the "Question of the Week" during a class if is done in a hurry and is done quietly.

NOTICE

We are now starting to collect pictures for the year book. We would appreciate anyone loaning us pictures of groups or of individual students in high school. Write your name on the back of the pictures and hand them in to Galen, Neva, John, or Margaret. If you have any questions about loaning these pictures, ask one of these four students.

High School Enjoys Lecture on Narcotics

A positive approach to life which includes leaving out of one's life anything that will break down life and individual health and happiness is what America needs more of today. It is our attitude toward life's problems that determines our success.

The entire senior class enjoyed Mr. Roach's informal talk so well that we have invited him to speak at our Commencement, May 21.

Mr. Roach showed his interest in our problems when he offered to stay the remainder of Thursday morning to talk to each individual class and to allow them to ask questions. I think the class discussions were very helpful in clearing up some of the questions students had about narcotics.

Students Give Speeches For Candidates

Tuesday, November 4, while American citizens throughout the nation were casting votes for their choice of president, future voters and leaders of America were casting votes in Klemme High.

The enthusiam and interest of the student body was shown by campaign speeches and a student election. An assembly program was held in the gymnasium .This program included a campaign speech for Eisenhower by Lois Christians. Also a speech by Noel Egeland defending the platform of Adlai Stevenson was given. The main point of Eisenhower's speech was the Korean situation and his promise to go to Korea if elected. The key note of Stevenson's speech was his qualifications, his good public record and his many public offices. After these speeches, talks by Mr. Andreae, principal, and Mr. Ahrenkiel, superintendent, were given emphasizing the necessity of every qualified American citizen to vote in every election held.

The results of the election in Klemme High were as follows: Eisenhower, 73 votes; Stevenson, 12 votes; Beardsley, 62 votes; Loveless, 27 votes.

This year, many more people voted in the national election. This extra number was composed of mostly women. By this extra number of voters, it proved that more people are interested in their government than ever before.

Since Eisenhower is now president-elect, let's all of us, as American citizens, support him.

We hope that the students of Klemme High keep these interests in elections until they are of age, for we are the future voters and leaders of our country.

Lois J. sure was in a hurry to get to Belmond Wed. night especially to the football field. (Reliable source.)

By Arthur Wellemeyer Sixth Installment

The town of Klemme did not always have electric lights, in fact for the first 21 years, we carried lanterns whenever we left our homes after dark. Even on Sunday nights in the entry of each church you would see a dozen or more kerosene lnaterns standing in a cluster awaiting the close of the service when the owners would turn up the wicks and start for home. Those coming with team and buggy on dark nights would use a dash-board lantern.

In this kerosene age, the town of Klemme had board side walks even on main street. Most of the walks in the residence district were ouly three feet wide, and often in poor repair. Sometimes through low places the walks would be elevated from one to three feet above the ground and without a lantern one might fall off the walk and get hurt. In fact one lady did step through a hole in the walk and broke her leg. She sued the town for damage.

Fred Ridder brought the first electric lights to Klemme. This was in 1911, when he installed a dynamo and a set of storage batteries in his repair shop. Whenever the engine was running for other work, the generator would be charging the batteries. This was a 32 volt direct current outfit similar to the farm plants. He supplied electricity for his repair shop, his residence, the August C. Lau home and the First National Bank.

CORRECTION

In last week's history installment, I stated that the rural fire truck was purchased by Ell township. I should have said that both Ell and Liberty townships own the truck.

I also failed to mention that Fred Bell is president of our present day fire company.

A. W.

About this time gasoline lanterns and lamps came into use. The town of Klemme had two gasoline street lights on main street. This was in 1911 and 1912.

Often for night services at church or a special program at the Opera House, a gasoline lantern would be hung outside the building to attract the people and light them on their way.

In 1913, two years later after the Ridder electric lights came to town, The Klemme Co-Op Auto and Electric Light Co. was organized. The directors of this company included such men as Jay Griggs, Albert Koerner, John Waterman, Charles Hunter, and W. F. Missman. They first installed a 15 horsepower upright Fairbanks Morse gasoline engine outfit. Later they added a 25 horsepower horizontal engine and often run them both. This was a direct current plant. They furnished electrical energy until midnight, and on certain days would run the plant in the forenoon. The town council at this time put in street lights. The electroliers on main street were paid for by popular subscription and thus in 1913 we discontinued using lanterns, except when the light plant broke down, which it did now and then during the peak load hours of the early evening.

Three years later in 1916, the Central States Electric Co. bought out the local light plant and have supplied Klemme and several other towns with electrical energy from their Iowa Falls plant.

Domestic rates, for your home.

First 14 KWH	$1.00
Next 46 KWH at 5½c	$2.53
Next 60 KWH at 3½c	$2.10
All over 120 KWH at 2.6c

Commercial rates, for business places:

First 14 KWH	$1.00
Next 46 KWH at 5½c	$2.53
Next 150 KWH at 5c	$ 4.50
Next 150 KWH at 4c	$6.00
All over 300 KWH at 2.6c

There is something odd about these rates: 150 KWH for your residence costs $6.41 while 150 KWH for your store costs $14.03. They sort of penalize the large user.

R. E. A.

Electricity same to the farmers of this community in 1938, when the rural electrification project was completed in Hancock County.

The minimum rate is 40 KWH for $3.50 and all over 200 KWH is figured at 2c.

For the last fourteen years, since the R. E. A. has been serving us. Our farmers gradually became heavy users. They use electricity to light their homes and barns, pump water, grind feed, run elevators, milking machines, cream separators, shop tools, etc. Also in the home they have electric refrigeration, electric ranges, water heaters, mixers, toasters and other household appliances.

Some farmers have heavy monthly electric bills to pay, but electricity is your cheapest "hired man".

We do not use very much coal in Klemme community, just about one third as many carloads as formerly. Thus, if John L. Lewis wants to start an annual coal strike, we wont worry too much, we will use bottle gas or electricity for cooking and fuel oil for heating. We could probably get along for a year or two without coal, we could burn corn if need be, but could the miners eat coal?

NATURAL GAS

The natural gas pipe lines from the oil fields in the south were run north in the year 1933. These gas mains run close to Klemme. Gas rates seemed high in 1933 and the town council decided to wait, but now they have given a franchise to the Iowa Light and Power Co., who expect to run the gas lines into town early next year.

TELEPHONE

When Klemme was 13 years old, in 1902, Albert Koerner, then a hardware merchant, took a notion to put in a few telephones. Several merchants and maybe a dozen farm families constituted our first telephone system. But our community was eager for telephone service and Mr. Koerner was almost forced into the telephone business by the demand. Mrs. Koerner and the children assisted at the switch board. The service was good and the business grew until they had 380 subscribers.

There was something homelike about this home owned telephone system. Central knew the voice of each of her family of subscribers and even knew most of the children on the lines by their first names. In case of an emergency you could always depend on their help. It was a most congenial set-up for a small community.

In 1926, after 24 years, the Koerner Telephone System sold out to the Central Iowa Telephone Company. This new company is the largest independent telephone company in Iowa. They have 75 exchanges scattered throughout Iowa and southern Minnesota.

They started rebuilding the Klemme system in 1949, laid cables in town, and gradually rebuilt the rural lines. They now have 436 phones on this system in 1952.

Another interesting fact is that they have 146 telephones in the home of Klemme, which nearly takes care of everybody as there are only 187 houses in town.

Our central office with Miss Shirley Bisom as chief operator, is a busy place. Besides the local calls, there are over 100 long distance calls that originate in this office daily.

Mr. Gilbert Jones, the local manager, stated that the company expects to install dial phones for all of the Klemme system within the next two years. Klemme telephone service is good.

GUNS FOR PROTECTION

During the first several years before Klemme was incorporated, their was no mayor or marshall. Thus our earliest settlers were obliged to protect their own property. Most every merchant lived over his own store and kept a gun handy in case it should be needed.

Nels Erickson, the 17 year old manager of a grain warehouse, slept in his place of business, and J. J. Stille slept in the Henry Lau warehouse. This was before there was a bank in town, and the warehousemen sometimes had considerable cash money on hand, which would be a temptation to robbers if they should hear about it.

One frosty night, young Erickson was awakened shortly after midnight by the sound of foot steps outside of his warehouse. He could plainly hear what he thought were robbers walking back and forth in the snow. He became excited, picked up his revolver and fired three shots through the warehouse door. There was a hurried retreating of steps which died away in the distance. The next morning he was almost afraid to open his door for fear he had shot a man. But, no one was hurt. Investigation disclosed that a few horses had strayed away from a nearby farm and came to eat of the grain which spilled in handling at the bins. This was what had frightened the young men.

Robbers have visited Klemme every now and then through-out the last half century. The Post Office was broken into several times, and nearly every business place in town has been entered at some time or other. Some robbers have been shot at, others have served time in jail, but none killed to date.

Legion Auxiliary Met

Tuesday evening, November 4, the American Legion Auxiliary met at the home of Margaret Thomas, with Flora Back, president in charge of the meeting. Carrie Schwichtenberg acted as secretary in the absence of Helen Stille.

Last month the Auxiliary wrote to the institution at Woodward for the name of a child to sponsor, and Lena Lewis, child welfare chairman, reports that some winter clothing, totaling $17.26 had been sent our assigned child.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Louise Etchen. Instead of a gift exchange, each member is to bring her favorite home made cookies or candy.

I want to thank the people of Hancock County for electing me as your State Representative.

I will try to serve you to the best of my ability.

More Eggs for Iowa

Em and I stopped in at Joe, the grocer's, for milk and eggs on the way home the other day.

"Here's something I'll bet you don't know about that milk and those eggs," said Joe. "The brewing industry had a part in producing both of them."

Well, that was news to me. But Joe had the facts to prove it.

"Here's how it works," Joe explained. "They use grain in making beer. The brewing process enriches that grain. This enriched grain is then turned into protein supplement for cows—so they can give more and better milk.

"Then, another by-product, brewer's yeast, enriches poultry rations, helps chickens to lay more eggs."

Now, isn't that remarkable! Here we Iowans ship millions of bushels of grain to industry for making beer. And, in turn, the healthful by-products of brewing move back to our farms to help make more milk and eggs.

School Bus Driver Tells of Violations

Motorists Should Learn Traffic Laws Pertaining to School Buses in Iowa

Too many drivers still don't know the law or else they just don't obey it when they overtake or approach a school bus stopped on the highway.

Wilbur Haefner, driver of a bus for the local school, has more miles of paving on his route than any of the other drivers, and he says that it is terrible the way some motorists disregard the law. The signals on school buses are all very prominent and clear, and yet he tells of numerous times when he has had to flag down approaching vehicles to keep students from being run over.

He says that he was so badly scared one evening that he could hardly drive the rest of the route. He had stopped at the Alex Zeiger farm, 3½ miles south of town, and had let the Zeiger's daughter off the bus, when he noticed a large semi approaching from the rear. He stuck his arm out of the window and waved the driver to a stop and just in time. The Zeiger girl had just stepped around the front of the bus onto the highway when the truck came to a halt. The front bumper of the large vehicle was no more than a couple of feet from her. A near tragedy. The truck driver was lucky, though. He managed to stop in time. Otherwise, it is possible that he may have had to face manslaughter charges.

No one wants to face such charges because of a careless moment on the highway, but it could happen. Common sense should help to avoid trouble when encountering a school bus, but just in case, the state has laid down laws to govern actions of motorists at such times.

When following a school bus on the highway, do not pass while the rear signal lights are flashing. Come to a complete stop at least 15 feet behind the bus when it stops. Do not pass the bus while it is standing unless the driver signals you to do so.

When meeting a moving school bus showing flashing lights, proceed slowly, but be prepared to stop. When meeting a school bus stopped on the highway, come to a complete stop and remain standing until the stop arm is withdrawn.

Klemme Farmer Injured as Tractor Overturns

Forrest Cutshall, who farms west of Klemme, was injured Saturday when the tractor he was driving upset with him.

Forrest was driving cattle along the road west of Klemme. He was trying to get by them, when he accidentally hit one of the animals. The impact threw the tractor too far to the side of the road and one rear wheel slipped off the grade. As a result, the tractor rolled clear over and back onto its wheels. Forrest was thrown from the machine and received a double fracture of the pelvis.

The tractor then proceeded to run wild. It went through the fence, out into a plowed field, turned around and came back through the fence, and started back up onto the road. Mr. Barry, who works on the Cutshall farm, managed to stop it before any further damage was done.

Forrest is now in the hospital at Belmond. His condition is good and he should come out of the accident with no serious after affects.

Will Give Choral Christmas Concert

Mrs. Wm. Reinhart to Act as Director

Last year the churches of the Klemme tried something new in Christmas entertainment. They banded together the musical talent from all the churches of the community, and just before Christmas gave a choral concert of Christmas music. This entertainment was so well received that they decided to put on another concert this year.

Rehearsals get underway on Friday evening, November 28, at the Immanuel Evangelical and Reformed Church. Mrs. William Reinhart will direct the chorus again this year, and Mrs. Ernest Gerardi will be the organist.

The concert as planned, will have music by the community chorus, a men's chorus, and a women's chorus. In addition there will be numbers by quartets, some solo selections, and the audience will join in community singing of some of the familiar Christmas Carols. Arrangements are being made to have film run in conjunction with the community singing.

Members of the various churches of the Klemme community, as well as other interested persons are invited to attend rehearsals and share in this Christmas Choral Concert.

Sunday, December 21, is the date set for this event, and it is hoped that this year's concert will be even bigger and enjoyed by more people than was last years'. If such proves to be the case, this musical program will probably take place annually.

Shamrocks Win Two More; Girls Break Even in Pair

Girls Down Hayfield in Thriller; Lose to Rowan

The Shamrockettes had a rough row to hoe Friday evening when they tangled with the Hayfield girls, but they came from behind to win in an overtime by a score of 36 - 33.

Trailing at the half by several points, the girls kept whittling away at the Hayfield lead until by the middle of the last quarter, they were caught up. From then until the end of the regular playing time it was a see-saw affair, with first one side and then the other ahead, and when the final buzzer sounded, the count stood at 32 - 32. In the overtime period Klemme scored four points while Hayfield was able to get only one.

Lacey led the scoring for the Shamrockettes by banging in 18 points, and S. Hauge was the "big wheel" for Hayfield with 12.

LOSE TO ROWAN

Rowan had too much height and too much speed for the local girls, Tuesday night. The game was played on fairly even terms until the middle of the second quarter, and then Rowan began to draw away. By the end of the game they had piled up a 15-point margin over the Shamrockettes, and won by a score of 58 - 43.

It was one of the roughest girls' games seen for a long time on the Klemme court, and there were times when shoulder and hip pads would have been in order. Both sides got roughed about alike, though, so no one has any kick coming.

Carol Bridges and Lacey led the scoring for the Shamrockettes with 18 and 16 points, respectively, while Barz looked best for the winners with 25.

New Barn on Schuldt Farm Nears Completion

The new barn on the Herman Schuldt farm, two miles southeast of Klemme, is nearing completion, and will soon be ready for use. Neighbors and friends have offered their assistance, and are responsible for the barn being so nearly done. Both Herman and his tenant, LeRoy Bamman, are grateful for this help, for with winter practically here, stock needs some place for shelter.

This new barn in taking the place of the one that burned to the ground last summer, and it is of block and wood construction. The block extends as high as the hay mow floor and is reinforced with steel. From the mow floor to the roof is wood, and the roof is metal.

Bamman is fortunate to have a land lord who has built many barns in the past. Herman says that some of the barns he has built have been standing for 50 years and are still in use, and in good shape.

Squeeze by Hayfield; Take Rowan 63 - 36

Hayfield threw a bad scare into the Shamrocks, Friday night when a last minute spurt came within three points of upsetting the apple cart. However, time ran out before the damage was done, and the green and white squeezed out a shakey 49 - 47 win.

Klemme led all the way in this fracas, but displayed none of the form they showed in downing Woden in the opener. In fact, they looked like a different team. With less than two minutes to go and sporting a 10-point lead the Shamrocks came apart at the seams. Hayfield threw a full-court press against them and they went wild. In that last two minutes it seemed that every pass that was thrown went directly into the hands of a Hayfield man, and when they got the ball they scored.

Thiemann led the scoring for the Shamrocks with 16 points. Ridder had 11, Barz 9, Stille 6, and Baack 5.

Truesdell led the way for Hayfield with six fielders and a free one for 13 points.

ROWAN GOES UNDER

Displaying better basket ball again, the Shamrocks had little trouble in downing Rowan, Tuesday night. It wasn't all good but it was much better than in the Hayfield game. Rowan held them almost even in the second quarter but in the rest of the game it was all Shamrocks, and they came out on top by a score of 63 - 36.

Once again, the scoring was evenly divided. Thiemann and Ridder each had 14, Stille and Barz found the hoop for 11 apiece, and Terhufen got 10.

Lyons had a 12-point total for the losers.

HOLIDAY

Thursday, November 27, will be Thanksgiving Day. Stores in Klemme will be closed in observance.

WHY WORRY?

People are always finding something to worry about.

We remember reading, some years back, of some ancient ruins un-earthed by archeologists. Among the items of interest found were stone tablets bearing hierogliphics which when deciphered by experts, proved enlightening, to say the least. Among the tablets was one which was inscribed with a message to the affect that they wondered what was to become of the younger generation. Guess the old-timers had nothing on people of today, for there still seems to be much conjecture on this subject.

While "digging" through our files in search of items for this week's "Memory Joggers", we came across a meat ad of 30 years ago that read as follows:

PORK

Shoulders	16c
Hams	18c
Rough Sides	16c
Half Hogs	12½c

BEEF

Front Quarter's	9c
Hind Quarters	12c
Roasts	16c
Steak	23c

Then in the same issue, on the same page, in another ad, this message caught our eye. "A vote for prohibition of high prices would be unanimous." Just goes to show that present-day citizens have no priority on worry about high prices. It's been going on for years.

In this paper of 30 years ago was a feature story that gave us quite a chuckle and showed about how serious many of our worries are. The article stated that due to advanced engine designs and more efficient carburetion, the motoring public was not using nearly as much gasoline as they had been a few years earlier, but that even so, it wouldn't be long before present supplies of crudes for making gasoline would be exhausted. Oil shale, according to this story, was being found in large quantities and experiments were being conducted which were proving that a considerable amount of gasoline could be taken from that substance. However, it seemed highly improbable to the writer that there could possibly be enough gasoline to take care of the rapidly increasing number of automobiles. Wonder what he thinks now?

When the atom bomb was introduced to the world, many people seemed to think that it was the ultimate in destructive power, and would no doubt be the end of civilization. We'll admit it's an uncivilized sort of a weapon, but we are still here. And now apparently we have a hydrogen bomb, which is so much more powerful and destructive than the A-bomb, that one can hardly grasp just what its capabilities are. The worriers will soon be setting up a hue and cry about what affect this new scientific masterpiece will have on the world.

We don't claim to be "old heads" or particularly scientific-minded, but it has been our observation that whenever anything new comes out, some people have to worry about it. All sorts of dire predictions have been made from time to time, but so far we have managed to outlive the predictions. We believe that the human race, as a whole, has sense enough to keep from destroying itself, and will do as it has done in the past . . . harness these tremendous powers for the good of the world rather than its destruction.

At least we're not going to worry any more about an H-bomb than we did about an A-bomb. If either one gets you, you're gone, and then we doubt that there will be anything further to worry about.

FED UP!

Judging from the number of "No Trespassing" signs that we have sold in the past few days, we would say that farmers are getting pretty well fed up on having hunters wandering around their farms without their knowledge. We don't blame them, either. Too many farmers have had close calls with unauthorized hunters, and too many of them have lost livestock to careless shooters.

Most of the people who are posting their land don't mind having people hunt, but they want them to come to the house and ask permission. Typical comment was, "If they're going to hunt on my farm, I want their car in my yard."

Co-op Processing Plant Ready April 1st

Will be Able to Produce 8,000 Gallons of Bean Oil per Day

Just west of Mason City, on the south side of highway 106, a new industrial plant is being erected. Some 1,500 farmers living in this area are closely watching progress on this project. Reason for this interest is their ownership of the plant. These farmers, through ownership of 34 local cooperative elevators, jointly own and control the North Iowa Co-op Processing Association which is building a $1,500,000 plant for the solvent extraction of oil from soybeans

The new plant will have a capacity of 4 times that of the present expeller type plant located at Manly. Reason for construction was the need for additional capacity and need to improve efficiency of operations. A solvent type plant will remove 1.8 pounds more oil per bushel than will the old type plant according to USDA reports. This, when coupled with lowered cost of operations which is expected to amount to 10 cents per bushel processer, should create a very substantial increase in operating margins, according to Glenn Pogeler, general manager.

Present plans call for the new plant to be ready for operation on April 1. While the new plant will start operations at the rate of 150 tons per day, it has a potential capacity of 250 tons per day and it is expected to reach this capacity output by stages. Capacity operation of the plant will require processing some 2,000,00 bushels of soybeans per year. This should produce oil at the rate of one 8,000-gallon carload per day. Capacity of the present plant at Manly is only 500,000 bushels per year.

Farmers first began to engage in cooperative ownership of such processing plants in 1940-41 when there was a demand for terrific expansion in farm feeding programs. At that time, farmers were unable to obtain sufficient supplies of vegetable proteins to carry on this expanded program. Consequently, they organized and built plants wherein the soybeans they raised would be processed into vegetable proteins and be immediately available for farm feeding. The Manly plant started operating in 1943 as a result of this trend and need.

Twenty-four local cooperatives, including the Klemme Co-op. Grain Co., made up the original membership of the association.

EDITORIAL

Klemme had it's first ball game Tuesday night. This event proved to be the first victory for the boys and the first loss for the girls. We were glad to see such a big turnout of fans to help cheer for the teams to victory. Although we will undoubtedly suffer some losses, we hope that the crowd will continue to attend the ball games. So if cheering really does help the teams to win, we had better all get out and yell for "Klemme".

Narcotics Lecture Makes Strong Impression on Klemme High Students

Bob, Roach, Director of Research Narcotic Education spoke to us Friday, of the increasing problem among teenagers, the use of narcotics. Mr. Roach interviews many well known movie stars, atheletes, and outstanding people throughout the country. These interviews are pulblished in the magazine, Listen, which is a journal of better living.

We discovered that narcotics not only includes marijuana, opium and heroin, but also includes alcoholic beverages, sleepping pills and several others.

He proved to us many good arguments against the use of narcotics. The chief reason is its harmful effect upon the brain. Since the brain controls our actions, intoxicated people lack perfect reasoning and clear thinking. This is the cause of many accidents and results in the needless loss of many, many lives. It is a true fact that many more lives are lost due to the carelessness of drinking drivers than are lost on the battle fields.

Although a person has had just one drink it doesn't mean that it has no harmful effects upon the person. It has been proven that just one drink does effect the reasoning power, and slows down your reactions. These are only a few of the startling facts presented to us.

Following his talk to the student body, he spent thirty minutes with each class. In an informal discussion, Mr. Roach answered our many questions concerning narcotics.

Mr. Roach also gave talks in various schools and churches of our community. These talks proved interesting and educational to both adults and students who heard him.

We are looking forward to hearing Mr. Roach again, May twenty-first. We hope that many of you who did not have the opportunity of hearing him, will plan to attend that night.

This love affair between Miriam and Bob is really getting to be something regular!

Why the tired look on Neva's face every morning? Could it be because Bill's home.

What is this we hear about Larry Stille being a bigamist? And what about those 2------ Yes? Seems the girls found all of this out at Bev's shower.

These regular trips that Dick G. has been making to Garner must be to straighten out a love affair? Huh?

What are Janet and Bill doing out by her locker every day?

Did you know that to have a date you both have to be at the same place at the same time? Just ask Dort and Harlen if you don't believe us.

How come Kay and Ronnie have their own class rings back?

Does anyone know why Marcia W. is always riding in the back of Roger L. car? Oh, well, I guess women drivers are the best back seat drivers anyhow.

We hear from the JoAnn Bacon side that Lois J. looks like Marilyn Monroe. You must be using your imagination too much or not enough in shorthand, Jo.

History of Klemme

By Arthur Wellemeyer — Seventh Installment

The Town Park

In the fall of 1913, H. J. Klemme and wife Effie, then living in Belmond, deeded a block of ground to the town of Klemme for the use as a town park. The consideration of this transfer was "one dollar" and was in fact, a gift.

There were however two conditions tied in with the deal; first, Mr. Klemme, a practical business man, insisted that the town match his gift. He considered the land worth at least $600.00, and if the town would expend at least $600.00 for the improvement of the park within two years, they should then receive a deed to the property.

Secondly, Mrs. Effie Klemme, a temperance lady with a sweet disposition, insisted that if liquor in any form was ever sold on this park site, the land would revert back to the Klemme family or their heirs. Words to this effect were written in our deed.

Mrs. Effie Klemme was right. Liquor should not be sold on the park site and she probably wondered why any man would want to sell it anywhere, since there are so many other ways to make a good living and prosper. But now in 1952, the "state" sells the hard liquor in their own liquor stores, and every town has several places that sell beer. Here and there a bootlegger still operates. Liquor has always been obtainable in Klemme since the town started and probably always will be. Never-theless it is "bad business" and adds to the grief of parents whose highest ambition is to raise their children properly. We want our boys and girls to grow up strong, healthy, well trained and temperate. This we must do, not because of the liquor traffic but in spite of it.

The original park site was a rough proposition. The east half was traversed by the "Slippery Elm" railroad grade with a ditch on each side, and the west half was virgin sod. We plowed up the sod and leveled down the grade with slip scrapers. Our local teamsters did the work with horses.

But, before we started, $623.00 was collected by popular subscription from citizens of the town. Chas. L. Yahnke, liveryman and Arthur Wellemeyer, merchant, circulated the subscription paper.

Taalkeus Blank, section foreman and member of the town council, made a drawing showing where the walks should be and where each tree should stand. This plan was approved by the council and the trees were planted the following spring. They were elm trees, two inches in diameter and were shipped here in a box car from a nursery at Charles City, Iowa.

The sand for the cement walks was donated. We rented a mixer and the merchants chanced off with the shoveling. Some had blisters on their hands when the job was done.

Two years later, George Kluckhohn, always an ardent booster for our town, insisted that we build a band stand in the park. We collected $500.00 and the building was erected under the supervision of Kluckhohn.

A new town is usually started by young men and women who have very little money, considerable debt and are filled with ambition. At the time the Klemme park was put in, the average age of the merchants on main street was about thirty years. A few men were forty or over.

Our park is a popular place for family reunions and almost every Sunday during the summer you will see one or more groups of people enjoying their picnic dinner in the park.

The elm trees in our park will soon be getting too large. They were planted 38 years ago, so we must not be surprized if some of these days the young men of our town rush in and cut down about half of the beautiful elm trees and plant smaller ones. Maybe they will plant one of each kind of tree which will grow in Iowa.

When we get started on this job, I am most sure they will wreck the old band stand and erect a beautiful shelter house in the center of the park. If every family in the community donated a few nigger heads and some cash, the shelter could be built of native rock. Keep your eye on the young men of our town.

The Pavement

With the coming of the automobile, better roads were a necessity. What a time we had on dirt roads with our first autos. The grades were narrow and if we were caught in a shower of rain away from home it was just too bad. The three inch smooth tires just wouldn't work on the wet dirt roads. If we tried to drive home in the mud we would either slip into the ditch, or get hung up in a mud hole, or both. It was indeed hard to keep on the straight and narrow way.

The main roads were then built wider and graveled. The Wilson Highway from Des Moines to Minneapolis was graded and graveled. Many of the local business men in the various towns along the route got the agitation started for this improvement. This road runs north and south and passes Klemme on the west edge of town.

This graveled road we thought was the last word in good roads. You could travel it rain or shine, an all weather road. But our joy over this beautiful road was not for long. The automobiles became so numerous that a constant cloud of dust hung over the road, making visibility bad and making drivers uncomfortable with dirt. Then came the heavily laden trucks, bumping along, which changed the surface into a wash board road.

When "Honest John" Hammill headed our state as governor, this Wilson Highway became State Highway number 69 and now extends from the Gulf of Mexico to Canada. In 1930, the State improved this road with a 20 foot concrete slab.

The Klemme Civic Club tried for several years to induce the State Highway Commission to run a pavement into Klemme which would connect the town with Highway number 69. During these several years, every few months, a committee of our townsmen would call on the State Highway Commission at Ames, Iowa and present arguments in favor of this project. Finally in 1935, the Highway Commission ordered the pavement in, and it was completed early the next spring. Our town council on the following year, let a contract to pave on each side of the 18 foot slab put in by the state. Thus, Klemme's main street, from the lumber yard to the bank corner was completely paved from curb to curb.

In 1949, the pavement on main street was extended from the bank corner to the east edge of town, a distance of four and a half blocks. It was a "Farm to Market" deal, Hancock County and the State of Iowa jointly put in the twenty foot slab. Each of the property owners paid for extra width, 4½ feet on each side of the main slab in the residence section and 10 feet on each side in the business section. The town council paid for the extra paving at the intersections.

However we still have a problem, the 20 foot wide slab of concrete was put in on Highway number 69 when our model "A" autos could do thirty miles per hour .Now our autos do sixty miles per hour, and some of the newer makes like to go even faster. People are being killed on the highway. On busy Highway 69, we should have wider pavement. I suggest a four lane highway from the Gulf of Mexico to Canada. This would take care of future traffic with more cars and faster cars. Most all drivers are good drivers. Give them a wider road and the accident death toll will be greatly reduced.

H. J. KLEMME

This is the man who owned the farm on which the town of Klemme was built. We liked him because he was fair and square in his dealings. He was generous too. He gave the land for both churches, the school house and the park.

Problems of Mentally Retarded to be Main Topic at Garner Meeting

Mrs. Erma Bunge

Mental retardation is one of the most common afflictions there is among children, yet it is the most ignored and most misunderstood. Health statistics show that out of every 100,000 people in the United State, 7 are polio victims, 15 are blind, 200 have rheumatic heart ailments, but 1000 are retarded.

As society has become aware of the need of providing the physically handicapped with the opportunity to develop to the best of their ability, so is it society's responsibility to give to the mentally handicapped the same opportunity.

Throughout the country parents and friends are banding together through the organization known as the National Association of Retarded Children. The aims and purposes of the organization are to bring about a better understanding of the problems of mental deficiency, to provide better educational facilities, to encourage workers to go into the field and to further the advancement of study, research and therapy in the field.

At the present time there is no local or state group in Iowa. Parents throughout the state are working to organize local groups which will eventually lead to a state organization. A local meeting will be held Friday evening, Nov. 28th, at 8 p.m. at the Vocational Agriculture. building, Garner, Iowa. If you are concerned with the problem of mental deficiency, or are interester in doing what you can to improve the lot of the mentally retarded you are invited to attend.

Human suffering is the great common denominator and in parents groups, the poor and rich, wise and foolish, taught and untaught, the Jew and Christian, persons from all walks of life and every strata of society are welded together in one common bond of fellowship for one purpose, namely that of creating a better world for the most misunderstood and neglected of God's human creatures--the mentally retarded child.

Mrs. Glen Bridges, Mrs. Nova Stokesbary, and Mrs. Virgil Ruter, planned a homecoming party and a post-nuptial shower for Mrs. Ridder, and Sunday, 60 relatives and friends gathered at the Methodist Church basement in Klemme.

Mrs. Ridder received many much appreciated gifts. During the course of the afternoon, Roger showed the group his colored slides that he had taken on various trips while overseas, and at the close of the afternoon refreshments were served.

Wayne Greiman Named County's Champion Pork Producer

Wayne Greiman of Garner, Iowa, has been named Champion Pork Producer of Hancock County, it was announced today by Farmer's Hybrid Hogs of Hampton, Iowa, sponsors of the National Champion Pork Producers Contest.

Mr. Greiman's records that brought this honor to him, show the combination of good breeding, feeding and management, and disease and parasite control practices in his hog production program.

Greiman's record was judged best in the county with 205 pigs raised from 25 sows for an average of 8.20 pigs per litter with a gain of 1.16 pouds per day from birth to market.

A personalized, engraved plaque was awarded to Mr. Greiman at the Champion's Recognition Dinner, held on the Iowa State College Campus at Ames today.

This is an annual award presented by Farmers Hybrid Hogs to those who do the best job on their spring pig production within the counties entering.

19 Cars of Corn Shipped in Week

Bumper Corn Crop Brings Unusual Activity

This year's bumper corn crop has made for more shipping activity at the Klemme Co-op Grain Company, than has been seen in many years.

Nineteen cars of corn were shipped out of Klemme last week, and Manager Lemke says that lack of on-the-farm storage space is the reason for this unusual activity. Many farmers had much more corn than they could possibly get in their cribs, and had to put it in temporary cribs or pile it outside on the ground. Normally, there would not have been such a large movement of corn in such a short period of time, but no cars were available until last week. Consequently, when cars were to be had, everyone tried to shell and get rid of their surplus corn at once.

Since the corn sealing program has been in affect, there has been very little movement of corn from the farmer to the local Co-op. However, sealed corn has to be in a dry place, and with not enough such places available, farmers just about had to sell in order to protect themselves from loss.

Season's First Snow Blocks Roads All Over State

Director Here From Kansas City to Help Make Event Success

Miss Dora Gilwee has arrived in Klemme to assist the High School Alumni Association in presenting the hilarious three-act comedy, "Flying High". The all local talent play will be presented at the high school gymnasium, Wednesday and Thursday, December 3 and 4, at 8:00 p. m., for the benefit of the Klemme High School Alumni Association.

Miss Gilwee met with an Alumni Association Committee Monday evening to talk over plans for the play.

The entire action of "Flying High" takes place in the lobby of a small hotel, "Purdy's Last Resort", owned and operated by that lovable old rascal, Jeb T. Purdy, who is also town constable. Guests at the hotel include Mrs. Augusta Van Sneerington and her "lithping" son "Wobert" Van Sneerington III, and Professor Boomer K. Barnsmeller, on a Government mission so secret even he hasn't learned what it is all about. Beaulah Potts is the outspoken colored maid at the hotel, who "wishes de guests was relatives so we could insult 'em and dey'd leave," and Gabby Hopkins the nosey neighbor who knows everything that goes on in town—and tells it. Love interest is supplied by Jeb's granddaughter, Mary Lou Milford, and Ted Sterling, young inventor, while Titus Pinchem, who is trying to cheat Jeb and Mary Lou out of the hotel is the villain. Betty Green is Mary Lou's breezy wisecracking young friend.

"Flying High" will give the people of Klemme an opportunity for an evening of fun and laughs, seeing friends and neighbors taking part in the gay comedy, and at the same time helping the High School Alumni Association in their benefit.

KING AND QUEEN CONTEST

In connection with the play there will be a between-acts country school skit, and a "Kiddie Circus". A children's contest to select King and Queen of the circus will be conducted, and children between the ages of six months and six years will be eligible.

Voting jars and pictures of the candidates will be placed in Klemme business places and prizes will be awarded the winners. All candidates will be introduced on the stage Wednesday night and there will be a coronation ceremony for the King and Queen, Thursday night. It's one cent a vote and somebody will win.

Anyone wishing to enter a little boy or girl in the contest is asked to call Mrs. Edmund K. Josten, contest chairman. The pictures of all candidates will be in a centrally located store window, where standing sheets will be posted daily, starting Saturday, November 29. The contest closes Thursday, December 4, at 4:00 p. m.. Remember it is one cent a vote. Cast your votes for your favorites early.

County Schools Get $88,162.87 in State Aid

Public schools in Hancock County received $88,162.87 in State Aid during the month of November for the school year 1951-52. There were 26 claims paid to public schools in Hancock County by limited appropriation which meant that the claims had to be pro-rated. Each dollar of claim was paid on the basis of 86.3%.

The general aid claims in the state are prorated from a $12,000,000 appropriation by the 54th G. A. and was made available to pay claims for the 1851-52 school year.

The Klemme Schools had in a claim for $3.808.44, and their pro-rated share was $3,286.99.

Worst Early Storm Since Armistice Day, 1940

We had an awfully long dry spell this fall, and many people were worried that there would not be moisture when planting time comes around next spring. Maybe there won't be, but we are off to a good start.

It started snowing Tuesday, and kept it up until sometime Wednesday, and approximately eight inches of snow fell. To complicate matters a high wind came up Tuesday afternoon, and gusts of up to 71 miles were recorded at the Mason City Airport. The wind was still blowing Wednesday, and highways around the state, especially in the north and west were blocked so that traffic was at a standstill.

We had a publicity release from the Automobile Asociation, in which they stated that there would be a record amount of highway travel over the Thanksgiving holiday. However, old mother nature stepped in and we think that travel for Thanksgiving will be pretty light. Many people had their plans upset by this big snow, and those that were planning to eat their turkey as guests, probably will make out as best they can with what they have at home in the "frig".

This storm is reminiscent of the Armistice Day storm of 1940. It probably snowed a little more this time, but it didn't get nearly as cold as it did 12 years ago.

PROCLAMATION

As Mayor of Klemme, I hereby proclaim Saturday, November 29th as "Flying High" Hats Day in the town of Klemme.

I further proclaim that any male member of the Klemme High School Alumni Association who appears out-of-doors on that day without wearing a "crazy hat" (your wife's oldie) will be fined $1.00 for the first such appearance and 50 cents for each subsequent appearance.

Shamrockettes Take Goodell Girls 72 - 60

Monday night the Shamrockettes journeyed to Goodell, and got into a free-scoring tilt with the Goodell girls. The game was fast and hard-fought from start to finish, and numerous fouls were called. However, the Klemme girls managed to stay on top all of the way and led at the half, 35 - 27.

Veldhouse of Goodell, led the scoring for the evening with 46 points. She had 12 field goals and 22 free throws. She had an unusually good free throw record for the game, making 22 out of 26 attempted.

GAME POSTPONED

The game that was to have been played with Belmond, Tuesday night, has been postponed until February 3rd.

Next game for the Shamrocks and Shamrockettes will be on the local floor next Tuesday night. Kanawha will furnish the opposition.

Former Klemme Man Writes from Florida

The Times is in receipt of a letter from Ira Overholt, who for a number of years managed the Northern Lumber Implement Company here in Klemme. Mr. Overholt is now living in Ruskin, Florida, and is planning to build a house which he says will always be big enough to welcome any of the Klemme Klan.

Ira, says vegetable planting is in full swing in Florida, and the roads are full of cars and house trailers from all over the country . . . even including California.

Thiemann Family Had Annual Gathering

Every year, about Thanksgiving time, the Thiemann family has what they call their annual Christmas party. The reason they hold it so early is that there are so many different families involved and if they waited until closer to Christmas, it would be hard to get them all together.

Sunday, they all gathered at the REA Building in Garner for this year's observation of the annual event. A pot luck dinner was enjoyed, and a grab bag took care of gift for everyone.

Fast Garner Quintet Wrecks Shamrocks 64 - 39

Last Friday night was a tough one for the Klemme Shamrocks. They went down under the attack of a fast and versatile Garner five, by a score of 64 - 39.

During the first half, Klemme gave the Cardinals a good game, keeping within a point or two until just before the end of the period when Garner forged ahead. Score at the half was Garner 27, Klemme 20.

In the last half, Garner's sperior height, speed and experience began to tell heavily, and by the end of the game they had built up their 25-point margin.

Koolbeck led the attack for Garner, with 18 points, and Barz had the same total for Klemme.

LITTLE SHAMROCKS LOSE 2

The Little Shamrocks took a sound trouncing from the Garner second team, and then lost another one Monday night. They played the Goodell varsity and came out on the short end of a 30 - 29 score.

THANKSGIVING

We concentrate so heavily on our over-laden dinner tables at Thanksgiving time that we wonder if the Thanksgiving idea is not forgotten by a lot of us. It's nice to have all the good things to eat, and there are few countries, if any, where the average man can set a table like the ones found in American homes on Thanksgiving Day . . . but let's not forget what's behind it all.

When the Pilgrims first landed in this country, they had very little to do anything with, except a lot of determination. During the first winter they were here, they had all they could do to hold together, and many of them were lost to the rigors of winter, disease, and to the Indians. (They considered sending a delegation to the White House to see if they couldn't get some help on the situation, but finally decided against it, settled down and went to work.)

At the end of their first crop-growing year, those who had survived the hardships of the first winter, decided that the Lord had indeed been kind to them, so they declared a day of thanksgiving.

In material goods, they didn't have too much to be thankful for, but their lives had been spared, they had freedom and opportunity, and a bountiful harvest.

We have much more to be thankful for than did our Pilgrim ancestors. Just look around you. We have more of everything than do the people of any other country, and every opportunity to make our lives whatever we choose.

Eat your turkey, but don't forget the real significance of Thanksgiving Day.

House Plants that Thrive in Most Homes

People who get credit for their "green thumbs" are simply smart enough to select plants that will do well in the environment they have to offer.

That's the opinion of E. C. Volz of the Iowa State College Horticulture Department. He feels that folks who have trouble growing plants should lay it to the fact that they've chosen varieties difficult to grow in the usually warm, dry air of their homes, or perhaps they've placed plants in the wrong locations, or haven't paid much attention to the soil used.

FLOWERING PLANTS

If you want to grow flowering plants, plan to give them all the direct sunlight possible to keep them blooming freely. East and south windows are the best locations.

These flowering plants, Volz recommends for most homes: African Violets head the list. Surprisingly, they don't require direct sunlight. Geranium, Impatiens or Sultana, Crown of Thorns and the Everblooming Begonia are other good ones. All bloom the year round.

The Poinsetta, Cyclamen and Christmas Begonia are seasonal plants that are difficult or impossible to carry over to the next year. They bloom during December and January.

When you buy any new plant, be sure to check on the type of soil and recommended light exposure, Volz advises. Some will thrive on subdued light. Others may need to be shielded from direct sunlight during the noon hours.

FOLIAGE PLANTS

Foliage plants deserve their immense popularity. Attractive in foliage, color and form, they are easy to grow and new plants can be started from stem or leaf cuttings Some foliage plants are grown because they are grotesque or interesting. Most will flourish in both low humidity and subdued light. They can ride the storm of widely fluctuating temperatures with no more than the protesting wilt of a leaf.

Upright, or bush-type foliage plants that should thrive in your home are Screw Pine (Pandanus), Dieffenbachia, Philodendron, Peperomia, Chinese Evergreen, and Mother-in-law's tongue (Sanservia).

Good vines and trailers are English Ivy, Grape Ivy, African Evergreen, Devil's Ivy and Wandering Jew. Any of these will climb if given something to climb on—otherwise, they'll grow horizontally or drop and trail. They are very adaptable to whatever you have in store for them.

SUCCULENT PLANTS

Some folks are fascinated by various succulent plants. Volz describes these as the "thick, juicy plants with fleshy leaves or stems. They hold water, and are apt to be peculiar, bizarre." They do well in low humidity and require little care. Some grow very large.

PLANT A TERRARIUM

If you have a yen to grow the unusual plants, the delicate or temperamental ones, it can be done Try growing them in a terrarium—that's a glass container you can cover partially or completely, such as an aquarium or fish bowl. The closed container keeps the humidity high and it means you can grow unusual plants in your own home to your heart's content.

You have a green thumb, too. Just look at it.

EARLY

Waverly reports the usual deuge of out-of-state hunters arriving for the pheasant season. Only problem was, the out-of-state folks arrived a week early. News that the season had been postponed hadn't reached them in time.

OLDEST

Clarke County friends think C. W. Hendrick of Murray may have set a record this month for the longest service as township clerk. At the general election he completed his 56th consecutive year. Mr. Hendrick, now over 80, has seen 15 presidential elections come and go.

EDITORIAL

The day that the American people have come to celebrate as Thanksgiving will soon be here. As you gather around the Thanksgiving table and prepare to eat that delicious turkey, do not forget how lucky we are to have it and many of the other things we take for granted. We are not going to hash over why you shoudn't gripe about high taxes and high prices, we just want to point out that many of the smaller things we do have outweigh the larger political problems of today. The facts that we can live our own lives and know our own minds are two very important things to be thankful for. But the one right we should hold above all others is our right to worship as we please. After all, what good is Thanksgiving, if we don't feel in our hearts that we do have something to be thankful for and that there is some one to whom we can direct our thanks.

Finally, we would like to state that it is not the size of your Thanksgiving dinner that will prove America to be the land of plenty, but it will be the idea that there is plenty more to eat if you're still hungry.

In arithmetic we have been mostly reviewing things we have learned before this year.

In English we have had several drills and tests.

We also had a test in history, in which nobody did very well. We are making history notebooks which will be due at the end of the first semester.

Judy Stahl and Gary Baack gave oral book reports this week. Gary is also the only one in the class to have finished a written report. Some of our reports have been given from books gotten from our "Teen Age Book Club."

Our motto for this week is, "Make a success of today and you need not worry about tomorrow".

Hamilton Addresses KHS Students; Stresses Need for Higher Learning

Says 'Aim in Mind' Essential if Student to Attend College

We were privileged to have Mr. Hamilton, from Hamilton's Business School of Commerce, at Mason City, address us Friday, November 14. The title of his speech to the student body was, "Will Santa Claus sometime run out of presents?" By this saying he meant that now it is easy to get a job without much preparation; however, sometime Santa Claus may run out of presents, and jobs won't be plentiful. Then only people who have high school and college educations will be fortunate to have jobs He impressed upon us the importance of making the most of our high school educations, and if possible continue our education by going to college. He continued by saying that we should go to college with some aim in mind, and not just for the sake of being able to say I have gone to college. He advised the boys to attend college rather than enlisting in the armed services immediately after graduating from high school. For if they have some college education, they will be able to get a higher or better position in the service. To the girls he advised extra training although they could easily get a job after graduation without it. With just a little extra training it would bring a job with higher salary and more personal satisfaction. After this talk to the entire high school, Mr. Hamilton spent an hour talking to the seniors about their future plans. He gave us pointers on many different occupations. These pointers proved helpful as well as interesting.

SENIOR

English

History

We are studying chapter 15, "The North becomes a Manufacturing Center."

Business Arithmetic

We are working profit, loss and depreciation problems. Today we had a test over five different types of problems. From what we heard about the grades in the last test, we certainly hope that this one turned out better.

Physics

We are studying chapter 10, "Bodies in Motion."

Bookkeeping

We are recording entries in the work sheet. We also had a test in bookkeeping. More tests, you just can't keep ahead of them.

Typing

In typing, we have 10 minute speed tests every day at the beginning of the period, and the rest of the time we type paragraphs, trying to get them errorless.

Shorthand

We're taking dictation at about 50 words a minute, and we are learning to transcribe our notes.

JUNIOR

Here we are again, you lucky people, to give you the main points of the news from the Juniors side for this week.

Typing

We are looking for success to help us remember some of the things that we learned at the beginning of the year. If any of you fine people, see an airy substance called "Success" running around, be sure to catch it and give it to the Juniors.

Shorthand

We are still trying to tackle the long assignments that we get and find it isn't too bad, but it is bad enough.

Government

I guess we'll go through government with tests and F's cause another test is in view. Just what will we do when "Economics" comes around?

Business Arithmetic

Believe it or not, we are still on percentages. Maybe we will get off them in due time.

Physics

Simple work and machines are still the main topic for this subject.

Drivers Training

Everyone is anxious to get their 60-day permits, but you know how things the. We hope Mr. Fischer will give in soon.

English

We are again on diagramming sentences. I think that every place we look in our book it says, "Diagram the following sentences for class time." And that is just what we do.

Daisy and Lois C.

FIFTH GRADE

Tuesday Candance Carlson returned her dental card. We now have 50% of our cards returned. In health class we are learning how important our teeth are to us.us. We made free hand drawings of a tooth to illustrate the different parts of it.

In history class we are studying about the Revolutionary War which the Colonists and the British fought We are very thankful the men won the war.

In lanuage class we are learning to use a table of contents and the index in any book. The matreial is very useful in finding matreial for reports in our other classes.

Miss Mannes has begun reading the book, "Tansy for Short" in story time. The story is about a pioneer girl who lives in Wisconsin.

It seems that Janice S. is running a hardware store. Her line of supply is bobby pins

It seems Wally G. is right on the ball with a couple of high school gals, who are they? D---- and S-----.

To bad the girls lost last Tuesday night. Looks like poor Dorothy done lost her date to. Better luck next time.

Did anyone see Daisy and Jo Ann last Wednesday night? Jo Ann was with a good looking chap from Britt and Daisy was with the usual best all around. (Clarence.)

Seems Lois C. had an unexpected visit from someone who used to be a pretty regular caller. But he had to rush away to see someone farther south for the rest of the evening.

This will probably be a pretty wild week-end if what I hear is true about Lois C. and Daisy, staying at Lois H. place. Have fun, girls. (And be good.)

Can anyone tell me just why Lois H. was beaming so in the kitchen the night we played Hayfield. It couldn't be that their was a certain boy there, could it, Lois?

For a minute Lois C. had everyone woried cause she went around like she lost her last friend. But she is back to her old self again, since Richie came back. Good luck.

I guess everything must be just fine at the Harriet and Fritz side. But remember kids true love never runs smooth. Just ask a couple of the junior girls.

I hear that we have another new romance starting in the 10th grade. It is Joan L. and ??? from Britt.

From what I see, Janet and Bill are getting to be a pretty steady couple. Well, good luck kids.

I don't think Miriam's name has ben in the paper for quite some time, so I'll put it in. Does anyone know who she has been going with? Tell us Miriam.

For a minute you had us all worried, Eleanor. We thought that your one and only was gone for good, but Sunday night told us different. But I do hear he attends a lot of Duncan dances without you. But don't let us make you lose any sleep over it.

the Highway Story

By Bob Hullihan

Things began to prepare for the end of Charley late in the afternoon when a heavy cloud cover formed and the temperature warmed unseasonably.

Charley stripped off his jacket to finish his work though he felt drowsey and worn. He dozed through supper, slept away the evening in the front room and finally dragged to bed about 10.

"It's the blamed weather," he told his wife. "You'd think it was August instead of November."

But, later in the night, Charley woke with a chill and got up in the dark to find another blanket. It was then he heard the rain falling and it was a wonderful, almost unfamiliar sound. He almost woke his wife to hear it.

As he drifted back to sleep, the rain fell across the country —on the dry fields, the dusty town, the streets and the highways.

And, most important for Charley while he slept, the rain fell three miles north by the Thompson farm, on the stretch of the highway that curves down through the trees into a small valley and out again.

The next morning, Charley looked out on a world covered with a thin, sparkling crust of ice. The first real bite of winter had come during the night.

He felt vigorous and awake when he sat down to breakfast. The climbing sun was melting the ice quickly but there was still a snap in the air.

By the time he was driving to town — heading north — the highway was almost dry and he stepped down on the gas and felt the car respond to his mood. It was a wonderful day and a bright world but it was ready now for his death.

For Charley came into the curve and shaded slope by the Thompson farm at a brisk speed and suddenly found himself on ice—just a patch of ice protected by the trees and the slope but it was enough.

The first rain, the first ice and an old driving habit made the last of Charley.

By Paul Henderson
County Extension Director

America's farmers will feed more people and feed them better next year than they did this year, reports Francis A. Kutish, Iowa State College farm economist.

Brightest spot for the consumer in 1953 is held by beef. Supply of beef and veal is expected to be 10 to 15 percent larger than in 1952. Cattlemen have built up cattle herds to an all-time high. That means more cattle to sell. We should have somewhere around 67 or 68 pounds of beef per person next year. That's the most—except for 1947—since 1918.

There's only one way cattlemen can sell that much beef. That is at lower prices. So Kutish expects 1953 cattle prices to average 10 to 15 percent lower than for the year of 1952 as a whole.

On the other hand, meat markets won't have as much pork behind the counter as in 1952. The average American will eat about 71 pounds of pork this year. But he will have about 65 pounds available in 1953.

The poor corn crop of 1951, plus unfavorable hog prices compared with corn, forced farmers to cut back production in hogs. As a result, they have about 9 percent fewer hogs to sell during the next 9 months than a year earlier. Pork prices probably will be higher this winter than a year ago—and are likely to be as high the rest of 1953 as during 1952, is Kutish's opinion.

And we can look for a record supply of turkeys for our fall holidays. Chicken is as abundant as a year ago. Eggs are more plentiful. Next year's outlook is for slightly larger supplies of chicken—but a little less eggs and turkey.

Present supplies and trends point to ample supplies of fruits and vegetables. But higher processing and other costs may cause prices of canned goods to average a little higher than in 1952.

The same forces are preventing reductions in flour, bread and other cereal produts. Higher labor costs and processing costs are pressing prices of these product upward—despite the superabundant supplies of wheat.

Fishing Shelter Permits Required of Ice Fishers

All fishermen using fishing shelters on state-owned waters during the period of December 1, 1952 to June 30, 1953 are required to secure shelter permits, the State Conservation law annouces.

The permit system was inaugurated last year to insure removal of all ice fishing shelters from the lakes before the ice breaks up in the spring.

The season for ice fishing will extend through February 15 and has been extremely popular in the past. West Okoboji Lake usually has the heaviest winter fishing pressure, with as many as 300 shelters in use at the same time.

Shelter permits may be obtained from the conservation officers in your territory, from the lake state park conservation officers, or from the State Conservation Commission, East 7th and Court, Des Moines.

PILOT

When an army pilot landed in a cornfield, and became lost after taking to the air again, patrolman Robert Janett guided him to a landing strip by using the red blinker on his automobile to lead him to the landing strip at Clermont. The pilot, Charles Hartnett, was a son of "Gabby" Hartnett, famous Chicago Cub catcher.

Corn Borer Shows Population Gain; Nearly Equals '49

Survey Shows Hancock County Averages 113 Borers per 100 Stalks

According to results of the 1952 fall corn borer survey by H. M. Harris, state entomologist and head of the entomology department at Iowa State College, the state average is 91 borers per 100 stalks—a 50 per cent increase over 61 reported last fall.

This state average is similar to the situation in Hancock County, where the borer population increased by 73 borers per 100 plants, while 113 were reported in the survey this fall.

Although the average number of borers in the state this fall has increased, it isn't as high as borer populations in the late '40s. Harris reports there were 134 borers two years ago, 802 in 1949 and 202 in 1948.

But if the weather is favorable to corn borer growth next spring it could create a serious situation in northern Iowa, where county averages neared the 1949 record.

A more accurate picture of the local corn borer situation comes from looking at average populations in the district including Hancock, Kossuth, Winnebago, Worth, Cerro Gordo, Mitchell, and Floyd Counties. The average for the district was 46 in 1951 and 161 in 1952.

The entomologist reports the general increase in the state this fall comes from feavorable weather and a long growing season. In southern Iowa, however, he explains the drouth lowered the borer count in some districts.

A survey of corn borers living through the winter will be reported about plowing time next spring Henderson says. This spring report will give a better prediction of expected corn borer damage next year.

Duck Season Closes

The 1952 duck season will close in Iowa, one hour before sunset, Demember 1. The longest open season in years was characterized by dry, warm weather which held many ducks in the north and resulted in scattered hunting success. While Iowa hunters looked forward to a weather change and the heavy fall migration, most ducks eluded them by filtering through the state in many small flights.

Some large concentrations of waterfowl will remain in Iowa after the closing date.

By Arthur Wellemeyer Eighth Installment

KLEMME CHURCHES

To get a wider view of the conditions leading up to the establishment of churches in the Klemme community, the following facts are enlightening:

Soon after the Civil War, 1865, and continuing for about fifteen years there was a rush of immigrants moving from the eastern states, particularly Ohio and Illinois, to northern Iowa and southern Minnesota. Not only that, but there was a great movement of people from foreign countries, particularly Germany, Denmark, Norway, Sweden, and England. There being little or no restriction on foreign immigration at that time. Thus, in a few years, thousands of families commenced building new homes on the farm lands of the states mentioned above.

The Norwegian people settled in a group around Forest City, established their Lutheran Church and used their native language.

The Bohemian people chose Duncan as their new home, established a Catholic Church, and used their native language.

The Klemme community was settled mostly by Germans, except in Avery township, where in addition to the Germans, there were several English families, a few Irish, and even one family of Negros.

Thus, in Klemme, it was necessary, in the beginning to establish an Enlish and two German churhes.

As the immigrants arrived, they first built a cabin, often with a dirt floor, also a shed for their few head of livestock. On this they often used coarse hay for the roof. Then, they dug a well, 40 to 60 feet deep. They planted willow cuttings around the building site, which would grow up into a shelter belt to protect them from the blizzards of winter. Of course, in the fall of the year, when the prairie grass was dry, it was necessary to plow several furrows around the building site as a protection against the prairie fires.

Meat wasn't much of a problem as the Prairie Chicken, Wild Duck and Crane were plentiful.

Fuel was a scarce item, some families, caught short of fuel, kept their heating stove going for a while, by burning twisted hay and scrub willow, which grew in the sloughs. Others would drive many miles to timberland along the rivers, buy trees and haul them home for fuel. For summer cooking, "buffalo chips" and later cobs were a favorite fuel.

The ground squirrel, the grasshopper and the crane were busy trying to destroy the crops on the little fields, which our first farmers planted, but the soil was black and fertile, and after a few hard years, the farmer began to prosper.

The early settlers of the Klemme community, brought religion with them from their homes, and among their most cherished possessions was their Bible, hymn book, possibly a prayer book, and perhaps a school book or two. These books, of course were in the German language, some having brought them from Germany. Naturally these people talked German in their homes, and the German language was also used to considerable extent by the town people in their places of business.

One of the beautiful customs these first German settlers brought with them was known as "Family Worship". Each morning just after breakfast, the head of the household, would read a scripture passage and say a prayer after which the family would stand around the table and sing a song of thanks,, usually this number; "Danket dem Herrn, den chr ist fruentlich und seine gute varet eviglich," and so forth.

The children were taught to "give thanks" before meals. Each little tot learned a bed-time prayer at his mother's knee. We record herewith a few of the many prayers learned by the children. Table prayers were:

Gottes bruenlein hat wasser die fuelle. Amen.

Komm Herr Jesu, sei unser gast und segne was du uns bescherest hast, Amen.

An evening prayer; Hilf Gott, mach uns berite su evige freud und seligkeit. Amen.

A morning prayer: Viel ubel lernt man als ein keint, und boses lernt man gar geschwein , O Gott, behuet michh jeden tag das ich nichs boses lernen mach Amen.

The children of 1952, no longer use the German language, and for a bed-time prayer may use the familiar, "Now I lay me down to sleep."

Or maybe this beautiful meal-time prayer;

"Thank you for the world so sweet,

Thank you for the food we eat,

Thank you for the birds that sing,

Thank you, God for everything. Amen.

EVANGELICAL AND REFORMED CHURCH

(By Rev. C. Grosshuesch, in 1939)

From an old report we quote the following description of the early days; "Only a few settlers had made their home on the prairie. Large flocks of wild geese and crane were at home here, and helped themselves to the seeds that the settler planted. The howling of the prairie wolves was a constant annoyance at night. During the winter, blizzards at times made it impossible for folks to find their way home. During such storms, it was customary to hang lanterns on chimneys to guide a the lost wanderer to a place of safety."

No churches existed in this community at that time. A few of these early families were of the Reformed Faith. In answer to theirurgent request, a pastor was sent to them. Under his guidance a Reformed Church was organized on October 6th, 1878. The church building was erected on the same site where the Ell Town Reformed Church is now located, (three miles north of Klemme). This was the first church building erected in Hancock County. Rev. F. Moseback was the first pastor. Charter members of this church were the following families:

H. Katter, Sr., Val Josten, Sr., Fred Ax, C. Stromer, H. Stromer, F. Gerwien, E. Stienecker, W. Stienecker, J. Wenz, Wm. Becker, F. Bock, A Barz, P. Meyer, Jac. Meyer, E. Upmeyer, F. Greimann, Jul. Priebe, Sr., J. Buhs, J. Blumer, J. Wacker, J. Goll, J. Schuldt.

Rev. Moseback was succeeded by Rev. J. Matter in 1884. He served the congregation for one year.

Rev. H. Treick was then elected pastor. Since some of the families lived east of Klemme, they requested Rev. Treick to conduct services for them in the Klemme school house.

Mr. Wm. Becker had previously organized a Sunday School where children of this neighborhood met every Sunday afternoon. Rev. Treick gladly complied with this request, and in the year of 1895, the Immanuel Church of Klemme was organized and a church building was erected.

Rev. J. Gaterman became pastor of the Ell Town and Klemme congregations in 1897.

In the year 1901, the Klemme congregation became self supporting,built a parsonage and called its own pastor.

The first resident pastor was, Rev. A. Muelmeier. There were seventy-one charter members, of which the following are still active; Mrs. Henry Wille, Mr. Wm. C. Schmidt, Mr. Wm. Wenz, Mr. Herman Priebe, Mr. and Mrs. Julius Priebe and Mrs. Peter Josten.

Pastors of the Klemme congregation were:

Rev. A. Muehlmeier	1901-1909
Rev. H. Achtermann	1909-1911
Rev. Wm. Thiel	1911-1919
Rev. Aug. Depping	1919-1925
Rev. C. Grosshuesch	1926-1940
Rev. Vernon E. Jaberg	1950-

The first class to be confirmed in Klemme was the following: Dirk Swalve, Henry Buseman, H. A. Priebe, Albert Barz, Wilhelmina Reichardt, Sarah Thiemann, Hiske Swalve, Pauline Reichardt.

The site on which the church and parsonage are built was donated by Mr. H. J. Klemme.

The new building was erected in 1930, at a cost of $30,000.00. Dedication services were held August 31, 1930, at which time all former pastors, with the exception of Rev Theil, were present. Practically all subscriptions were paid, and the church dedicated without a remaining debt.

The congregation has grown and prospered during the past years, and our hope and prayer is that we may continue to receive the blessings of God and that he may cause us to be a blessing to others. (Rev. Grosshuesch)

In September, 1949. the church and the entire community suffered a great loss when Rev. Calvin Grosshuesch, age 57, died as a result of an automobile accident. He had served this community as pastor of the Evangelical and Reformed Church for twenty- three years. He was a good administrator, a wonderful teacher, a gentleman in every repect and beloved by all.

In 1948, an electric organ was installed in the church.

A Prayer for Thanksgiving

I do not thank thee, Lord, that I have bread to eat while others starve,

Nor yet for work to do while empty hands solicit heaven;

But I am grateful, Lord, because my meager loaf I may divide;

And that my busy hands may move to meet another's need;

Because my doubled strength I may expand to steady one who faints. Amen

3,000 Members Iowa's Good Drivers' Club

Consideration of Other Fellow Main Reason for No Accidents

What may be the first clear picture of the kind of Iowa driver who simply does not have traffic accidents is beginning to emerge from a bulky file of correspondence in the office of the Iowa Safety council.

The letters are from hundreds of Iowans who have not been involved in an accident or violation from anywhere from three to 50 years of driving.

They have been coming into Council headquarters in Des Moines ever since last August, when the formation of a statewide Good Driver Club was announced.

Based on comments in the letters, Mrs. Edna Woodward, Council Manager, said the typical accident-free driver seems to be a person with definite views on saftey and consistent habits in traffic.

He most often explains his good record as the result of "always being considerate of the rights of other drivers."

He feels strongly that automobile insurance rates should be reduced for drivers with clear records and hopes the Good Driver Club is a step in that direction.

He is extremely proud of his own record and scrupulously honest in reporting any minor accident although it may have happened years ago.

One member of the Club confessed to the Council that his car had been "hit by a horse" some 20 years ago. Another described his record in a long letter then added, in a P. S., "I just got a bawling-out from my wife for bragging."

"These are not bragging letters however, and very few of them are smug or over-righteous," Mrs. Woodward said.

"It is simply that good drivers have been so long neglected in our concern over bad drivers that they are surprised and happy to be noticed for a change."

Membership in the Council's Good Driver Club is limited to motorists who have not had a traffic accident or violation in the past three years.

Mrs. Woodward said the majority of the present 3,000 members of the club boast clear records well over three years in length.

She said the most encouraging aspect of the letters is the willingness of Club Members to help drivers who aren't doing so well.

The announcement of the Area Champions was made at the Ames event, and the 11 Area Champions will be taken on an expense paid trip to the International Live Stock Exposition in Chicago this year by the sponsoring company. Herry Ott of Butler County is the winner of this award this year.

Among the primary purposes of the contest is to learn what methods are used by these pork production champions to help make them champions. This information will be made available to all farmers who raise hogs so that they may benefit from the good practices and experiences of men like Mr. Greiman.

Band Director Charles D. Whitford has announced the date for this Year's High School Band Concert as Wednesday, December 10.

This annual event has been a very popular event in the past, and this year's program offers music that should be enjoyed by everyone. Such selections as "Silent Night", "March Gloria", "Marine's Hymn", and "Merry Widow Waltz" show the variety of music that Whitford has assembled for this concert.

The band members have been working hard at rehearsals, and are doing their best to perfect their techniques so as to present the music to the public in a fashion that will add to the enjoyment of the program.

Notes from the first selection of the concert will sound at 8:00 p. m., and if you like good music, the place to be at that time is in one of the seats at the High School Gym.

Service Inductees Report December 2

December 2, saw nine young Hancock County men report for induction into the armed forces.

Richard LeRoy Kaduce, former Klemme young man, who has been living in Clear Lake, was among the nine listed by Selective Service Board No. 1841 at Britt, as was Virgil Glenn Pringnitz, young farmer, west of Klemme.

Others from the county who reported for inductions were:

Ralph John Ouderkerk, Britt; James Carl Johnson, Corwith; Dennis Hilbert Gerdes, Woden; Donald Elmer Hansmeier, Crytal Lake; Marvin Francis Studer, Wesley; Donald Ray Smidt, Forest City; and Tex Olin Borg, Forest City.

Christmas Trees Big Business Now

Long before now, most Christmas trees to be sold commercially, had already been cut and were on their way to market.

According to the U. S. Forestry Service, that includes thirty million trees, of which twenty-three million are from the U. S. and the remainder from Canada. Most of the cutting began early in October, before deep snows buried the trees and made travel impossible.

It's a fifty million dollar business, and since nearly half of our Christmas trees come from small farms, many farmers depend on them as a source of income. In Montana, the sale of Christmas trees adds nearly a million dollars to the annual farm income.

In addition to the trees, the manufacture of ornaments, lights and Christmas tree stands also represent a large income.

Attends National Committee Meeting

Miss Novella Bredbenner was at Columbus, Ohio, during the Thanksgiving holidays, to attend the meeting of the national executive committee of Kappa Phi, national Methodist Girl's Club.

Miss Bredbenner is the Nation-Alumni Secretary of Kappa Phi. Other national officers attending the meeting were from Ohio, Massachusetts, New Jersey, Connecticut, Pennsylvania, and Virginia.

Died Sunday After Long Illness

Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock from the Methodist Church in Klemme, for Mrs. Bessie Waterman, 54. Mrs. Waterman had been ill for a number of years, and died Sunday morning, November 30, at the Belmond Hospital.

Services were conducted by the Rev. E. Morris Egeland, who used as his sermon text, II Corinthians 5: 1—"For we know that if our earthly house of this tabernacle is dissolved, we have a building of God, a house not made with hands, eternal in the heavens."

Music was by a ladies' chorus and Mrs. Leland Lieuwin of Rowan. The ladies' chorus, consisting of Mrs. Vern Bisom, Mrs. Gerald Koerner, Mrs. C. A. Arnold, Mrs. Geo. Schoenwetter, Mrs. Otto Lemke and Mrs. Roy Arnold sang two songs: "Sometime He'll Make it Plain," and "Blest Be the Tie that Binds." Mrs. Lieuwin sang a solo, "Going Home," and was accompanied by Mrs. Paul Jenison of Belmond. Organist for the service and accompanist for the ladies' chorus was Mrs. E. Gerardi.

Sharing in the committal service at the cemetery was the Order of Eastern Star, relief Chapter of Garner, of which Mrs. Waterman was a member.

Funeral arrangements were in charge of the Wellemeyer Funeral Service.

An obituary of Mrs. Waterman appears on Page 5.

Civic Club Will Again Sponsor Annual Event

Santa Claus is coming to town.

According to Ernest Gerardi, president of the Klemme Civic Club, Santa Claus will be in Klemme, Saturday, December 13, to help with the annual Christmas Party.

This party is put on annually by the Civic Club, for the benefit of the children in the Klemme community, and as a gesture of appreciation to the people of the community for their patronage during the year past.

All of the arrangements aren't completed as yet, but it is planned to have a movie, treats for the kids, and it is certain Santa will be there.

In past years this event has been a high light of the Christmas season, as far as the children are concerned, and we will have all the details in next week's issue of The Times.

Shamrockettes Show Improvement, Take Kanawha; Shamrocks Lose

Girls Win 51 - 33; Shamrocks Get Nipped By Bulldogs

Tuesday night the Klemme High School basketball teams met the Kanawha teams on the local floor and had to be content. with a split decision for the evening's work.

The Shamrockettes jumped into a first-quarter lead 14 - 8, and showing improved ball handling, were never headed. At the half-way mark they were out in front 23 - 13, and they continued to increase their margin until at the end of the game they had an 18-point victory margin. Final score 51 - 33.

Carol Bridges led the scoring for the klemme girls with 10 field goals and 4 free throws, for 24 points, while Lacey had 8 fielders and 5 free ones, for 21 points.

Kurtz carried the scoring load for Kanawha by dumping 7 field goals and 8 from the foul line, for 22 points.

SHAMROCKS LOSE

In a ragged ball game, the Shamrocks took it on the chin from the Kanawha Bulldogs by a score of 39 - 29. Trailing at the end of the first quarter by a 7 - 6 score, the Shamrocks gradually lost out as the game progressed. At the half they were on the short end of an 18 - 11 score, and at the end of the game they trailed by 10 points, 29 - 39.

Barz, of Klemme, and J. Mewes, of Kanawha left the game via the foul route, but fouling on the part of the other players was not too promiscuous.

Zeigler, of Kanawha, led the scoring ofr the evening with 13 points, and his team-mate, J. Mewes, had 12. Stille had eight points for Klemme and Thiemann, 6.

VENTURA HERE FRIDAY

Next action on the home floor will see both the boys and the girls teams swing into action against the Ventura cagers. Friday night at 7:00 o'clock is game time, so make it a point to be here.

WHO'S THE BOSS?

During the recent presidential campaign, we heard many people make reference to Eisenhower' connections with Senator Taft. Said they, "Taft will be leading him around, telling him what to do." We wonder what they think now? "Ike" has completed the naming of his cabinet members, and "Bob" Taft is squealing like a "stuck hog". concerning the appointment of Martin P. Durkin, labor leader, to the post of Secretary of Labor.

This sounds to us like the crying child who didn't get his own way. Taft had submited a list of "possibles" for the office, and now he says that it is incredible that Eisenhower should have named this man to such a responsible position.

We're not qualifed to pass on the wisdom of the appointment, but we can say that nobody is leading "Ike" around by the nose --- and we don't think they're liable to.

BOUQUET

We think that our city officials deserve a bouquet for the efficient way in which they tackled the job of opening our streets after last week's blizzard. They were out with their new maintainer as soon as the wind subsided last Wednesday evening, and soon had all the streets in town open to traffic. Saturday morning they started removing snow from the main business block in town, and by Monday afternoon they had the job completed. Good deal!

the Highway Story

By Bob Hullihan

The patrol car was moving north through heavy rain just beginning to turn to snow on the windshield. The young patrolman - he'd been on the force about two years - answered questions while he drove.

What was the worst accident he ever had to cover? "I was on one where six people were killed in two cars. Two were dead and four died later, including two children."

How did you feel after working on an accident like that? "At the time, in all the excitement, you don't feel much of anything, but afterwards, you just aren't hungry for a while."

What accident had hit him the hardest? "I was called to a country gas station where a little boy had been hit by a car. As soon as I saw him I knew he was dying. His injuries were all internal and he was bleeding from the nose and mouth.

"The worst part of it was that I could feel the people standing around were hoping I could do something to save his life. But there wasn't anything I or anyone else could do but cover him with a blanket and pray the ambulance hurried. He died just as an ambulance arrived. The kids hit you the hardest.

What did he fear most in an accident? "It hasn't happened yet, but I know it's coming some day. I'm afraid of having someone pinned alive in a wreck and then have the car catch fire."

Just about then a radio call came from about ten miles ahead. There was a 5-40 - the patrol signal for a serious personal injury accident. The patrolman on the scene was calling for assistance

In a matter of seconds, the young patrolman was doing 75 miles an hour through the cold rain - a young man on his way to work.

Obituary of Mrs. Bessie Waterman

By Arthur Wellemeyer

BESSIE WATERMAN was born January 8, 1898, on a farm near Hampton, Iowa, the youngest of eight children born to her parents, Charles F. Keraus and Antcnia P. Prochaskaa Keraus. Four of her brothers and sisters died as infants and three survive.

Bessie acquired her grade school education at Hayfield, Iowa, and continued her school studies at the Klemme Public School.

She became a member of the English Methodist Church at Klemme, by confirmation, always sang in the church choir, sang at many funerals, and taught a Sunday School class as long as her health permitted.

She was a member of the Naomi Circle of the Women's Society of Christian Service, was an Eastern Star, a Royal Neighbor, and held membership in various local social groups.

On September 16, 1918, at the age of twenty, Bessie Keraus and Clarence G. Waterman were married at the home of the bride's parents, by the Rev. J. M. Howdshell. They commenced housekeeping in Klemme and continued to live here. In these thirty-four years, they certainly "took root" and became a vital part of our community, and an influence for good.

They became the parents of two daughters, Ardice Lucile, who died as an infant in 1928, and Marian who survives.

Bessie Waterman was always healthy and active, and had a pleasing personality, but several years ago she noticed a numbness in her feet, which continued to grow progressively worse. For a few years she used a wheel chair. Even then she was pleasant to everyone. Finally, this creeping paralysis became serious and in spite of all that good dectors and good care could do, the end came. This occurred early Sunday morning, November 30, 1952, at the Belmond Hospital.

She reached the age of 54 years, 10 months and 22 days, and leaves to mourn her passing, her husband, Clarence G. Waterman; one daughter Marian, Mrs. Lyle Wilcox, Spencer, Iowa; one sister, Rose, Mrs. Tom Mitchell, Swea City, Iowa; two brothers, Wm. C. Keraus, Klemme, Iowa, and Jess Keraus, Aberdeen, South Dakota, and a host of more distant relatives and friends.

History of Klemme

By Arthur Wellemeyer Ninth Installment

LIBERTY METHODIST CHURCH

It was in 1871 that Rev. Koerner, a circuit rider, called at the farm home of Sebastian Ell, in Ell Township, and conducted a religious service. Attending this service were Sebastian and Katherine Ell, and six of their children, John, Margaret, Barbara, Kate, Phillip and Mary; also Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Gates. This was the beginning of German Methodism in Hancock County.

In 1872, Rev. Gotlieb Haefner, moved to Concord as the first resident pastor. Religious services were held in the new courthouse, and the scattered early settlers drove many miles over sod trails to attend worship.

In 1876, after Liberty Township had completed the building of their first school house in the center of the township, Rev. E. W. Henke, pastor at Concord, arranged with the people of the township to have religious services every Sunday afternoon. The following families attended Center School services; Henry Stille, John F. George, Wm. Stille Sr., Jochim Schuldt, Henry Terhufen, Henry Krueger, Fred Lenz, Simon Krueger, Ernest Lenz, Henry Schwichtenberg, Wm. Beier Sr., Henry Griewe, Frederick Schlei, Wm. Bredlow, Fred Schuldt, Albert Reimer, John Suckow Sr., Charles Bredlow, and Frederick Griewe.

Rev. E. W. Henke, served Liberty Center School for two years.

In 1881,Rev. Gotlieb Haefner served two years and it was during this pastorate that Henry Stille passed away and the funeral service was conducted from the school house by Rev. Haefner, assisted by Rev. Peter Helvig.

Thus, for nine years the Liberty Methodists worshipped in the Center School House.

Rev. Gotlieb Haefner, during this two year pastorate, also found time to build the German Methodist Church in Garner, Iowa.

In 1883, Rev. Wm. Koerner was returned to our community as pastor at Garner. During his pastorate, the Liberty Methodist Church was built, and dedicated September 20th, 1885.

This building was a rectangular structure about 24 feet wide by 48 feet long. On the east end was an entrance, over which was a 75 foot steeple. On the west end was an alcove with pulpit platform and altar rail. There was a balcony at the east end. Below the balcony was the entrance and "baby room." The foundation was of native "nigger heads" hauled in by the members. It was heated by two tall coal stoves and lighted by kerosene lamps. The center lighting fixture was a chandelier with some 20 lamps arranged in a circle. The land for the church site was a gift from Henry Stille.

KLEMME'S GERMAN METHODIST CHURCH

In 1889, when they began to spoil a nice corn field to build up the little town of Klemme, there was a pastor at Garner by the name of Rev. Henry Kaste, who came to Klemme now and then and preached in the school house. Furthermore, the name Kaste should be mentioned in this history, because three of the Kaste daughters moved to our new town at the very beginning. Lydia became the wife of Henry Gructzmacher, Lizzie married Charles Gruetzmacher and Julia with her husband, E. P. Schaefer were working together to build up a dry goods and genstore business. These three families were an influence for good during the first decade of our towns existance.

In 1890, Rev. F. H. Wellemeyer arrived, and as the Lord's work had grown heavy, the conference sent him an assistance in the person of Rev. Henry Schwietert. These men served Garner, Hayfield, Liberty and Klemme. During this pastorate the German Methodist Church was built in Klemme. It was dedicated in November 1893.

The German Methodist Church was incorporated, February 15, 1897, and the papers being signed by the following trustees: Henry Gruetzmacher, C. W. Knapp, Henry Dusenberg, E. H. Lenz and Julius Bettin.

In 1894, the pastoral field was divided, Garner and Hayfield had one pastor and Klemme and Liberty another. Rev. Gotlieb Haefner was sent as the first resident pastor for the Klemme and Liberty Churches. He built the personage in Klemme. Total membership at that time was 222.

Rev. H. C. Hilmer followed in 1897.

In 1898, Rev. A. M. Brenner arrived and stayed three years. During his pastorate the Epworth League was organized. The young people met every Sunday evening in the Liberty Church. It was a success right from the start and the attendance often filled the church.

Rev. Adolph Dulitz was returned to us in 1901, for three years.

Rev. George Wessel came to us in 1904 and served for six years. He remolded the Liberty Church by building an addition on the north, put in a furnace, a carbide lighting system and the high steeple was taken down and a new entrance and a low belfry added.

Rev. H. W. Schneider came in 1910 and was with us for three years.

Rev. W. J. Witer was with us also three years and came in 1913.

Then came Rev. A. H. Meyer in 1916. He again made further improvements to the Liberty Church. The building was raised and basement rooms provided, which included a kitchen and a large dining room for social gatherings. Electric lights were also installed.

During the four years of Rev. Meyer's pastorate and continuing through the three years while Rev. W. C. Bergman was here, the language problem came up. Some of the older members could not express themselves readily in the English language. Many of the younger members could not talk he German language fluently, and a few of the children could not understand German at all.

After due consideration the German language was dropped from use and the English has since been used in all services.

ENGLISH METHODISTS

The first beginnings of the English Methodist Church of Klemme started with the year 1890, and seemed to center around two interesting women, Mrs. Amanda C. Kirkwood and Mrs. Myra Peitzeke. Mrs. Kirkwood arrived with her family in March 1890, was the first woman resident of Klemme. Her husband, Alex Kirkwood was Klemme's first buttermaker. A few weeks, later Myra Peitzeke moved to Klemme and lived in a small new home which her husband, Henry Peitzeke, had just completed back of his blacksmith shop.

While the men folks were busy getting their business places established these women were thinking about churches and schools. By fall, the Schafer and Dow families had arrived. Through the joint efforts of this group of women, a Sunday School was started in a little school house which then stood on the Allie White farm one mile south of Klemme.

Rev. Nolte preached there occasionally and later Rev. Humphrey supplied quite regularly.

The first resident pastor of was Rev. Charles Plummer, who in 1894, started plans for a church building. His successor, Rev. C. E. Anderson completed the project and the new church was dedicated in 1895.

During the next 28 years, this church was served by 23 different pastors.

Articles of incorporation for the English Methodist Church were filed April 2nd, 1895, and were signed by Amanda Kirkwood, Myra Peitzeke, Josephine Palmby, Elizabeth Dickenson, W. G. Dickenson, Mort Palmby, Caroline Larsen, H. N. Merrick, Lelia Harr and J. P. Larsen.

The trustees were listed at the time as; H. N. Merrick, W. G. Dickenson, J. L. Harr, Mort Palmby and J. P. Larsen.

Thus, almost from the beginning, Klemme was blessed with both German and an English speaking church. The two Methodist Churches continued to function side by side for many years. Eventually there came a time when the German language was dropped from use.

It was then, the two churches merged. This was effected under the leadership of Rev. A. W. Gauger in 1923.

For seven years, the merged congregation held services in the German Church, while the English Church ws used as a Parish House.

In 1930, under the pastoral leader ship of Rev. Harry E. Whyte, a beautiful new church was erected and dedicated on October 5, of the same year.

The German Methodist Parsonage was kept for the minister's home.

The two old church buildings, after having served for 35 and 37 years as places of worship, were dismantled and the lumber sold at auction.

The church bell from the German Methodist Church was retained for use in the new church and a set of chimes was installed in the tower. Later an electric organ was installed.

Pastors who have served since the merger are:

Obituary of Fred A. Nuehring

By Rev. Vernon E. Jaberg

Mr. Fred Nuehring, whose earthly departure is deeply and sorrowfully mourned by his loved ones, acquaintances and friends, was born September 26, 1887, in Hanover, Germany. He was the second child of William and Minnie nee Joretz Nuehring. He received the sacrament of Holy Baptism as an infant in the Lutheran Church of Hanover, Germany.

When he was a child of three years, he came to America with his parents who resided at Postville, Iowa, for a short time and later moved to Klemme, Iowa. As a youth, Mr. Nuehring attended the public schools of Avery and Twin Lake Townships.

After a course of instruction in the doctrines of the Christian Faith, Mr. Nuehring was received into the fellowship of the Christian Church in the St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran Church of Goodell, Iowa, on March 31, 1901. The confirming pastor was the Rev. August S. Wellner.

He was united in the bonds of marriage with Alma Born on February 28, ,1912, by the Rev. William P. Thiel, pastor of Immanuel Reformed Church of Klemme. God in His providential mercy and love blessed this marriage with six children, two of whom died in childhood and infancy.

Mr. and Mrs Fred Nuehring established their home on a farm six and a half miles southwest of Klemme and lived and labored there together for a period of thirty-two years. Mr. Nuehring took a great interest in his work and was a devoted husband and considerate and loving father. He was a faithful and consecrated member of Immanuel Evangelical and Reformed Church of Klemme.

The Nuehrings retired from their farm in October of 1944 and moved to their home in Klemme. In February of this year, it was their unique privilege to celebrate the Fortieth Anniversary of their marriage.

On July 7 of this year, Mr. Nuehring suffered a heart attack and was taken to St. Joseph's Mercy Hospital in Mason City, where he was a patient for approximately four weeks. He was taken to his home and was cared for with loving hands by his wife and his children and their families. He was taken to the hospital in Belmond on November 25th and on December 2nd, he was called to his eternal reward, having attained the age of 65 years, 2 months and 6 days.

Mr. Nuehring was preceded in death by his parents, one sister, Hulda, and two sons, Clarence, who died in 1913 and Harvey, who died in 1924.

He is survived by his wife, sons, Erwin, Earl and Harlan, all of Klemme, and by one daughter, Charlotte (Mrs Merlyn Helps) also of Klemme. He is also survived by eight brothers, Otto, William and Rudolph, all of Mason City, Iowa; Henry, Alfred, and Edwin, all of Belmond, Iowa; Emil, of Chicago, Illinois; and Herman, of Little Falls, Minnesota. He is also survived by eight grandchildren, Marcella, Eldon, Karen, Darryl, Harley, Peggy and Patricia Nuehring, and Randy Helps In addition, he is survived by three daughters-in-law, one son-in-law and a host of more distant relatives and dear friends.

By Paul Henderson
County Extension Director

Not all the higher cost of living is the result of rising food prices. Part of the increase in family bills over prewar days comes from, as they say in the South, "people eating higher on the hog."

Francis A. Kutish, farm economist at Iowa State College, points out that the average American family of 4 will spend a little over $1600 for food this year. But if that family ate the the same kinds of food that they ate in the years just before World War II, they would be spending only $1120 for food in 1952.

In other words, the American consumer is eating more and better foods at home. And he is buying more restaurant meals than before the war.

Mr. and Mrs. America and their children are eating more dairy products - except butterfruits, vegetables, eggs and meat than they did in the prewar days. On the other hand, they are eating less bread, cereal and potatoes.

MORE SERVICE

And they are getting more service when they buy this food. Take poultry for example. The average city family used to go out in the country to buy a live chicken. Pa whacked its head off in the back yard with an axe. Then Mother cleaned it, picked the pinfeathers, and got it ready for the frying pan.

Today, Mom buys the chicken already cut up. All she has to do is plop it in the frying pan. And if she doesn't want to do that much, she can buy it already cooked.

This service costs money. And that's one of the reasons why food bills have gone up, Kutish points out.

MORE NUTRITIOUS

Another example is frozen orange juice. Before the war it was unheard of. Today a fourth of the oranges consumed in this country is in the form of frozen concentrate, Kutish reveals. It's one of the big reasons why the consumption of this highly nutritious food has gone up. But it also has added to the cost of the food budget. Clearly it is a case of "living higher on the hog."

Farmers are likely to have fewer hogs to market in the first 8 months of 1953 than they marketed in the same months of 1952, says USDA economists.

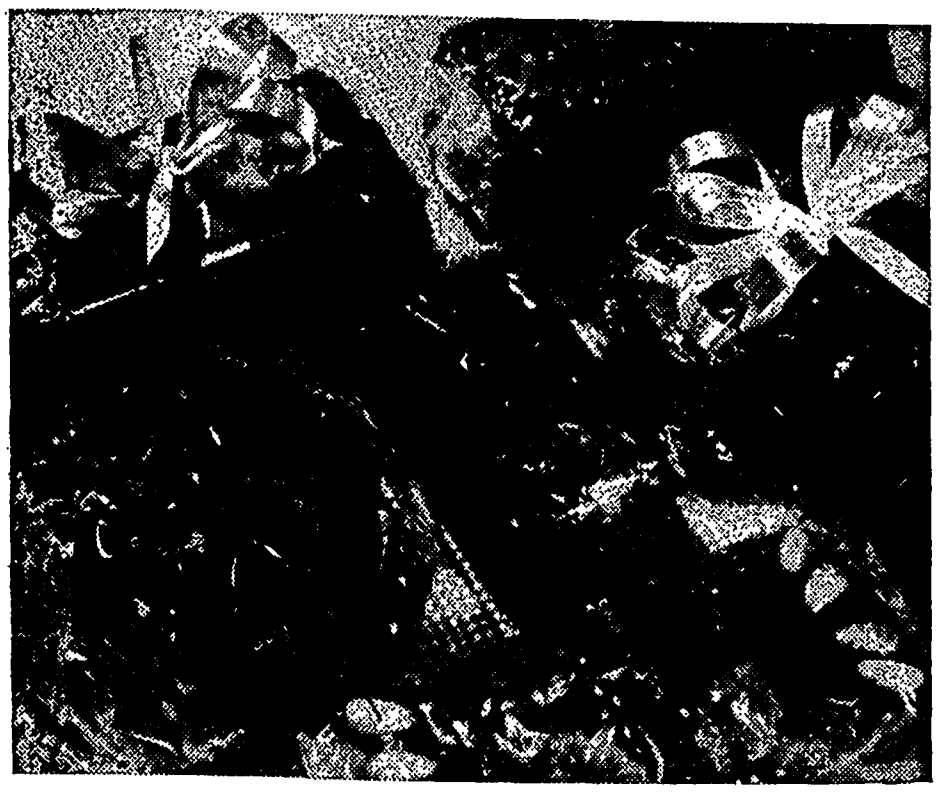
This Year, Say Merry Christmas With—

Custom-Made Gifts From the Kitchen



Whether it's a package of fruit cake, your prize jam or your family's favorite casserole with recipe attached, a gift from your kitchen is a very personal way of saying "Merry Christmas."

Yes, do say "Merry Christmas" with a gift from your kitchen. But give the choice of what you stir up as much thought as each gift you would select in the store..

Aunt Minnie may be eagerly anticipating a glass of your best homemade jam again this year. But perhaps the Holts would appreciate something else more. For instance, a jar of your special barbecue sauce they raved about last time you had them over to dinner, with the recipe attached. And the Munsons are having company for the holidays, so why not send over a dessert nut loaf colorfully wrapped in metallic foil?

SOMETHING SPECIAL

So might your thoughts go as you think up something special for each individual or family on your "kitchen list."

"Folks doubly appreciate a gift from your kitchen when it somehow seems made to order just for them," says Leslie Smith, Iowa State College extension nutritionist.

Friends who are having guests will be especially pleased with the company size casserole, nut-bread, festive salad or frozen dessert you take over. It's always nice to include the recipe, too—for it will be good and they will want to have it again.

Another welcome gift would be a generous jar of mincemeat with three or four of your favorite recipes featuring mincemeat attached.

Homemade candy, shimmering jams and jellies, fruit cake, a jar of your oft-admired salad dressing—the choice is almost limitless. And part of the fun will be suiting each gift to the recipient.

COLORFUL PACKAGE

Colored metallic foil will serve the double purpose of making your package festive and keeping the food fresh. And if you feel that you want to give something more, by all means do so. You could package your gift of food with a shining new loaf pan, ramekin dishes, muffin tin, casserole dish, or a new piece of your friend's pottery or china.

And in case you're looking for some brand new jam or candy recipes, here are two such recipes from Mrs. Smith.

QUICK RHUBARB JAM

This is guaranteed to be the best you've tasted and the quickest you've ever made.

Bring 5 cups of partially thawed rhubarb and 4 cups of sugar to a boil. Cook just until sugar is dissolved and rhubarb is still chunky. Add to 1 package raspberry - flavored fruit gelatine, stir thoroughly, pour into hot clean glasses or gift container and seal. That's all there is to it. Result is a delicious clear pink jam with chunks of rhubarb suspended in it.

BUTTERMILK NUT CANDY

Mix together 2 cups sugar and 1 teaspoon soda. Add to 1 cup buttermilk. Bring to a boil over a high flame in a 4-quart pan and boil 5 minutes, stirring constantly. Take from the fire and add 2 tablespoon butter and ½ cup or more of nutmeats. Boil mixture until it forms a soft ball in cold water. Take from the fire and let stand 2 minutes. Then beat candy until cool and drop by spoonfuls onto wax paper.

Tuck the candy into its colorful Christmas package and jot down the recipe on your accompanying card.

SIXTY-FIRST

At Humboldt, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Sheldon, recently observed their sixty-first wedding anniversary. Only one other member of the original wedding party still survives.

LAST TIME

At Britt, rural mail carrier Jesse Blasier has carried the mail for the last time, after 40 years of service. Patrons of the route showered him with gifts as he made his last round.

To help control rats, cut weeds around your farmstead and clean up piles of lumber and junk.

Henderson Urges Early Seed Testing

Hancock County seed growers can get ahead of the rush and get early returns on seed tests by sending seed samples to the Iowa State College Seed Testing Laboratory soon, says Hancock County extension director Paul Henderson.

Samples sent before Jan. 1, 1953, will be tested promptly and the results will be in the hands of the grower so he can start sales well ahead of the planting season.

The Iowa Agricultural Seed Law requires that seeds sold for planting purposes be tested, Henderson says. And the law prohibits sale of seed which contains any primary noxious weed seeds; contain over 3 percent total weed seeds; has not been tested within the last 9 months; or which is not labeled in compliance with legal requirements.

Seed sold on the farm by the grower is exempt from detailed labeling, Henderson points out. But in this case the grower must provide the prospective buyer with the percentage germination of the seed and the month and year the seed was tested for germination, as well as the kind and number of all noxious weed seeds per ounce or pound of the seed he's selling, he adds. Seed sold off the farm must bear a printed label on each container.

The State College Seed Testing Laboratory offers service in testing that will allow the grower to obtain information to comply with the state seed law, Henderson reports. The seed samples are tested for germination, pure seed, other crop seed, inert matter and weed seeds. This information is reported by percentages as is required for proper labeling. In addition, the reports lists common weed seeds present, secondary noxious weed seeds present and crop weed seeds present.

The laboratory's report goes a step farther in furnishing the grower facts about his seeds. A grade "good seed," "satisfactory seed but low in quality" or "this seed is unfit for seeding purposes" - is placed on each sample by the trained seed technicians who test it. The grower is also told why his seed sample was given a certain grade.

Henderson offers service to Hancock County growers who want seed tests made. He can tell the grower how much seed is necessary for testing and how to take seed from a lot to get a representative sample. And he has mailing containers made specifically for mailing seed samples safely. If a grower prefers, he can send samples directly to the Iowa State College Testing Laboratory, Ames, Iowa. A nominal charge is made for the testing service. It is the same whether the seed is sent direct or through the county extension office.

Results of the seed test are sent to both the grower and to the extension director. When Henderson receives a copy of the report, he can help the grower interpret the results of the test, as well as clear up any questions the grower has concerning compliance with the state seed law.

Supplies of fertilizers will be up about 12 percent over last year, but prices aren't expected to drop, says Gordon Bivens, extension farm economist at Iowa State College.

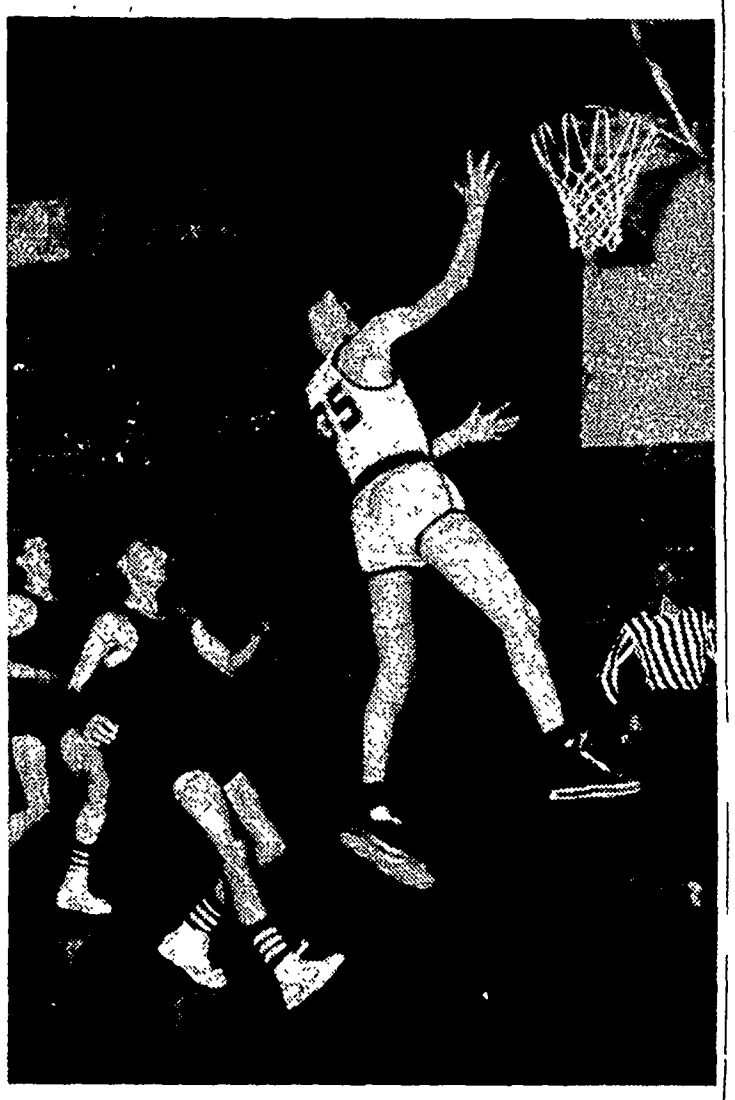
Who's Got It?

We don't remember who got the ball, but a lot of gals were really after it. The two Shamrockettes, (in white) are Carol Bridges and Lois Christians.

Long Gone!



High in the air to drop a fielder is Denny Ridder of the Shamrocks. This photo was made during the recent game with Garner.

Basketball Teams Win Pair Then Get Snowed Under

Looked Good Against Ventura, But Goldfield Too Much for Locals

Last Friday night the Klemme boys' and girls' basketball teams met the Ventura cagers on the local floor, and were victorious in both games.

Both contests were close and saw the Klemme teams having to come from behind to win.

In the opener, the Shamrockettes had a "ding-dong" battle, with everything all tied up at 38 all with about 10 seconds to play. Then a Ventura girl fouled Dorothy Lacey and she stepped up to the charity lane and sunk one of her two attempts to put Klemme out in front 39 to 38 . . . and that's the way the game ended.

Carol Bridges led the scoring for the Shamrockettes with 15 points, while Lacey had 14 and Christians, 10.

In the second game of the evening the Shamrocks really had a rough time.

They led by a few points most of the way, but at the end of the third quarter, they were behind 36 to 32 However, they rallied and finished strong. Final score was 51 to 43.

Stille led the attack for the Shamrock five, with 19 points, while Barz had 18.

WHAT HAPPENED?

Judging from the scores of the games at Goldfield, Tuesday, we would say that both the boys and the girls ran into more than they bargained for. We haven't had a look at the record book, but we know what the final scores were.

The boys took it on the chin 59 to 32 and the girls got snowed under 91 to 36.

STOVE BLOWS

The stove blew up in Dickinson county jail one night last week, covering with soot the entire interior of the jail and its one occupant. The prisoner was unhurt.

Car Demolished in Collision with Train

Mr. and Mrs. Duane Josten, who live northeast of Klemme, had a narrow escape Friday evening, when their car was struck and demolished by a Rock Island freight train near the Garner Cemetery.

The Jostens were traveling west, on their way to Garner, and according to Duane had plenty of time to stop under normal driving conditions. However, the road was icy and to stop was impossible.He tried to swerve south and avoid the train, but the car slid on the ice directly onto the tracks.

Mr. and Mrs Josten were taken to the hospital where it was discovered that both had broken ribs. In addition, Mrs. Josten is still hospitalized, but Mr. Josten was released from the hospital, Saturday. Their car, a 1946 Mercury was demolished and is a total loss.

Rabbit Season Off to a Good Start

Although most duck and pheasant hunters left much to be desired, rabbit season is off to a good start in most sections of the state.

With plenty of snow, one of the main requirements for rabbit hunting, Iowa hunters are beginning one of the best seasons for several years The best rabbit populations are in the south-central and south-eastern Iowa, and are higher than last year

The only native wild game in Iowa that may be sold legally sold, some rabbits are already finding their way into local butcher shops and restaurants. The season will extend until January 31, with shooting allowed from 6 a m. until 6 p. m. daily. The bag limit is ten rabbits and there is no possession limit.

Community Chorus Working Hard

Auctioneers Must Abide by OPS Regulations

Iowa auctioneers, handling sales of new or used farm equipment, are still under OPS regulations regarding these sales, Chas. A Housh, industrial commodity officer of the state Office of Price Stabilization, said today.

The auctioneer, he said, must notify OPS in writing of the place, date and time of sale, and must furnish a copy of the sale bill which must contain a general description of the farm equipment to be sold. The notice must be received at least six days prior to the date of the sale.

Housh observed that he great majority of farm sale advertising posters are generally printed well in advance of the six-day deadline. He said it should be a relatively easy matter to mail a copy of the bill, along with the statement in writing of the place, date and time.

He said general observance of the regulation is good, and that his office in Des Moines is receiving dozens of such posters each week.

Housh warned, however, that to conduct such farm sales where new or used equipment is offered without following OPS requirements is illegal and that the seller is subject to treble damage penalties in any instance of overcharge.

Movie, Treats and a Visit with Santa in Store for Saturday

Klemme youngsters are in for a "whee of a time" come Saturday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock. That's the starting time for the annual Christmas Party put on by the Civic Club.

This year the party will again be held in the high school gymnasium, and the kids won't want to miss out on it. There will be a good movie for their enjoyment, and sometime during the afternoon, Santa Claus will be there with treats for everyone. Might be that he would have time to lend an ear to a last minute request, too.

Don't forget this big party. Take the kids and they'll really enjoy themselves. Christmas time is a big-eyed, happy time for youngsters, so let them really enjoy it as much as they can.

December Bod Month for Traffic Accidents

The state safety department Thursday declared the remainder of December "a critical period in which Iowa drivers can win or lose a substantial reduction in the traffic death toll for the year."

State Safety Commissioner, Pearl W. McMurray, warned that the hazards of winter driving and the holiday season are so great that as many as 65 highway deaths may occur in the state this month.

Last December 63 were killed, 23 of the deaths occurring in the brief period between Christmas and New Year's, he said.

"That experience should convince the most doubtful, that December is a deadly month, one in which the slightest error in judgement or a moment of carelessness can bring tradgedy," McMurray said.

According to department records, 487 traffic deaths had been recorded in Iowa as of December 1 this year, 60 fewer than at the same time last year. Since traffic has increased nearly 5 per cent in the state during the same period, safety officials are inclined to credit the reduction in deaths to an increased safety-conciousness on the part of the driver.

"Our appeal and our hope is that drivers will continue their good performance through December," McMurry said. "If they do, more than 60 lives may be saved in comparison to last year."

S. N Jespeson, highway patrol chief, added these specific winter warnings to McMurry's appeal:

Reduce speed and be alert for spotty conditions of ice and packed snow on highways. Turn on headlights while driving in heavy falling or blowing snow. Both drivers and pedestrians should remember that stopping ability of cars is greatly decreased in winter.

Be sure brakes, lights, defrosters, windshield wipers are in good condition. Use your eyes at railroad crossings. Use your head at all times.

INJURED

Nineteen year old Gordon Hanisch of Laurens received a mangled right hand while on a hunting trip last week. The hand was torn when a 12-guage shell exploded in the breech.

Electric llights were first installed in the White House in the early 1890's.

The private telephone exchange in the Pentagon is the largest of its kind.

City water was first piped into the White House in 1853.

Bathrooms were first installed in the White House in the late 1870's.

Now that Thanksgiving vacation is over, the thing upmost in the students mind is Christmas. Along with Christmas comes vacation, that glorious week of rest and relaxation. This entire week is devoted to getting your mind as far off the thought of school as possible so we can all come back rested, ready for another hectic semester, not to mention semester tests.

Before Thanksgiving vacation, the students drew names for Christmas gifts. After a round of trading names, we hope everyone if finally satisfied with the name he has. Although almost everyone knows who has their name, we will all find out for certain at the gift exchange program put on by the Student Council. Since it's a little early to wish you a Merry Christmas, we'll just say "Happy shopping."

This and That Around K.H.S. - - -

What's this we hear about Marlene and Merlyn! Sounds like a start of a good romance.

What was it Joan said to Bueford at the close of English Class? Are you falling for Joan's charm too?

The romance between Donnie and Shirley has resumed again. Well, Good luck kids.

What happened on the bus, Faye? Does Harry really like you, or is it the other way around?

Who is the secret love of Carole? Is it someone new, or is it still an old one, namely N. E.

Why does Leola keep looking at Graydon? Could it be that she likes him?

I hear that Lois H. is really excited about next Sunday night. Why? Because she will get to meet her boy friend's (Frances) parents. Have fun, Lois.

I see that Janice is wearing two class rings again. What happened to one of them for a while, Janice? I wonder?

What's this I hear about Tommy W. taking Ione R.. home after the Goodell game. And all this time we thought it was Roger T., Ione liked. Oh well, we know now!

I guess Dick D. had quite a night coming home from the basketball game. Just who was that girl that kept telling you that you and her were meant for each other?

I guess Eddie and Eleanor aren't that steady two-some any more. By the looks of things we will have to get Eleanor a date book so that she can keep all her dates straight.

I guess Marsha and Roger are really getting to be a pretty steady couple. They are even eating dinner together now.

Lois F. and JoAnn B. went to church together Sunday night. But I wonder what they did afterwards? They couldn't have gone to the show with Calvin J. and LyLe G.? Could they?

Some thing new has been added to Lois H. jewelry. It couldn't just happen to be Frances R. class ring, could it?

What's this I hear about Shirley B. and Marvin M. breaking up? I guess Shirley is back with Donnie again. Oh well, true love never runs smooth, so they say.

I see Janice S. is minus a class ring. I suppose Gene just wanted to wear it awhile.

Poor Daisy, had to sit home this week end just because Clarence went to Chicago. Better watch your man, Daisy, it's a big city and he might get lost.

What's this I hear about two freshman girls having a crush on Roger T.? Poor Roger, he just doesn't know what to do. If we had a love lorn column, he could write in and get advise.

In case anyone wanted to use the line to Vinton, Iowa, about 6 o'clock Friday night, it was occupied. From what I hear, Lois C. got a call from some good looking young fellow down there. You'd just better watch her,, Rich.

By gosh, Eleanor, you sure do have long dates. Eddie must be a pretty popular guy. If you can see him from four to twelve. I hope you had fun.

Al Bell Tells of Experiences in North

Al Bell entertained both grade and high school students Thursday by telling us his fascinating experiences in Nova Scotia and Quebec, Canada, where he spent last summer.

He showed us many of the things he brought with him from Canada. Among them was a live St. Bernard dog which is used to pull heavy carts. His name is Jacque, which is French. He responds to command only when spoken to in French. Although he is but a pup, Jacque weighs 190 pounds. When full grown he will reach about two hundred pounds.

Other articles from Canada, included a cap worn by fishermen, a small lobster cage, hand carved figurines, and a miniature wooden fishing boat. The boat was carved by a ten-year old boy and purchased for only twenty-five cents. This low price resulted from the fact that there are so many wood carvers in Candada.

After his talk, Al Bell showed us his colored movie, "Sons of Gaspe," bringing before our eyes the beautiful and scenic country of Canada. We were taken right out to sea on a fishing vessel and shown how fish are caught and dried to be sold. Also we saw how lobster is caught in the odd looking cages.

In addition to these things, we shared many other adventurous experiences which Al Bell had in Canada. The program was really enjoyed by everyone.

FIFTH GRADE

This past week we have been working very hard on our Christmas decorations. We are going to present the play, "The Elves and the Holly Fairies" in the Christmas program. Each one has a part in our play. We have drawn names for our Christmas party.

Last Thursday, Happy Al Bell was here to give us an assembly program. Those of us who attended enjoyed the program very much.

Wednesday, December 3, our school buses didn't pick up our people. Candace, Randall and Sherryle were absent.

Roger brought his dental card back when he returned from Iowa City.

In geography we are studying about trains. Some of our people gave reports about the improvements of trains.

the Highway Story

By Bob Hullihan

One year ago today a young driver was following a gasoline transport up a hill. A steady cold rain was turning to snow and slush on the highway. The young man had a responsible job with a good future ahead of Housh observed that the great own home, to a wife and two small children.

He pulled out to pass the transport.

Later, the driver of the transport was standing by the road talking to a highway patrolman. "I saw him start around in my mirror. About the same time I saw the other car coming over the hill.

"I started to crank my window down to give somebody a signal. I knew it wasn't any use while I was doing it. I gave the truck every bit of power I had trying to give the fellow a chance to duck back in behind me.

"But nobody had a chance. I've seen a lot of people killed in 22 years on the highways but I never saw an accident as useless as this o)e. We were almost over that hill."

Down the road, the two cars were still locked together. A line of bright, intense little flares sood along the highway looking strangly like Christmas lights in the darkness that was fast coming on.

A small group of wet people stood around the cars looking mutely in at the dear young man who could not be removed until the wrecker arived. The injured driver of the other car had already been taken on to the hospital.

Seen from the top of the hill, the little cluster of people and lights had a lonely look in the rain, the look of a final act.

Why had the young man tried to pass the truck on the hill? Why?

State Biologist has Hunting Accident

Here's the only funny shooting accident that we have ever heard. It has to do with James Sieh, the Conservation Commission's waterfowl biologist, his hunting dog, and the first day of the pheasant season.

It seem that Sieh's dog came to a beautiful set on a small patch of weeds and grass. Since the dog did not move, and no bird was flushed as Sieh entered the cover, he concluded that a crippled bird was hiding there.

As he moved carefully ahead and parted the weeds, he found that his dog had not pointed to a pheasant, but a large, startled skunk. Both Sieh and the skunk were armed, but the skunk fired first.

Anybody want to buy a good bird dog?

Post-Season Fur Regulations

With the mink, muskrat, and beaver seasons ending on December 9, Iowa trappers are reminded that permits are required if furs are held for more than ten days after the close of the season, or December 19.

In addition, all furs being shipped out of the state must be tagged with special shipping tags available from the State Conservation Commission, East 7th and Court, Des Moines, Iowa.

Trapping season will remain open on raccoon, skunk, opposum, civet cat, and badger until midnight, January 10, 1953. The above holding and shipping regulations also apply to these longhaired species.

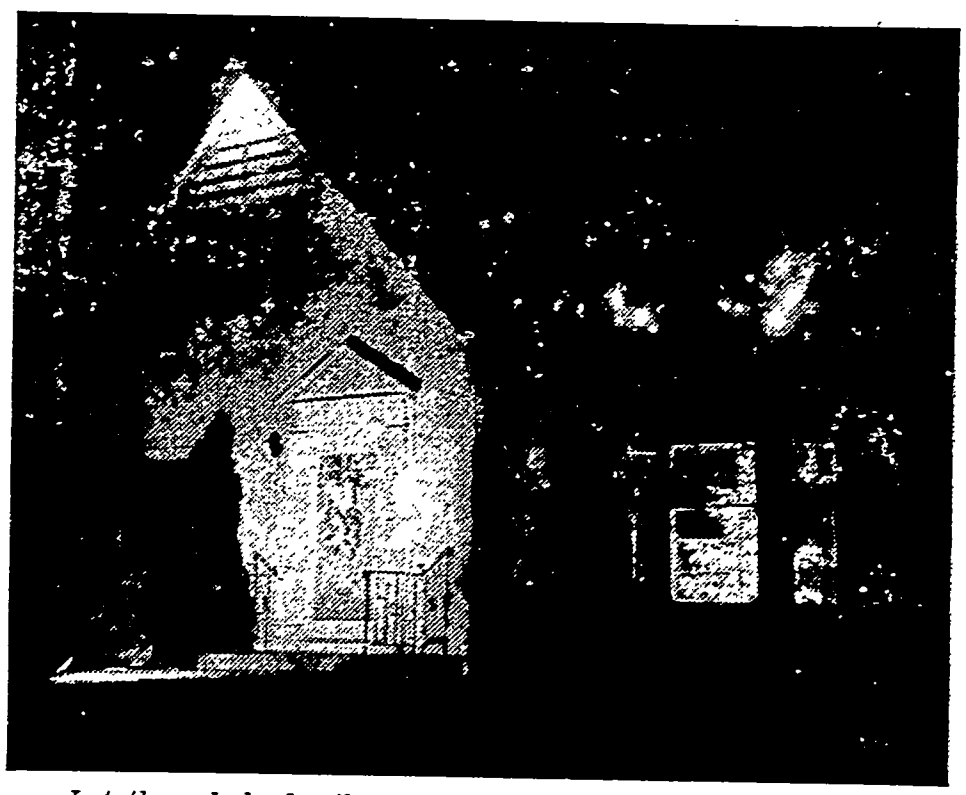
Each Family Decides the Ingredients for—

Homemade Christmas Cheer



Let the whole family in on decorating your home, inside and out, for this is one of the nicest ways of capturing anew the warmth and cheer of the Christmas holidays. Decorations can be as original as you please—make a Santa from kitchen utensils, entwine a string of lights in greenery or in a cluster of packages on your front door, decorate windows with simulated snow or Christmas scene cutouts.

The ways and the spirit of the Christmas season are decided individually in each home down your block or through the countryside.

In some families, decking the house with Christmas scenes and decorations is one of the year-to-year traditions that really counts. So come along with Mrs. Louise J. Peet, professor of household equipment at Iowa State College, and adapt some of her decorating ideas to your own use.

A STRING OF LIGHTS

Strings of Christmas tree lights can be the basic "makings" for beautiful table, mantel, window or outdoor decorating effects, says Mrs. Peet.

For instance, place a medium-sized mirror on your table or mantel. Paint it around the edge with glistening gobs of simulated snow (recipe below) and ring it with sprigs of greenery entwined with a string of lights.

RECIPE FOR SNOW

For the simulated snow, pour a cup of detergent into a mixing bowl, add three tablespoons of water and mix with a rotary egg beater, or electric mixer at low speed. Mix until the "snow" begins to peak. White snow is prettiest, but you could add red or green coloring.

Use this snow like concoction to decorate Christmas trees or greenery, or to paint holiday scenes on windows or glass doors.

START WITH A BOX

Another decorating idea: Cover a medium-sized box with white or colored paper. Set the open end of the box over a connected 7-watt bulb, cutting a hole in the top of the box for the light to shine through. Invert a glass bowl on top of the box, decorating inside the bowl with Christmas figurines. Arrange greenery around the base of the box. Frost bowl with snow."

Setting for your Christmas creche might be the top of a small bookcase covered with metallic wrapping paper or aluminum foil and partially spread with greenery or strips of green cellophane. If you don't arrange your creche here, you might instead entwine a string of Christmas tree lights in the greenery. Or the youngster might complete the arrangement with animals they've fashioned from modeling clay.

WINDOW SCENE

You could decorate a wide window with a big cutout of Santa and his reindeer, or another Christmas scene. The children could color it for the inside view. Lights placed between the storm windows and inside pane will give folks outside your house a good view.

When you tackle outside decorations, Mrs. Peet reminds you to use strings of lights, spotlights and such especially made and approved for outdoor use.

THE FARM OUTLOOK

By Paul Henderson
County Extension Director

We should be near the bottom of the hog market for this winter, Francis A. Kutish, Iowa State College farm economist, believes. We had a rather sharp cut in late-farrowed pigs last spring. This should ease up hog marketings in the near future.

And storage demand by packers should soon be taking hold. This will help put a firmer under pinning to the hog market. We didn't have as many summer pigs last year and there won't be as sharp a liquidation of breeding gilts as took place in the winter of 1952.

Put it all together and we get the prospect of a seasonal price rise in the winter hog market—followed by a moderate spring decline.

Next summer's seasonal price peak should be about the same as the 1952 figure in view of the smaller marketings expected. The 1953 spring pig crop is likely to be a little smaller than the 1952 crop.

CATTLE NUMBERS CLIMB

Meanwhile, cattle numbers continue to climb. Despite the heavy cattle slaughter this fall, we are likely to begin 1953 with 92 to 93 million head of cattle, Kutish reports.

Cattle slaughter over the next 3 years will be materially larger than in the previous 3 years. All cattle prices seem due for further adjustment in the next few years.

LOWER CATTLE PRICES

The cattle population has expanded so fast that some price adjustments are necessary. Spread between upper grade cattle and lower grades and will continue wider than in recent years, the economist believes.

Over the long pull, the cattle picture holds considerable promise as a result of the continued population growth. But in the next 2 to 5 years beef cattle stand to lose some of their comparative advantage where they have strong competition from other livestock enterprises.

History of Klemme

By Arthur Wellemeyer — Tenth Installment

PUBLIC SCHOOLS

For several years prior to the incorporation of our town, Klemme was known as a village, and as such was a part of Ell Township rural school system.

It seems that district number nine, which included the village of Klemme, had no school house, and our few children attended at number eight, which is the district two miles east of Klemme. It was known as the Morris Day School and later as the Swanson School.

The adult population of our town grew rapidly right from the start, but it takes time for the little folks to grow to school age. Thus, it was three years before this village could induce the Ell Township School Board to erect a one room school house at Klemme.

In 1892, the one room school house was completed. The first teacher was Maggie Day, and her salary was $30.00 per month. The seven children who attended were: Will and May Kirkwood, Floy Shaffer, Charles and Gertrude Lewis, Luella and Alma Feiro.

In 1893 and 1894 Mattie Hubbard was the teacher.

In 1895, just three years after the one room school was built, it was moved four miles out into the country to district number five and became the Ell Center School. Lew Lewis was the contractor who moved the building.

On May 4, 1895, the Ell Township school board, with William Yohn, President, and Lew Lewis, Secretary, let a contract to J. P. Larsen to erect a new school house in Klemme, a frame construction, size 48 feet by 48, feet, two stories high, for the sum of $2445.00.

This building was completed during the summer, and in the fall of 1895, the new school house opened with forty children attending. John J. Suckow and Matie Hubbard were the teachers and their salary was $35.00 per month.

For four years, only two of the rooms were used. The second floor was left vacant. In the fall of 1897, Alf C. Carpenter, became principal of our school for one year.

On April 15, 1898, an election was held and Klemme became an independent school district. Forty votes were cast for it and seven against it.

In the fall of 1899, three teachers were hired, Mrs. Hawley, Miss Dunlap and Miss Steward. Three rooms were in use and ten grades were taught.

On January 22, 1901, on a Monday morning, the school house burned to the ground. This building was still quite new, just four years old. The fire started in the furnace room about 10:30 A. M. Ralph Blank who was working at the blackboard, noticed the basement flames through the floor register. His teacher, Mrs. Emma Gibbs, sent a child to each of the other rooms to spread the alarm. The smiling children marched out of the building in good order. It was a clear day and cold, with a light wind from the west. The children stood around and threw snow balls into the fire.

Citizens rushed to the burning building. Pails, tubs and barrels were taken to carry water, but with no city water or fire department, their efforts were futile. The fire was hot and soon over. The volunteer group of fighters did however, save the Reformed Church building some twenty feet east of the school. The children's books, wraps and much of the school equipment was saved, having been thrown out the windows by the daring men.

For the remainder of the school year, the high school and intermediate grades were housed in the Opera House over the Gruetzmacher, and the primary grades went to school in the Shaper building, which was a frame building located on the south side fo main street and east of the present creamery building.

By the fall of 1901, a new school house had been built, by the same contractor, J. P Larson, a four room building just like the one that burned.

The first commencement exercises were held in 1902. There were only ten grades at that time. The three graduates were; Anna Gibbs, Amelia Lenz and and Emma Krunkenfeld. The teachers were, F. S. Grawe, Miss Amy Paul, and Mrs. L. Hawley.

Klemme continued to have only a two year high school until the fall of 1918. However, another teacher had been added in 1913, bringing the staff to four. In 1918, a fifth teacher was added with C . Tompkins heading the list as superintendent, in the school's first year as an eleven year institution.

Along about this time, Klemme tried at two different times to form a consolidated school district. The rural vote killed this at both elections. Seems like the farmers at that time were against it, so we decided to continue as an independent district and do a good job, which we still try to do.

In 1923, the school board, consisting of F. A. Arnold, Arthur Wellemeyer, A. D. Gimer, P. M. Griesmer and Frank Kluckhohn, decided to put in a complete four year high school.

The board approved floor plans drawn by Arthur Wellemeyer. There was considerable discussion among the people of the school district as to remodel or build new, both propositions were submitted to the voters, and they voted $15,000.00 bonds with which to do the remodeling job. The following contracts were let:

W. F. Hoffman, general contract	$16,711.60
H. Medlicott, heating & plumbing	3,751.00
Total . .	$20,462.00

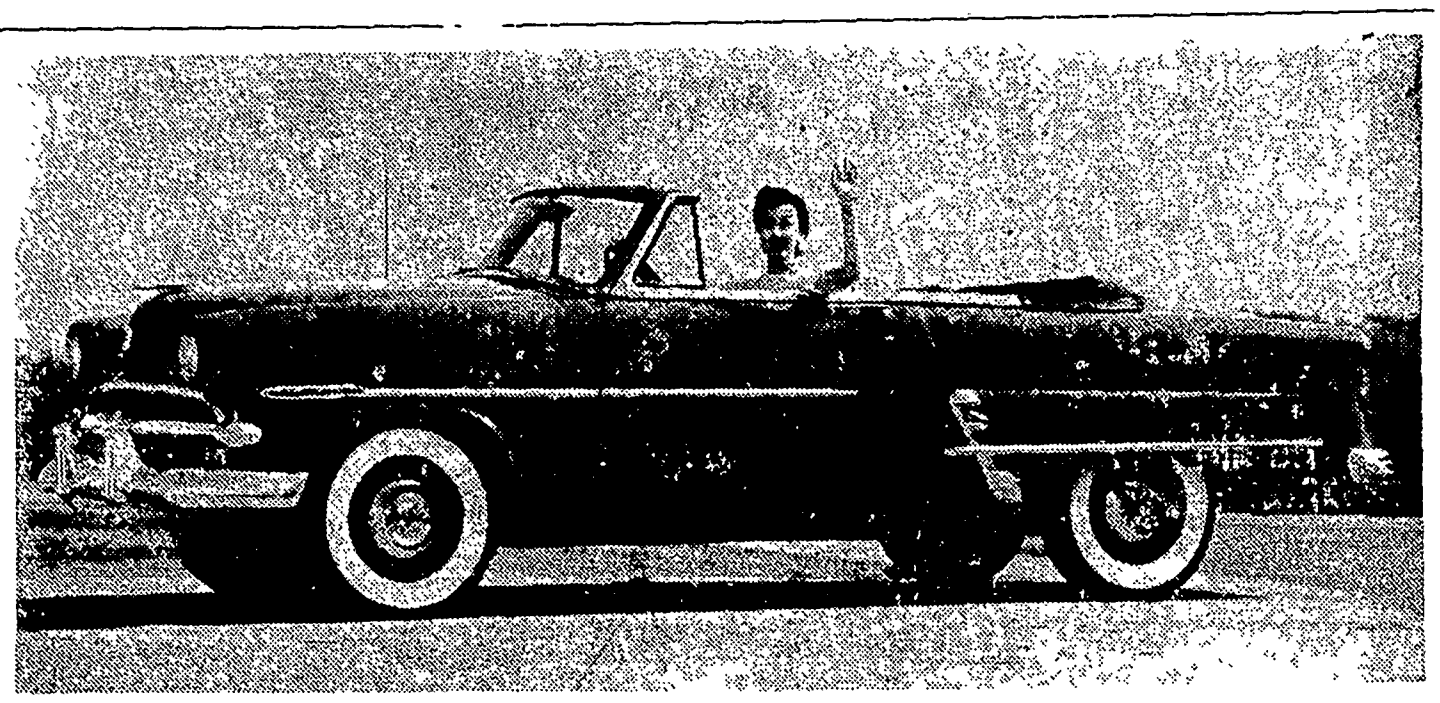
Through this remodeling, the old building was renovated, floors repaired, new windows and new window frames were put in. The chimney was rebuilt and lined with tile. The addition gave us a gymnasium with a stage, a domestic science room and a manuel arts room.

The remodeling work was completed during the summer, and in the fall of 1923, the twelfth grade was added. The spring of 1924 saw Klemme's first class to graduate from the regulation four year high school. Members of this class were: Marie Blank, Clarence Elder, Bertha Johnson, Dolores Koerner and Bernice Tanner. The faculty had now increased to seven members, headed by Levi Neese as superintendent. Another member was added to the faculty in 1924. and still another in 1936, bringing the staff to nine teachers.

In June 1938, the school board, then composed of H. F. Jost, H. R. Gibbs, C. G. Waterman, C. A. Larsen and Albert Barz, met with architect Thorwald Thorson of Forest City, and decided to build a new school building of brick.

August 18, they voted bonds . . . . . (The vote was 206 yes and 47 no)	$30,000.00
We had a surplus in the general fund	10,000.00
The government made us a P. W. A. grant	32,715.00
Total .	$72,715.00

Land was purchased from Joe Johnson and C. A. Larsen for the site.



The 1953 Ford Crestline Sunliner with its smart open car styling is available in 12 new colors ranging from Coral Flame Red to Raven Black. With its "Breezeway" top up, the Sunliner provides the weather-tight comfort of a sedan. Two-tone leather and vinyl seats blend with inside paneling and harmonize with outside colors.

Ernest Anderson, General contract	$49,900.00
"Schmidts" Plumbing	4,276.00
Garner Electric Shop	3,394.00
Campbell Heating Co.	4,598.00
Total	$62,168.00

There was other expenses too, such as the architects fee, drainage, thousands of loads of dirt fill, equipment for inside the building, etc.

The work was to start November 1, 1938, and was to be completed by July 1, 1939.

This new brick building is roomy and convenient on the inside, but the board with bad advise from the Architect, purchased too soft a brick for the outside walls. These brick did not stand our northern winters and and started to crumble from the frost, causing the building to leak. The board was obliged in 1949 to have a thick coat of a cement and sand mixture blown onto the walls with a hose, which seems to have corected the trouble. But, of course, the walls on the inside of the building needed to be decorated bringing the cost of correcting this error to more than $7,000.00.

. In the fall of 1939, we moved into the building, with the following teaching staff; W. Henry Galbreth, Superintendent; A. L. Kingery, Principal; M. C. Batchelder, Glenn Bowles, Ruby Griener, Irma Merritt, Marian Irvine, Claudia Michalek and Ruth Potter.

After moving into the new school house, the old frame building was carefully torn down, and the lumber, blackboards, seating, etc. were sold at auction.

The land, size 165 by 264, which had been deeded to the School District for their use as a school site only, reverted back to the H. J. Klemme heirs, who sold the same to the Klemme Reformed Church for $800.00.

THE COMMUNITY HALL

The American Legion of Klemme, purchased the used lumber from the old school house, and with the cooperation on the town council, and with contributions from the town's people, erected the Community Hall. It was one of those "New Deal" P. W. A. projects and the work proceeded at a snail's pace.

It was finally completed late in 1941.

This building was well constructed,had a large auditorium, a roomy stage, a room for the Boy Scouts, and a room for the town council meetings. The building was provided with a full basement, which housed the kitchen the large dining rom, a two lane bowling alley, and ample toilet facilities. Hot water heating was installed using much of the old equipment.

The American Legion was in complete controll and managed this building until 1950, about nine years. Then arrangements were made between the Legion, town council and school board, to use it for school purposes.

Junior High Loses Doubleheader

Coach Juhl's "Rockettes" lost to Corwith last Monday evening 26 - 18. Free throws kept us in the ball game. Half-time score was 16 - 7 in favor of Corwith. Barbara Thompson was high with 11 points.

The "Rockets" played one of their better games, but lost 27 - 30 to a taller Corwith team. The Klemme boys started out like high school boys jumping into a first quarter lead of 13- 8. Then things slowed down and we were behind 14 - 17 at the half-time. During the last half we again came to life and led 26 - 22 with just 2 minutes to play. Bob Larsen who scored 13 points fouled out and Corwith went ahead 28 - 27 and won it 30 - 27. Mart Brinkman scored 8 points.

The boys record is 2 wins, 1 loss. The girls record is 1 win, 2 losses. Our next game is at Hayfield, December 15, at 7 p.m.

Texas Trip Interupted As House Trailer Overturns

Fire Department Makes Run to Accident Scene

Verner Stromer, who lives a mile and a half north of Klemme, had quite a scare Monday evening. Shortly after 8 o'clock, he was relaxing after his supper, when he heard a loud, muffled crash, and the whole house shook. He thought the furnace had blown up, but subsequent events proved he was wrong.

Two Osage men were driving south on Highway 69, on their way to Texas. They were driving a light pick-up and pulling what appeared to be about a 40-foot de luxe house trailer. Somehow the trailer began to sway and just as they got in front of the Stromer house, everything got out of control. Trailer and pick-up ended up upside down and completely blocked the highway.

The pickup caught fire, and the Klemme Fire Department made a quick run and extinguished the blaze before much damage was done. However, the pickup was pretty well beat up, and the trailer was a mess. Furniture all jumbled together and broken, was piled on the ceiling rather than in its normal position, on the floor.

As near as could be determined neither man was hurt, except that one of them had a scratched ear. How lucky can you be?

Getting the pickup off the highway presented no problem. Willing hands set it back on its wheels and it was driven to the side of the highway. The trailer was different. Various attempts were made to get it off the paving so traffic could be resumed, but none of them proved very successful. Finally about 20 or 30 men got hand holds here and there, and by a series of heaves, slid it off into the ditch.

Traffic was held up for a half an hour until the trailer was finally moved, but no one was hurt.

Don't Forget!

Sunday evening, December 21, at 8 o'clock is the time that the Community Chorus presents their annual Christmas Choral Concert, at the Klemme High School Gymnasium.

Over 40 singers are in this chorus, and they have a program of Christmas music arranged for easy listening.

Several Christmas Carols are marked for community singing, so the audience will be in the program, to some extent, besides hearing the chorus in their special numbers.

Last year this event was one of the best attended, most enjoyed entertainments ever put on in Klemme, and those who were there are making plans to be there again this year.

Eastern Star Elects Officers; Klemme Woman Named

At the last regular meeting of O.E.S. Relief Chapter No. 391, election of officers was the main business, and the following officers were elected:

Worthy Matron, Bertha Brown; Worthy Patron, Verne Grau; Associate Matron, Vera Grau; Associate Patron. I. R. Beattie; Secretary, Elsie Moffatt; Treasurer, Mildred Edelen; Conductress, Pearl Gerber; Associate Conductress, Lee Fuss.

HAD PARTY

The new Worthy Matron, Mrs. Bertha Brown, entertained her corps of officers and their husbands, Sunday evening. Court Whist was played at seven tables, and Mrs. Brown presented each of her officers with a lovely gift.

Those from Klemme who attended the party were Mr. and Mrs. Fred Arnold, Mr. and Mrs. William Fuss, and Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Gerardi.

Christmas Party at School Was Success

Santa Claus was here last Saturday, and was very good to the kids who were on hand at the Klemme High School gym. In cooperation with the Klemme Civic Club, he talked to the kiddies, dished out treats, and saw that there was a movie for the enjoyment of all.

From the looks of the happy faces going by The Times Office after the party was over we would say that the party was a success in every way.

Klemme High School Joins Newly Formed Conference

At the morning service last Sunday in the Klemme Methodit Church, Rev. Egeland baptized the twin daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Asa Arnold, Coreen Sue and Noreen Lue, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Waddingham, Ray Allen. The Arnold girls were born on August 19th and the Waddingham boy on August 20.

Liberty Couple Observe 25 Wedding Anniversary

Open house was held at the Liberty Methodist Church Sunday afternoon in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Beier's silver wedding anniversary. About one-hundred-fifty relatives, friends, and neighbors helped them to make it a day that will be long remembered by the honored couple.

The Beier Children arranged a short program which consisted of a mock wedding skit, a humorous story about the lives of Elmer and Faye, two songs by LaVonne, Shirley, and Beverly, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Beier, and a few words by Rev. Egeland.

After the program ice-cream, wedding cake and coffee was served to the guests.

In the evening, their son Eugene called from Camp Pendleton, California, and told them he would soon be home on furlough.

Expected to Bring Increased Sports Interest

By Supt. T. G. Ahrenkiel

The basketball teams of Klemme High School recently joined a conference starting with the 1953-54 season. At a meeting recently with the following schools represented: Dows, Ventura, Rockwell, Franklin Cons., Latimer, Fertile, Sheffield, and Klemme, we agreed to organize a new conference. This conference will start only with basketball (boys and girls), but it is hoped that in the future we can add other sports and activities such as baseball, track, football and music.

I expect many of you are wondering why we wanted to join a conference and why with the following schools. There are several advantages and I expect some disadvantages, but we felt that the advantages far outweighed the disadvantages. First, these schools have nearly all the same size in high school enrollment. I believe this year the enrollment varies from 70 students in the smallest to 120 students in the largest with four of the schools having an enrollment of approximately 100 students. (We have 98 students this year). Secondly, it will ease the problem of scheduling games because we will have a conference schedule prepared well in advance. Thirdly, each of these schools have a gym as large or larger than ours. (This includes seating capacity as well as playing floor.) Fourthly, we feel that being in a conference will be an added incentive to the players and we feel that it will stimulate interest among the players as well as the fans. Fifth, we felt that with the growing enrollment it would be to our advantage to be a member of a conference of this caliber.

Since we formed this conference just recently and are starting with next year's basketball season, we here in Klemme will have more games scheduled next year than we have had in the past. This being due to previous contracts with teams other than those in the conference. We hope that after next year, we can cut down our schedule to a definite number of games each year.

STUDENTS TO NAME NEW CONFERENCE

The students of all the member schools will submit a name for the conference. Each school then will pick the five best names and they will be submitted to the conference committee. The conference committee then will pick the best name.

Last Rites for Goodell Man Will Be Thursday Afternoon

Lewis Avery Suffered Heart Attack While Driving Car

Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon, December 18, for Lewis G. Avery, 85, lifetime resident of Avery Township. Services will be conducted from the Avery farm home with Rev. Park Miller of the U. B. Church at Goodell in charge.

Mr. Avery had suffered from a heart ailment since a couple of years ago, and would occasionally find himself running short of breath. Monday morning, he was driving north on Highway 69, on the way to Klemme from his home in Goodell, when he was stricken with one of these "breathless" spells. He pulled his car to the side of the road and got out. In so doing, he fell and lay unconscious along side the highway.

Mr. and Mrs. Dale Shelton and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Ostendorf came along soon after Lew fell. They picked him up, revived him and brought him on into Klemme, to the office of Dr. Dulmes. Upon arrival at the office, Mr. Avery attempted to leave the car and go inside, and fell again, dying before he could be gotten into the doctor's office.

Interment will be in the Amsterdam Cemetery at Goodell, and Mr. Avery will be carried to his final resting place by Sumner and Mac Fuller, Joe Burgess, Warren Bier, Harry Trumbell, and Dale Shelton.

An obituary of Mr. Avery appears on page 7.

Ioreed Canary Grass Seed Now Available

Hancock County farmers will have an opportunity to purchase seed of Ioreed canary grass, the only canary grass variety certified in the state by the Iowa Crop Improvement Association, according to the announcement of Paul Henderson, Hancock County extension director.

Ioreed is an improved variety of this vigorous perennial grass, which is well-adapted to wet, poorly-drained soils. Ioreed was developed at the Iowa Agricultural Experiment Station, and combines leafiness with resistance to rust. It is a high producer of forage and seed.

A limited amount of Ioreed seed is being offered for sale to Iowa farmers, and buyers are encouraged to use the seed for increase purposes and to certify the seed crop.

Henderson reports that he can help Hancock County farmers apply for seed from the crop improvement association, and can help prospective growers plan for production of Ioreed canary grass seed.

Times Gets Printer

Last Thursday evening, Jack Williams, of Belmond, started work at The Times Shop. Jack has had a couple of years in the printing trade and has spent eight weeks in a linotype school at Dresden, Ohio. Since he has been here, there has been a load removed from the mind of Ye Ed. An extra pair of hands and an extra head make a lot of difference.. Lela and I have worked as fast as we could, but the two of us just couldn't get it done in time. Maybe before long we'll be getting The Times to press on publication day, again.

Shamrockettes Take Third In County Tournament

Corwith Champs Again; Woden in Second Place

Corwith had an easy time of it in again winning the Hancock County Girl's Basketball championship. They drew a first-round bye, swamped Crytsal Lake in the second round, and rolled over Woden in the final game, 62 - 17. They seem to consistently play a good brand of girls' basketball at Corwith.

In getting into the final game, the Woden girls took Goodell, and then won a hard second-round fight from Klemme, 63-54.

Crystal Lake and Klemme, each won first round victories. Klemme defeated Kanawha, 56-47, and Crystal Lake downed Hayfield in a tight game, 48-45.

KLEMME-KANAWHA

The Shamrockettes moved into an early lead against their first round opponents, Kanawha. They held a 7-point 28-21 lead at the half, and wound the game up out in front 56-47.

Lacey had 28 points for the Shamrockettes, and C. Bridges, 18. Emmons of Kanawha, was high scorer for the contest, with 32 points.

KLEMME-WODEN

In the second round Klemme put up a good fight, but Woden was too much for them. The score was tied at 30 all at the half, but by the end of the third period, Woden had moved out in front 48 - 43, and went on to gain four points in the last quarter, to win by a score of 63-54.

Lacey and C. Bridges had 26 and 24 points, respectively, for the Shamrockettes, while Rittenhouse had 23, and Devine 26, for Woden.

KLEMME - CRYSTAL LAKE

In the Consolation game, Crystal Lake went down to the Klemme sextet, by a score of 58-50. The Shamrockettes moved into the lead at the start of the game and were never headed. At no time in the game did they lead by a very wide margin, but they managed to stay out in front all the way. Half-time score was 29 - 22.

Lacey and C. Bridges each had 24 points, while Christians had 10. Foley, of Crystal Lake, was high scorer for the game, with 25.

"IKE'S" KOREAN TRIP

In making the highly publicized trip to Korea, President-elect Eisenhower proved several things, despite the ridicule of President Truman.

He proved that he was a man who would try to live up to his word. He told the people of the United States that if he were elected on November 4th, he would go to Korea and get some first hand information that might be of help in solving the Korean difficulties. He went, and we believe, he tried.

He proved that his physical condition is not a matter for worry. He took a long and strenuous trip, and returned in apparently as good shape as before, and right on the heels of a long campaign.

He proved that he is really interested in the problems of Korea. He talked to men of all ranks, and all nationalities, trying to get their view point on the situation.

Best of all, he proved to the men in the fox holes that they were not forgotten. He was there for one express purpose, to try and shorten the war, if possible. He is one of the first to say that he knows no special magical formula for getting the job done, but he is sure there can be changes made for the better. Any change for the better, is a God-send to a man in a fox hole. In fact, almost any change is for the better. These men know that "Ike" knows something about this war business, and to have him take interest enough to personally visit their battle ground, and look for ways of alleviating the situation for them, must certainly make them feel a little better.

MIGHTY REVOLTIN'!

Charles E. Wilson "Ike's" Secretary of Defense, who for years has been president of General Motors, furnished an interesting story on the Eisenhower trip. The trip, of course, was made in utmost secrecy, and security was very tight. Wilson said that security was so good that they even took him to the airport in a Mercury.

ROUGH!

Last week was a rough one here at The Times office. Everything we touched went wrong for us. It seemed to us that we never would get the paper out, and before we finally did, a lot of our subscribers were beginning to think the same thing.

We finally made it, though, and now that we have a printer to take the place of "Bud" Montgomery, who went to Garner to work with "Jergie" in his shop there, we feel that we may get back on schedule before too long.

"DUCKS UNLIMITED"

We heard one the other day that is just too good to keep.

It seems that a couple of fellows planned a duck hunt. One of the hunters was a teetotaler, but the other would inbibe on occasion, and he figured that a day in a cold duck blind was an occasion.

Along with his other hunting equipment, he carried a bottle of Scotch.

Anyway, they sat in their blind all day long, and as evening approached they still hadn't seen duck one. TheScotch was gone and they were just about to give up and go home, when in toward their blind came one lone Teal. The teetotaler took a shot at him, but missed. His inebriated companion threw the gun to his shoulder and cut loose three rounds. Down came the Teal. He staggered out of the blind, got his duck, and brought it back. Whereupon his buddy says, "You're pretty lucky, aren't you?" Old Drunkie says, "Whaddaya mean lucky? Usually get three or four out of a bunch like that."

Martha Circle Met

Martha Circle met at the home of Miss Marie Blank on Wednesday afternoon, December 10, with Mrs. T. G. Ahrenkiel, her assisting hostess. Mrs. Roy Arnold had the lesson, "Ambassadors for Christ" including the singing of Christmas Carols and a meditation on "Windows" We voted to purchase 10 Upper Room Hymnals for the circle. Eleven members and two children were present.

Fire Precautions Very Necessary at Christmas

This Chrismas will be an "inflammable holiday" unless homeowners, parents and merchants take special precautions to prevent fire, State Fire Marshal Zack Cook warns.

"Nothing can have more horrible results than sudden fire in a home, in the clothing of a child or in a crowded store, and no period of the year brings greater fire hazards than the Christmas holidays," Cook said.

He warned homeowners to clean up Christmas wrappings and put them in metal containers or burn them in incinerators as soon as possible. "Above all, don't pile boxes or wrappings near the furnace in the basement," Cook warned.

Before going to bed, clean up after a holiday party, making sure that no live sparks are left in ashtrays or fireplaces. Turn out all Christmas lights before retiring.

Cook warned parents that many toys purchased for children's Christmas gifts are inflammable and should be kept away from fire, intense heat and electrical connections.

Christmas trees should be kept away from radiators or hot air outlets and so placed in the room that, standing or fallen, they will not block exits in case of fire.

"A dried-out Christmas tree will burn in a flash—in less than ten seconds". Cook said. "Use no candles. Check all wiring before you use it. Be sure there are no frayed spots and be sure it bears a UL label."

He advised merchants to avoid accumulating boxes, paper and trash in store basements during rush hours of business and warned club and tavern owners to obey all fire regulations and precautions.

"Caution and more caution is the answer to fire prevention this Christmas," Cook said. "Human carelessness is the beginning of the great majority of fires."

Screening Program to Check Hearing Loss

by Chas. S. Whitney, County Supt. of Schools

During the latter part of September and the first part of October, a speech and hearing screening program was carried on by the Special Education Division in the following three counties: Winnebago, Hancock, and Kossuth. The third, sixth, and ninth grades, together with any teacher referrals from any other grades were checked for possible hearing losses by puretone audiometers. A total of 2486 children were seen at this time and 123 were found to have a probable hearing loss.

Miss Beatrice Phelan, Speech and Hearing Consultant of the Division of Speech Education, along with the supervisor of Special Education, L. B. Blom, are at the present time following these cases in town and rural schools in the three above named counties and are re-checking them with the puretone audiometer. The parents of those found to have possible hearing losses on either or both ears will be notified by the local school authorities or directly by the Special Education Division in order that they may take their children to the proper medical authorities.

Recommendations are made to the teachers for proper seating in the classrooms. Upon medical advice and proper application, desk model hearing aids are furnished without charge to the pupil by the Special Education Division through your local supervisor.

Get Better Cows by Artificial Breeding

There's an inexpensive, easy way to own cows with the capacity for higher milk production—raise them by breeding artificially to outstanding bulls. Robert Fincham, extension dairyman at Iowa State College, says breeders' cooperative associations are able to provide semen from top dairy bulls of every breed for herds in every Iowa county.

PRODUCTION GOES UP

Also, it won't take long to raise your herd's milk production. Figures comparing the production of 784 dams with their daughters show about a 10 percent average increase in milk production of the daughters. The dams averaged 389 pounds of fat, while their daughters produced 423 pounds—a 34-pound increase.

The specialist adds that there is a good chance the 10 percent figure will go higher with better feeding and management.

MORE ECONOMICAL

It's more economical to breed your cows artificially, according to the dairyman. He says it costs about $185 to feed and house a bull. Also, there's danger in keeping one. Many dairymen who have switched to artificial herd breeding report that they use the extra money and extra space for another cow.

EXPANDING FASTER

With artificial breeding, you can also keep two breeds without cross-breeding, If you're a whole milk producer and have Holsteins, you can still keep a few higher testing cows, and boost the fat content of your milk.

Fincham says nearly 40,000 Iowa dairymen have switched to breeding their cows artificially since the program started in 1942. He reports that more than 260,000 cows will be bred artificially this year which is about 25 percent of the dairy cows in Iowa.

Meat production will continue to increase in the years ahead, says USDA economists. They also expect the average American to eat a few more pounds of meat in '53 than in '52. The larger output of beef and veal will account for nearly all the gain in total meat production.

For an Aberdeen businessman, George A. Anderson, ordered and paid for a brand-new wood and silver mace, or baton, for the State University of Iowa's all-girl bagpipe band.

Drum Major Mary Lou Mortenson now proudly carries the mace out in front of the Highlanders and uses it to signal for their intricate maneuvers.

EDITORIAL

It is almost December 25th, Christmas, birth of the Christ child. Chrisimas in the Christian sense of the word is not only a time of exchanging gifts but also a time of heartfelt joy.

Christmas is the renewal of the memories of the birth of the Christ Child over 2000 years ago. Although many of us don't realize it, there are a great many people who don't know that it is because of the gifts of gold, frankincense, and murr presented to the Christ that we now exchange gifts at Christmas time. Therefore, it seems strange that people who don't know the real meaning of Christmas should exchange gifts.

We are now going to put all seriousness aside and wish everyone a very MERRY CHRISTMAS and a HAPPY NEW YEAR.

It was the first day of school. The teacher was explaining that if anyone had to go to the washroom, they should hold up two fingers. One little boy looked puzzled for a minute and finally asked, "How's that gonna help??"

This and That Around K.H.S.---

I guess it was too much for Shirley B. to resist when Donnie T. was running around loose as now she has left Marvin and gone back to Don.

What's this I hear about a few new romances in the school rooms. Tom W. and Ione R., also Gerry and Lorraine M. And I hear Joan L. is getting to be a pretty date for Joe "Paloka."

From what I hear Lois H., Daisy and Lois C. were entertained in playing 52 pick-up at Lois C.'s house. I guess Daisy was the chaperone and well you know the other gals.

Has everyone heard that Marlene Blumer and Merlin Olson, Ione R. and Tom W. and Shirley B. and Don T. were at the show at Garner, Saturday.

We all hear that Ione R. has a crush on Roger T. It seems that he doesn't feel the same, though. That smile for Sunday morning is just for politeness, Ione, so don't miss a note by looking too hard.

It seems that Anita Katter always seems to come in Gordon Lemke's Olds to the ball games. Watch it kids.

By Bob Hullihan

Three highway patrolmen were picked this year to make some recorded radio announcements for traffic safety during the holiday season. When they gathered to make the recordings, each man told one story of Christmas tragedy on the highway he remembered above all others.

One officer told of being called out late one night to the scene of an accident. "Except for the man who made the call, I was the first one to arrive," the patrolman said. It was a lonesome spot on a gravel road and the car was a mess. A young couple were dead in the front seat. They leaned against one another and looked almost as though they were resting easy in all that wreckage.

"Looking through the car with a flashlight, I found one of those red paper Christmas bells hanging from the rear vision mirror. It was blowing back and forth in the wind coming through the broken windshield. That was all the Christmas they had."

Another patrolman told of tending an injured woman who kept asking him to leave her and find her baby. She had been holding it in her arms just before the head-on crash. "Well, I'd already found the baby," he said. "It had gone through the windshield with a bunch of Christmas packages. I couldn't tell her."

The third patrolman had his story, too. He had helped remove a dead man from a wrecked car one bright cold day in December. Later, he was gathering personal effects from the car when he found a package of Christmas cards.

Each card carried a picture of the dead man smiling in the midst of his family - his wife and three children. He had picked them up in town and was taking them home when the accident happened.

All the patrolmen agreed that the Christmas season is one of the most dangerous of the year. Each one felt it inevitable that he would be called on to officiate at the tragic end of Christmas for some family again this year.

Junior High Splits Doubleheader at Hayfield

The "Rockettes" lost their 3rd game of the year to Hayfield December 15. The score was 22-14. The Klemme girls led 10 - 7 at the half time, but then faltered and lost out. Inability to hit free throws, lost our game. The girls made only two of nineteen chances. Thompson was high with 9 points, Christiance 4 and Stokesbary one. Bier and Thiemann played a good defensive game.

Coach Juhl's "Rockets" regained their winning ways and defeated Hayfield 33 - 28. Klemme jumped off to an early 9 - 1 lead and dominated play until the third quarter, when Bob Larson, 11 points, fouled out. Hayfield then went ahead 24 - 19 but the boys kept plugging away and finally won 33 - 29. Brinkman scored 10 points, G. Baack 6, Nuehring 4, Josten and Bacon 1 each.

Girl's record - 1 win, 3 losses. Boy's record - 3 wins, 1 loss.

Annual Band Concert Held Last Wednesday

The junior band as well as the high school band made up the program.

Following the program a lunch was served by the music mothers. Margaret and Miriam

TWO KILLED

Two northeast Iowa youngsters, living only a few miles apart, were killed in separate gun accidents on the same day. Clyde Blong, 10, of St. Lucas, was killed when he tripped and fell, his gun discharging into the lad's forehead. At Waucoma, 3-year-old Richard Bailey died when a gun in the hands of an older brother was accidentally discharged.

THE FARM OUTLOOK

By Paul Henderson
County Extension Director

The number of milk cows in Iowa— and in the nation—are declining. But milk production has held up fairly well, according to Francis Kutish, extension farm economist at Iowa State College. This is because production per cow has gone up.

He expects milk production in 1953 to be slightly higher if we have average weather. Production per cow was held down nationally in 1952 because of unfavorable pasture conditions in the south and east.

But feed costs across the board should be a little less next year than they were in 1952.

The economist believes grade A milk prices may increase a little next year. Because of some rise in consumer income, prices of manufactured dairy products —except butter—may increase. But Kutish expects the price rise here to be less than that for whole milk.

BUTTER DEMAND DOWN

And butter prices probably will hold about steady. Butter consumption has been declining because more milk is being used for other dairy products, such as whole milk and manufactured dairy products. Another reason is a drop in dairying in the butter-producing areas of the United States. Also, statistics show a shift in consumer demand away from butter to other spreads.

Hancock dairymen will be affected by the beef outlook, too. Lower beef prices mean a lower income from veal calves, cull heifers and dairy steers. So the income from the beef part of the dairy enterprise will be less in 1953 than in 1952.

SELL CULLS AND HEIFERS IN SPRING

Kutish suggests that farmers sell their culls and heifers in the spring—before July 1. Cattle will sell higher at this time. And farmers feeding out dairy-type steers should sell them before the first of June. Prices of such cattle are higher at that time of year, reports the economist. As we go into summer, such cattle run into competition from grass cattle coming from the west—pushing the price of this grade cattle down.

In 1950, because of the five bus routes, and because of the growing population of our town, the large brick school building was becoming too crowded, and something had to be done. Thus, rather than build an expensive addition to the main school building in this inflated Korean war time, the school board took over the Community Hall.

After spending $3000.00 or morefor remodeling, the Community Hall was converted into a school house and now houses the following: Kindergarten, Carol Johnson, teacher; First grade, Karna Brinkman, teacher; Second grade, Ilene Lambertson, teacher; Third grade, Noreen Barkema, teacher; Fourth grade, LaVon Montgomery, teacher.

The janitor is Merlin Brinkman.

The kitchen and dining room are used for the hot lunch program.

The bowling alleys were removed and the space used as a play room. It is indeed a well arranged and convenient lay-out for these school purposes and positively relieves the congestion at the main school building.

About this time the school board was lucky to buy a good rural school house at auction and moved it in from east of town, at a total cost of about $1600.00. It is used as a music room where Mr. Charles Whitford teaches vocal and band group classes.

SCHOOL BUSES

In 1945, the school board purchased two buses to be used for bringing in rural pupils. Now, in 1952, we send out five buses every school day. Two of these each have capacity to seat 42 children. The other three seat 48 each. The buses would cost on todays list $5500.00 each.

The school board, with $27,000 invested in buses needed a building to house them when not in use. Thus, in 1948, they purchased the north half of the John Etchen Garage, size 24 by 60, for $2000.00. A good deal. This provides for only four buses, but the Board expects to lengthen the building to make room for two additional buses.

The five bus drivers today, 1952, are: Graydon Back, Wilbur Haefner, Merlin Brinkman, Kenneth Kluckhohn, and Calvin Josten. The pay scale is $90 per month, and they transport 180 children to and from school each day.

Each township pays the actual cost of transportation for its driver, bus expense, and also includes depreciation of equipment, which brings the cost per pupil per year at around fifty dollars.

HOT LUNCHES

In 1946, six years ago, the School started feeding the children at noon. They call this the "Hot Lunch Service."

The children buy meal tickets, which cost the youngsters up to the fourth grade, 20c per meal, and the larger children, 25c per meal.

Three women, Mrs. Roy Schaefer, Mrs. Alvin Thiemann and Lydia Bock, prepare and serve the hot noon meal to 145 children.

Superintendent Ahrenkiel does the buying of food and supplies from our Klemme grocery stores, and confers with Mrs. Alvin Thiemann in regard to the daily menu. Once in a while the State sends some surplus food. All we pay on this is the express. Some times its a ham or two, or a box of oranges, but this is very little.

This Hot Lunch Service costs $1000.00 per month, which is $260.00 for labor and $740.00 for food. The government pays a small part of the bill. They give us a rebate of 5c for each milk meal and 3½c for each other meal, unless they run out of money which they usually do toward the end of the year. However, by close management, the cash received and the cash paid out, comes out about even.

DRIVERS TRAINING

In the horse and buggy days, we trained the horse (or broke him) so that we could drive with safety on the highways. Today, the idea seems to be to train the driver, and they do this at the Klemme School.

Through some arrangement between the government, the auto factory, and the local dealer, a new stock car is provided to the Klemme School each year for one dollar. This year it is a Chevrolet from the Garner Motor Sales Co. This drivers training auto has dual controls. Mr. Fischer is the instructor, and has 25 students in the class.

SOME COST FIGURES

The total cost of running our one room school in 1892 was $308.00, and amounted to $44.00 each for the seven pupils.

In 1923, when we first ran the regular four year high school, we spent $10,000.00 per year. This included a $2,000.00 annual payment on our bonds.

Now in 1952, taxpayers of the Klemme Independent School District paid for school purposes $37,600. We received for tuitions from the townships, $15,000. It takes both these sums to run the Klemme Schools this year. Our school is getting to be Big Business.

The Klemme Town Council only spent about $6200.00 this year.

A STAFF OF TWENTY-FIVE

It requires twenty-five people to run the Klemme School. 9 grade teachers, salaries $2100 to $2750; 5 high school teachers, salaries $3000 to $3850; 1 superintendent, salary, $5500; 2 janitors, $3000 and $2300; 5 bus drivers, self supporting; 3 lunch ladies, self supporting.

Members of the school board for 1952 are: Everett Guth, president; Margaret Arnold, Don. L. Bacon, Lloyd Sherwood, Raymond Barz, and our efficient secretary, is A J. Kudje.

Enrollment in the grades is 215 and in High School, 100.

WHAT COMES NEXT

A perusal of this history of the Klemme Schools, discloses that our community has always been interested in good schools for our children. We have made expensive improvements throughout the past sixty years to keep them the best. Just now, it seems we have everything that a good school should have.

There is, however, a plan being discussed, both in town and in the country, whereby all district lines in Hancock County be ignored and new lines drawn. The idea is for each town and the rural lands surrounding it, to be placed into one districts, this would make fewer districts and larger districts. The directors would be chosen from the entire district, and would operate both the town school and rural schools which might be necessary in the district.

Each town is somewhat selfish, and does not want another town to grab off a part of its natural territory, but the town will not have the last word. It is left for the rural people to decide which town they would rather join up with.

If and when this matter comes up, it will be well for the farmer to consider which school will give his children the best service.

Take as an example, a larger town like Lake Mills. They have about 45 or more pupils in each grade, which is too many for one teacher to handle properly. In Klemme we average about 25 puplis in each grade, giving the teacher ample time to give individual attention to each of her children.

Again, in the larger town, the school gets too large and gradually becomes impersonal, sort of like an institution. In a smaller town like Klemme you have a calm and quiet home-like atmosphere. Visit the Klemme Schools now and then, and notice that we have new buildings, and have everything that the larger town has, and in addition give our children the added advantages mentioned above.

Consider these things when and if you are asked to vote on this change of school districts lines.

Charles Whitney, our county superintendent, and the Hancock County School Board, have been quietly working on some plan of this kind. Mr. Whitney has always been friendly and honest in the administration of his office, and we are sure whatever recommendations he will eventually make in regard to this matter, will be for the best interests of all the children of Hancock County.

Obituary of Lewis Gage Avery

By Arthur Wellemeyer

Lewis Gage Avery, age 85, a lifetime resident of Avery Township, died of a heart attack while driving into Klemme, Monday morning, December 15, 1952.

He was one of a family of six children born to his parents, Anson A. and Lavine Philo Avery. The township was named Avery because his parents were the first white settlers to locate here. Date of their location was September 14, 1854.

Lewis Avery was born November, 12, 1867, and spent his entire lifetime in this community. He attended the rural school at Amsterdam, and was a regular attendant at the services of the U. B. Church at Goodell.

He acquired his knowledge of farming from his father, Anson A. Avery. He learned to drive oxen, then horses, and in his later years, the tractor.

On November 26, 1891, at the age of 24, Lewis Avery and Mary Hughes were married. They were a thrifty couple, and purchased a farm in the woods, on the river, next north from the Avery home place. During their active years they erected buildings and fences, and succeeded in making it a lovely and productive farmstead. Their home was gladdened by the arrival of two daughters.

After about thirty years of farming, they retired and moved to Goodell, Iowa. They spent some time in travel to see how other people live in the various states, and enjoyed their home life in Goodell until several years ago when the wife, Mary, passed away and broke up the home. Since then Mr. Avery continued to live in his Goodell home.

Mr. Avery was always spoken of as a good neighbor.

Two years ago he developed a heart ailment which finally proved fatal. He had a long and full life and was 85 years, 1 month and 3 days old, when he suddenly fell asleep like a child that has grown tired of play. Indeed a lucky way to go.

He was preceded in death by his parents, Anson A. and Lavine Avery; three brothers, Charles, Laten A., and George; two sisters, Alice, Mrs. Marshall Fuller, Arkansas; Mary, Mrs. Albert Schmalle, Garner; his wife, Mary; and one daughter, Mrs. Mardel Kenseth, Belmond.

He leaves of his immediate family to mourn his passing, one daughter, Mrs. Winnie Smith; three grand children, Avery Bier, Avery Township; Laynold Kenseth, Emmetsburg, Iowa; Luanna Hohbein, Beatrice, Nebraska; three great grandchildren and other more distant relatives and friends.

Versatile Iowa Corn Now Used in 580 Products

Take a bushel of Iowa Corn and follow it through its normal course of marketing and you'll be in for about 580 surprises.

You won't be too surprised to see 85 percent of that bushel being eaten up by a steer on a feed lot in Audubon county.

Or two percent of the bushel made into hominy grits or cereal by one of the mills at Cedar Rapids.

But when you start following that other 13 percent you'll receive some surprises.

And to actually see where and how those golden kernels of Iowa corn ended up, you'd have to visit a typical American home and thousands of manufacturing plants in practically every state

The Iowa development commission's research division reports that the state's 1952 corn crop eventually will end up in 850 different types of commercial products, durable and non-durable.

Two percent of the 680,337,000 golden bushels of corn raised on Iowa farms this year will be used for human food or made into 222 food products such as corn flakes, mayonnaise, vinegar or baking powder.

Eighty-five percent of the nation's first billion-dollar corn crop raised in Iowa will be used to feed livestock directly or converted into 29 different uses for commercial feeds.

Thirteen percent of Iowa's annual corn yield is vital to the manufacturing of 329 durable items such as explosives, brake fluid, adhesives, insecticides, soap or asbestos.

Considering the versatility of Iowa's King Corn in industrial uses for making products from licorice to rayon, in Iowa State College scientist commenting on the future uses for said:

"There is no question of the feasibility of using corn alcohol for motor fuel."

A prominent automobile manufacturer has predicted that farm products will be used for building our bodies in the near future.

Scientists consider Iowa's soil the greatest source of raw material in the world.

The state produces over one billion tons per year of corn stalks, oat hulls and straw, farm by-product material awaiting industrial use

To Report Conservation Practices at Twp. Meets

During the next few weeks, township meetings will be held in Hancock County for farmers to report the conservation practices that were carried out on their farms in 1952 under the Agricultural Conservation Program according to information from the Hancock County PMA Office. Farmers will be notified where the meetings will be held and it will be their responsibility to report the performance of approved practices carried out on their farms and also to furnish substantiating evidence.

No payment will be made for any practice carried out on a farm unless a signed performance report is filed for the farm and necessary evidence submitted on or before January 9, 1953. However, all practices must be carried out on or before December 31, 1952.

Fair Board Holds Open House at Hemp Plant

The new Hancock County Fair Grounds opened her doors last Tuesday afternoon to the captains of the fund raising campaign. This was an afternoon when the Fair Board was able to show off the spacious Hemp Plant as the new site for the County Achievement Show. The captains, about 40 strong, were taken through all parts of the buildings, given instructions for the forthcoming drive, and then allowed a question period. Some of the answers that may be of interest to all people are that: we will hold the County Achievement Show at the new site next August. There are 40 acres of ground, which will be farmed by a group from near Britt; all farming proceeds will be turned over to the Fair Association. The site cost $27,500.00, 10% has already been paid; the rest must be raised by March 1st when possession will be taken. These are only a few of the many questions. If anyone else has questions about the fairgrounds they are urged to ask any member of the fair board, the fund raising campaign members, or the county extension personnel. When you are contacted for a contribution please remember the dire need that our 4-H members have for a fair grounds. Give and give all that is possible. $25,000 is a big goal to reach. Our Fair Board has spent many nerve racking hours finding a site. They are a hardworking, unpaid crew. Let's all get behind them and prove that we too, have a strong interest in our farm youth.

Shamrocks Break Even In Pair; Girls Lose

The Klemme Shamrocks broke even in a pair of basketball games the past week. Last Saturday night, they journeyed to Latimer and took it on the chin from Franklin Consolidated by a score of 58 - 40. At the end of the third quarter, the score stood at 48 - 16 in favor of Franklin. Then both coaches made free use of their reserves. The Klemme reserves fared much better with the Franklin reserves than the regulars did with the Franklin first stringers. They outscored them 24 - 10.

Haefner led the attack for Klemme with 8 points and Brede had 6. Every other player on the Klemme team broke into the scoring column, making anywhere from 1 to 5 points.

Muhlenbruck, of Franklin, was high for the evening, with 21 points.

DOWN ROWAN

In their second meeting of the year with Rowan, the Shamrocks got rolling and came out on the long end of a 65 to 32 count. They grabbed the lead at the start and held onto it all the way, never being in danger.

Stille had 19 points for Klemme, Barz 17, Thiemann 13, and Terhufen 9, to account for most of the Klemme scoring.

Freese and Baker had 9 and 8 points, respectively, for Rowan.

GIRLS LOSE TO ROWAN

The story of the girls' game at Rowan was a little different. The Rowan girls jumped into an early lead, and kept adding to it all the way, until at the end of the game the score stood at 55 - 33 in their favor.

Lacey accounted for a good share of Klemme's total by banging in 24 points.

Hansen and Barz had 18 and 17 points, respectively, for Rowan.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude White are the proud parents of a baby boy. He was born at the Belmond Hospital, Tuesday afternoon at 2:04 o'clock, and weighed in at eight pounds and one ounce. The new arrival has been named Kelvin Merle, and both he and his mother are geting along fine. He has two sisters, Karen and Lorinda.

Pa White is feeling real chipper about the whole thing, and the last we saw of him he was busy passing out cigars.

Dr and Mrs. Earl Schaeffer, of Forest City, now have a boy in their family. The youngster was born August 3rd, and came to live with "Doc" and Florence on December 10. He has been named John Richard, and has a sister, Virginia, 7 years old.

Dr. Schaeffer practiced dentistry in Klemme for several years, and Mrs. Schaeffer taught in the Klemme schools.

Choral Concert Well Attended for Second Year

The Community Choral Christmas Concert presented at the Klemme High School on Sunday, December 21, was well received by a very attentive and highly appreciative audience. The chorus was under the able direction of Mrs. William Reinhart and excellently accompanied on the organ by Mrs. Ernest Gerardi.

The chorus opened the concert with the rendition of the selection "On Christmas Night" an old English carol. Later in the concert the chorus sang "The First Noel" and concluded the concert with "The Hallelujah Chrous" These selections were well interpreted and done with much expression.

The Women's Chorus gave a very fine rendition of "No Candle was there and No Fire". The Men's Chorus sang the well known and beloved selection "The Carol of the Bells". This number though rather difficult was well interpreted giving the impression of various bells of a large carilon ringing in harmony.

Mr. Allen Barz sang a solo with meaning and sincerity. He rendered the plaintive "Come to the Stable". The offertory selection consisted of an organ and piano duet by Mrs. Gerardi and Miss Gracka Marie Gerardi.

The narrator for this presentation giving scriptural unity to the concert was Mrs. Donald Burk of Goodell. Mrs. Burk has a very pleasing voice and read the accompanying script with clarity and vivid expression. The Rev. Carl Mohr, Pastor of the Zion Evangelical and Reformed Church of Garner offered the offertory prayer and the Rev. Paul Miller, Pastor of the E. U. B. Church in Goodell offered the closing prayer.

It is hoped that this community concert will assure this event becoming an annual one during the Christmas Season.

Christmas Programs

Both churches in Klemme will have Christmas programs this evening. There will be treats at both churches, and fun for the children, presenting their parts for the enjoyment of their parents and friends.

White Christmas Assured For Klemme This Year

Local Couple Involved In Accident Tuesday

Mr. and Mrs. John Albers left Tuesday for Lousiana to visit their son Carolynn, who is stationed at Camp Claiborne. They were involved in a minor accident near Osceola. We quote the following story, taken from this morning's Des Moines Register.

Osceola, Iowa—Two men were injured Tuesday in a head-on auto collision 10 miles north of here on Highway 69.

John Albers, 52, Garner, was unable to complete passing a semi-trailor on a slight grade and collided with a car driven by Kenneth Yanke, 24, Prairie du Sac, Wisconsin.

Five stitches were taken in the forehead of Robert Tabor, 19, and James Yanke, 18, suffered head bruises. Both are of Prairie du Sac and were passengers in Yanke's car.

New Snow Caused Early Closing of School for Holidays

About four inches of new snow fell Monday and Tuesday, and that on top of what was left from the Thanksgiving storm, makes quite a blanket of the white stuff. More snow flurries are in store for this section of the state, according to the weather man.

Monday we had ice on the streets and highways, and it snowed most of the day. The school, which was to have been open Monday and Tuesday and then closed for the holidays, had Christmas gift exchanges Monday afternoon, and then closed a day early. Supt. T. G. Ahrenkiel said that the way things looked, the buses might not have been able to go out Tuesday morning anyway.

What with the ice and snow that we had the early part of the week, many people were entertaining fears that they might not be able to get home for Christmas, but the storm didn't develop as fully as it might have, and it looks now as though Christmas travel wouldn't be too bad. Highways throughout the state are spotted with ice to varying degrees, but careful driving should hold down the hazards, and let most people do their Christmas visiting without trouble.

Transfer From Klemme Church After 50 Years

Mr. and Mrs. Karl Kraus of Garner have been members of the Immanuel Evangelical and Reformed Church for the past 50 years. They both joined the church at the same time, before they were married. They were married there 40 years ago, and they have never been transferred to any other church.

Now, however, they have been living in Garner for some years, and they are transferring their memberships to the Reformed Church there, where Rev. Carl Mohr is Pastor.

Cub Scouts Xmas Party

The Cub Scout Christmas party was held Thursday afternoon after school in the recreation room in the Doc Dulmes home. The afternoon was spent in playing games. Homemade candy, apples and a very nicely decorated Christmas tree was furnished by the Cub Scout Committee. After the gift exchange, lunch of hamburgers and chocolate milk was served.

There were 14 Cub Scouts and both Den Mothers present.

March of Dimes

The March of Dimes drive to raise funds to help in the fight against infantile paralysis, gets underway January 2. Workers have peen appointed for each township and town in the county.

The drive is very important this year as the county association shows a balance on hand of $49.77, and they have unpaid bills aomuriting to $1,631.50.

LETTER TO SANTA

There are many letters written to Santa by children at Christmas time and many of them are, without meaning to be, a little on the selfish order. Not all of them by any means, but quite a few of them.

Mrs. Leo Barkema, who teaches third grade in the Klemme School, brought us one the other day that was written by one of her students and the writer showed that he was thinking of others as well as of himself.

Here is the letter.

Dear Santa,

I tried to be a good boy. Will you please send me a tool set and a space ship set. That is all Santa. You will find a barn. Your reindeer can eat in it. There is food in the house. I hope you make it to our house and I hope I get the presents I want. I live in Klemme, Iowa.

GET IT OVER WITH

There are a lot of ex GIs around Klemme who ate one or more Christmas dinners right on the battlefield, during World War II. Some of them probably ate those dinners undisturbed, and others were lucky not to have to pick shrapnel out of their teeth before they finished their meal.

We believe that if each one of these fellows could have what he most wanted for Christmas, he would ask that there be a cessation of hostilities all over the world, and that there would be "Peace on earth, good will to men".

We don't think that it is just American GIs who feel that way, either. In fact, if wars were left up to the people who have to fight them, there wouldn't be any.

The boys in Korea feel the same way, and our letter to Santa would contain only the wish that their chores there might be done so that they could all be home as soon as possible.

TRUE CHRISTMAS SPIRIT

A number of years back, W. Henry Galbreth was superintendent of the Klemme School. At present he is editor of the magazine "Midland Schools".

Recently he had an editorial in his magazine, that is getting around. We didn't get it out of Henry's publication, but picked it up in rather a round-about way.

Dad is a subscriber to the Glidden Graphic, and he discovered "Hank's" handiwork in Editor X. A. Imel's column in that paper. Imel thought that although it was written primarily for teachers, still there was food for thought for all of us. We agree with him, and thought that due to their acquaintance with the writer, our readers would especially enjoy it.

Here it is.

Most educational leaders agree that the teaching of moral and spiritual values is rightfully within the province of public schools today. If that is right, teachers might justly be concerned with the proper attitude toward Christmas and other religious holidays.

The need for this was brought home to us as we were looking through a popular magazine last month. Its advertisements and articles dealt largely with the celebration of Christmas. They suggested pilgrimages, not to the Holy Land, but to New York's night spots. They made little mention of the milk of human kindness, but their colorful advertisements suggested 42 different brands of hard liquor as ideal Christmas gifts. "My Sin" and "Scandal" perfumes were the best bets for the ladies.

Hardly anyone would contend that these gifts represent the true spirit of Christmas, so we are not going to argue for or against that point. We are just going to make an observation on the relationship of this kind of spending to the support given to education today

We are going to venture a guess that at least $7 per person in this country is spent on luxury items during the Christmas season—goods or services which are not even remotely connected with the real meaning or spirit of the occasion. That means billion dollars for the country as a whole.

"And how much is a billion dollars? Representative Falter Judd of Minnesota recently passed on this illustration of that amount. He said if a man started in business with a capital of a billion dollars on the day Christ was born, he could have lost a thousand dollars a day and still have 787 years to go before going broke.

"That's a billion dollars for you—the amount spent for luxury items in one short season of the year.

"If our assumption of $7 per capita is right, that figure applied to Iowa would be almost exactly the amount spent annually for state support of schools. So when somebody asks where the money is coming from to increase this support, we ask a question in return: 'Mr. Iowa Citizen, what has happened to your sense of values? Look around you and see what people are spending money for. That's where it could come from if we put first things first.'

"And that brings us back to the point on which we started—that schools have an obligation to teach proper values in moral and spiritual things. We had never thought of such teachings as having any connections with the financing of schools; but if it will help us to evaluate the important, as well as the right and the wrong, we may uncover a valuable reservoir that can be tapped in the future for the better things of life."

'One for the Road' Should be Coffee

The state safety department Tuesday urged Iowans to take "one for the road" before leaving holiday parties but to be sure to make it coffee.

Safety Education Director Frank B. Ulish urged hosts to serve their guests coffee as the drink at Christmas and New Year's parties to avoid turning the holiday into "alcoholidays."

"The traffic death toll this year may be materially reduced if coffee is the only drink served instead of something stronger," Ulish said.

He said 20 persons were killed and 582 injured in 2,460 Iowa traffic accidents from December 24 through January 1, last year.

"That was a shameful toll and it is entirely possible that many of these tragic accidents could have been avoided if many hosts had made the friendly and sensible gesture of serving coffee." Ulish said.

He urged restaurant, hotel and tavern owners to join in the campaign by serving coffee "on the house" for departing guests at holiday parties.

Ulish said that next to the after-the-party driver, the heaviest contributor to the holiday accident toll is the inter-city driver.

The college student on vacation, the serviceman on furlough, or the family attending a reunion often drive as if it were a matter of life and death that the destination be reached in the shortest possible time, according to Ulish.

"To these people I say slow down. It is better to eat holiday turkey that has grown a little cold because you drove more slowly and safely than never to eat turkey again," Ulish said.

For the long distance holiday traveler, Ulish suggested an early start and a rest at least once every two hours. "Stay refreshed so that you san handle the 20 to 50 decisions an hour that modern driving requires," he advised.

During winter it's doubly important to have salt in a place where stock can get it, says Iowa State College animal husbandmen. Be sure that the salt supply isn't covered by ice or snow.

Northern Population on Upswing at Clear Lake

Since northern pike have been allowed to spawn in Ventura Marsh, the pike population of Clear Lake has increased rapidly.

For the past two springs, adult northerns seeking access to the marsh have been taken from traps at the outlet and placed in the marsh, an excellent natural spawning area.

The marsh is drawn down to the level of the lake each fall to check the fish present and also rescue them from possible winter kill. Last year a check net at the outlet of the marsh yielded crappies, and bluegills, but only a few northern pike. This year a trap set over a three-day period, captured 3800 northerns ranging in size from two to six pounds, as well as many bullheads and a few crappies and bluegills. The fish were returned to the lake.

The operation was interesting because it successfully used natural spawning, rather than hatchery spawning, to increase, badly needed northerns. These fish will not only provide sport for the angler, but will help control bullhead, crappies, and yellow bass populations which have grown too large for their own or anyone else's good.

Trees May be Damaged by Improper Pruning

Not only will this kind of pruning ruin the natural shape of the tree, but it causes the tree to make heavy growth from the limbs. Miss Tarr says this growth forms weak crotches. The result is easy damage from wind and ice, with later entry of moisture and insect and disease pests.

Miss Tarr advises pruning only when the tree branches or limbs are damaged, when they interfere with traffic on the walk or drive, or when they are causing damage or interfering with the operation of a chimney because they hang over a building.

If the troublesome branch is small, it can be clipped off flush with the branch or limb from which it grows. But if the limb is large, Miss Tarr recommends sawing it off.

To remove the large limb, first make a cut on the underside of the limb about one-fourth of the way into it approximately a foot out from the tree. Next saw down from the top of the limb several inches farther out from the lower cut. Because of the under cut, the tree will not be damaged when the limb breaks off.

After the limb breaks off, saw the limb off flush with the trunk. The cut should be painted with a good grade of tree paint. If tree paint is not available, use a black or dark green paint. Paints with a phenol base would damage the live plant cells, so do not use this kind.

Repaint at least once a year. This will help to protect the cut area against weather and the entry of disease organisms and insect pests.

IOWA DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC SAFETY

By Bob Hullihan

The tragic story of this day began on the highways but it is not there now. It is in the hundred of Iowa homes broken by fatal traffic accidents this year.

There are widows trying alone and for the first time to make something of Christmas for their children, though the voice of the husband and father will never be heard in the house again.

There are children spending this Christmas in strange homes because one or both parents died in a traffic accident.

There are parents who did not buy a Christmas tree at all this year because it would have been too terrible reminder of the lost child.

And beyond these families to whom tragedy is still fresh, there are thousands of other families broken by fatal accidents in other years. Christmas reminds them too, that someone is missing.

More than 500 men, women and children have been killed in traffic accidents in Iowa this year. Statistically, it is a "good" record because it means that about 70 fewer lives were lost than in 1951.

But statistics are no comfort to those who have suffered the loss of a family member in a traffic accidents. For them there will always be the haunting thought that the accidents could have been avoided, that the death was really needless.

Another year of driving is ahead of us. Decide today that nothing you do behind the wheel will rob your family or some other family of next Christmas.

Check Cattle Now for Grubs, Soys Henderson

Hancock County cattlemen will be doing their stock a favor to check them from time-to-time for appearance of cattle grubs, says Paul Henderson, county extension director

The grubs show up as bumps under the hide on the backs of cattle, Henderson reminds. Causing the bumps are the grubs which hatched last summer from eggs laid on the flanks and legs of the animal. After hatching they burrowed into the animal's flesh, eventually making their way to the back.

Henderson's suggestion for control of the grubs is to treat the cattle with rotenone spray about 30 days after the bumps appear. He says to mix the spray using 7½ pounds of 5 percent rotenone with 2 pounds of household detergent in 100 gallons of water. The first treatment should be followed by another 30 days later with the same mixture. In some cases a third treament—30 days after the second is necessary.

If cattlemen decide to treat only once, that single treatment will be most effective if it's applied about 7 weeks after the first appearance of bumps.

Where cattlemen don't kill the grubs in the backs of their cattle, the grubs will drop from the animal through the holes they make in the hides. They will pupate on the grounds and, as heel flies next summer, will start the cycle of misery over again for the cattle.

May the joy of Christmas abide in you all.

Parasites Transmitted To Hogs From Straw

Another reason for keeping young pigs away from old straw stacks, or from contaminated straw where older hogs have been bedded, was advanced this week by veterinary medical authorities.

Recent research has revealed that the threadworm parasite is picked up by young pigs when they have frequent contact with straw that has been contaminated by older swine. Veterinarians say this is probably a hitherto unrecognized cause of death among some pigs. When post mortems were done on animals which died of this cause, larvae of the parasites were found in the heart muscle, skeletal muscles, lungs, and even in the brain.

Dynamite May Poison Livestock

Dynamite can be dangerous to livestock even if it is never exploded. A report by veterinarians at the University of California reveals that commercial dynamite can poison cattle and sheep if they have a chance to eat it.

The report cautions against leaving the explosive in stumping areas which the owner is trying to clear by blasting. Stock find the dynamite palatable and may consume it while grazing.

Experiments showed that the minimum lethal dose for cattle and sheep was one stick for every 420 pounds of body weight.

The loss of baby pigs represents one of the largest profit robbers on a farm. Estimates indicate that every stillborn pig represents a loss of 130 pounds of sow feed, and every pig lost at weaning age means a loss of 240 pounds of feed.

10 YEARS AGO—

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Abele, of Liberty township, are the parents of a baby son born to them at the Belmond hospital Sunday, December 20, 1942.

Mr. and Mrs. Abele also have one other son in their family.

Lt. Glenn Bowles of Camp Gruber, Oklahoma, who was on a leave visiting his parents at Indianola, came to Klemme Friday afternoon and spent the night at the R. A. Jorgenson home. He also visited with many friends in this community and took in the basketball game.

Bruce Arnold, freshman student at Iowa State College, Ames came home Friday to spent the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Arnold and family.

In reporting the birth of a baby daughter to Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Helps, The Times stated that the Helps' have two other girls and two boys in their family. With the new daughter they now have two girls and two boys, or four children in their family.

Mr. and Mrs. Helps have named their new daughter, Joan Marie.

20 YEARS AGO—

Workman from the Central States Electric Co. completed the installation of night street lights this morning. Two additional night lights have been added to the equipment. One light at the intersection between the Farmers Oil Co. and the Bank, and the other in the intersection at the Tellemeyer building. These lights with the ones already installed in the alleys will properly illuminate our main business section at night when other lights have been turned off.

Wm. F. Greiman and son, Robert are near Des Moines this week hunting wolves and foxes. They were requested to go to Des Moines by parties there who desired to get rid of wolves in that vicinity. The Greimans have a state-wide reputation as wolf and fox hunters. Word received from them state they have shot one wolf and one fox. They expect to return home the latter part of this week.

Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Gimer of Renwick, were in Klemme Tuesday visiting with old friends and also on a business trip.

Bernard Smid returned last Wednesday from Illinois where he has been working on a paving gang. On account of cold weather the outfit was forced to suspend operations. "Smidy" will return in a few weeks to help in overhauling the machinery before spring works sets in. He has been operating one of the machines.

Miss Thelma Kluckhohn took sick Saturday and has been entertaining the flu. We hope Thelma will be out by Wednesday, as the Young People's play will be given at the Methodist Church and Miss Thelma has a leading part.

30 YEARS AGO—

This vicinity is again being visited by a spell of nice weather—not at all cold.

Sheriff E. P. Hanson of Garner was a business caller in Klemme and vicinity Tuesday.

Fannie and Carl Heginger went to Shell Rock, Iowa, last week Wednesday, where they visited with relatives and friends.

The Times Office installed a power saw this week. We use it in a great many ways and it is convenient for cutting linotype slugs, wood and metal bases, leads, rules, etc.

John Peterson, the evangelist singer, up to this time, is still in Klemme. John must like the climate here—or more possibly pretty Klemme girls are more to his liking.

Hunters need to take precautions if game shot show signs of disease. For example, a South Dakota deer hunting party shot a large buck which apparently had been wounded earlier. However, when the deer was dressed out, symptoms of blackleg were noticed. Laboratory diagnosis confirmed the presence of the disease in the deer.

EDITORIAL

One, two, three, four down and two more days to go. That's what most of the students are thinking the last few days before vacation. Don't get the idea that the teachers aren't taking advantage of this dreamy attitude, because they are. Monday we had tests, Tuesday tests, Wednesday tests, Thurday tests, Friday well, from what we hear there isn't any use in getting our hopes up. Despite the extra work, the students can still find plenty of time to think about the party Monday night, the gift exchange, and other things they have planned over the holidays.

Hope you'll excuse me now while I put away this copy. Seems I have a litle thinking of my own to do. Let me see; what am I going to do the first day of vacation?

P. S. "Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year everyone."

? ? OF THE WEEK

Question: What do you think of Klemme being in the conference?

Denny: "I think it's alright. It will attract interest.

Donnie: I think it is okay, because we'll have more games.

Daisy: I think it is okay because we'll have a more or less definite schedule of games and we'll have more games.

Cecil: Very good Idea!

Janice: I think it's okay. We'll have a definite schedule of games and I think it's good for the school.

Larry: It'll be exciting for the basketball team and they'll be able to get new acquaintances.

Conclusion: We all think it is a grand idea.

THIS CHRISTMAS SPIRIT

Vivian Laramore Rader

What does this Christmas spirit
That gives the heart new birth?
It means that love is greater
Than any power of earth.

What does this song of angels
Above the din of wars?
It means the dawn is glowing
With peace, the stars of stars.

What means this cry of triumph
The highest hills have caught?
It means the Christ is cradled
In each unselfish thought.

What means this sudden gladness
That tears the veil apart?
It means that man is housing
A heaven in his heart.

Once again Christmas, the most beloved season, has come. We are more thoughtful at Christmas time. There is a Christmas spirit that touches the hearts of everyone and causes them to be more thoughtful toward others. Wouldn't the world be a better place to live if we maintained the Christmas spirit 365 days of the year? Do we not have the same reasons to rejoice all year as we do at Christmas? Christ was born on Christmas but He can continue to live in our hearts every day of our lives. Would not that alone be reason enough to rejoice?

Many of us are too busy to really think of all that we have; therefore it is good for all of us, once in a while, to make an inventory of our joys. Too often we think only of the things which didn't turn out as we would like to have had them turn out, also the material things we would like to have. If we would only stop and count our blessings, we would have to admit that our blessings far overshadow the unpleasant things which have come into our lives.

While celebrating this season, let's concentrate on giving rather than receiving. That is the reason we celebrate Christmas because God gave us the gift, his beloved son. Giving means giving of ourselves in service for others, not just at Christmas but everyday of the year. Let's make Christmas every day.

Employm't Commission Reports Record Activity

The multi-million dollar operation of the Iowa Employment Security Commission covered record breaking activity in almost every department during the 1952 fiscal year, a report released today shows.

The reserve held for payment of unemployment compensation stands at a record $105,792,009.06 after unemployed Iowans drew $4,015,959.89 in jobless pay during the fiscal year, the Commission fiscal report to Governor William S. Beardsley said.

Iowa employers contributed $4,333,719.51 toward the fund in payroll taxes to finance benefit payments.

The average weekly payment of unemployment compensation for the year was a record breaking $22.10. The previous record was $19.68 for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1951, the Commission said.

Benefit payments in 1952 were 24.8 per cent more than the $3,216,878.86 paid during the 1951 fiscal year.

The highest employment average in Iowa history was recorded by the Commission during the fiscal year when the average reached 633,900. The year's high was marked in September, 1951, when 645,800 persons were employed in non-farm jobs.

The average hourly earnings of factory workers in the state hit a record high of $1.62 an hour in June, 1952.

Iowa employers hired 137,055 workers through the 37 offices of the Iowa State Employment Service during the 1952 fiscal year, the Commission report said. Of this number, 35,006 were placed in farm jobs. Of the total, 39,107 were women, 30,995 veterans, and 6,928 were handicapped persons.

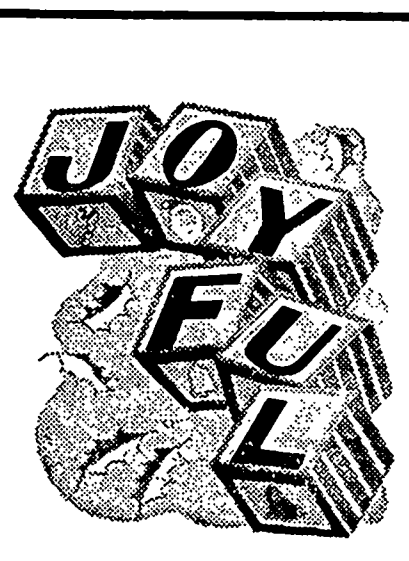
The Employment Service also gave job counseling to 8,6322 individuals, and tests to 15,179 job hunters to determine their qualifications.

The report said that a record 11,000 cases were checked for fraud and over payment by the fraud investagating unit of the Commission, and $17,006.38 recovered.

This compares to about 7,000 cases checked during the previous fiscal year and $8,172.29 recovered.

Out of 48 fraud cases brought into court by the Commission, 45 convictions were obtained and three are pending, the report said. Penalties for offenders during the year ranged from $20 fine to a six months jail term.

A total of $2,094,069.33 was paid to beneficiaries of insured individuals under the Iowa public employees old age and survivor's insurance system during the fiscal year. The report listed 4,741 covered public departments.



And, we might add, a double Merry Christmas.

Ridge-Planting Corn Promising

Early Weeds Controlled by Pre-Emergence 2,4-D

An experimental method of growing corn is continuing to show promise at Iowa State College.

It's called ridge farming. The corn is planted in ridges, and early growth of weeds is controlled by pre-emergence application of 2,4-D.

According to W. G. Lovely and E. V. Collins, research agricultural engineers at the college, this is how it works:

Corn is planted on top of these ridges that are formed by a modified lister. This "ridge maker" has a half lister blade, a full blade, then another half blade. It constructs two evenly spaced ridges—about 42 inches apart.

REDUCES FLOODING

Planting corn on top of these ridges gets away from two disadvantages of normal listing, where corn is planted in furrows. Lovely saw corn yields won't be reduced as much by flooding or from planting in cold subsoil. And reduction of stands caused by early mechanical cultivation can be avoided through pre-emergence spraying with 2,4-D on heavy soils. The research workers have found that this will eliminate the need for the first cultivation.

Two years ago—when summer rains drenched Iowa cornfields—corn planted on ridge plots came through in good shape. But corn drowned out in test plots on land where other tillage methods were used—such as conventional moldboard plow, hard ground lister or disk—so the researchers couldn't gather enough data for accurate yield comparisons.

STILL EXPERIMENTAL

And with the almost-perfect corn weather this summer, corn grown on ridge plots yielded about the same as corn planted on listed plots or on plots where conventional plowing and surface planting were used.

Lovely and Collins point out that ridge farming isn't new. It's been used in other parts of the country for many years. But cultivation troubles and other problems with the usual ridge farming method have held back its adoption in Iowa. However, they hope to develop an implement which can easily form and till uniform ridges.

With further tests, they think ridge farming may show up as a practical and superior method of growing corn on easily-flooded bottamlands and on steep side hills. On these side hills, it may replace strip cropping and small terraces in some areas.

Reasearch Shows Farm Lubricants Cause X-Disease

Crankcase oil, tractor grease and other farm lubricants can cause "X" disease in cattle, recent experiments have demonstrated.

Research at the University of Tennessee has revealed that chlorinated naphthalenes are one source of the disease. The naphthalenes are added to lubricants to improve their load-carrying qualities.

A report in the Journal of the American Veterinary Medical Association regarding the experiments said "X" disease, also known as hyperkeratosis, was produced by chlorinated naphthalene, and also by applying crankcase oil to the back of a cow.

As a result, farmers were cautioned against using crankcase oil to kill lice and mange on hogs and cattle. Tractors, combines and other farm equipment using lubricants should be stored where they are inaccessible to cattle, the report said.

Oil dripping, grease cans and lubricant buckets also provide a possible source of the disease if precautions are not taken, the report added.

Veterinary medical authorities said hyperkeratosis is a slow, chronic disease marked by a watery discharge from the nostrils. Marked drooling and scours also appear. The aminal gradually wastes away and dies. As the disease progresses, parts of the cow's skin become hard and dry and wrinkles develop along the sides of the neck and withers. The lips and tongue may show wartlike growths.

Research veterinarians also said the disease has been caused by certain wood preservatives

Educational TV Network Possibility for Iowa

Des Moines—Governer Willaim S. Beardsley made clear his strong support for the development of educational television in Iowa at the Governor's Conference on Educational Television in Des Moines, Tuesday, (December 16).

He spoke of the conference as an historic occasion which might lead to adding "a third arm" in the provision of educational facilities for the people of Iowa.

Governor Beardsley likened the development of television to the invention of printing in its importance to education.

With educational television, he said, "We will be able to carry education programs right to the classroom in a way which would be impossible to offer so effectively by any othr procedure. He declared educational television's benefits would be equally great in the fields of adult education and advanced education.

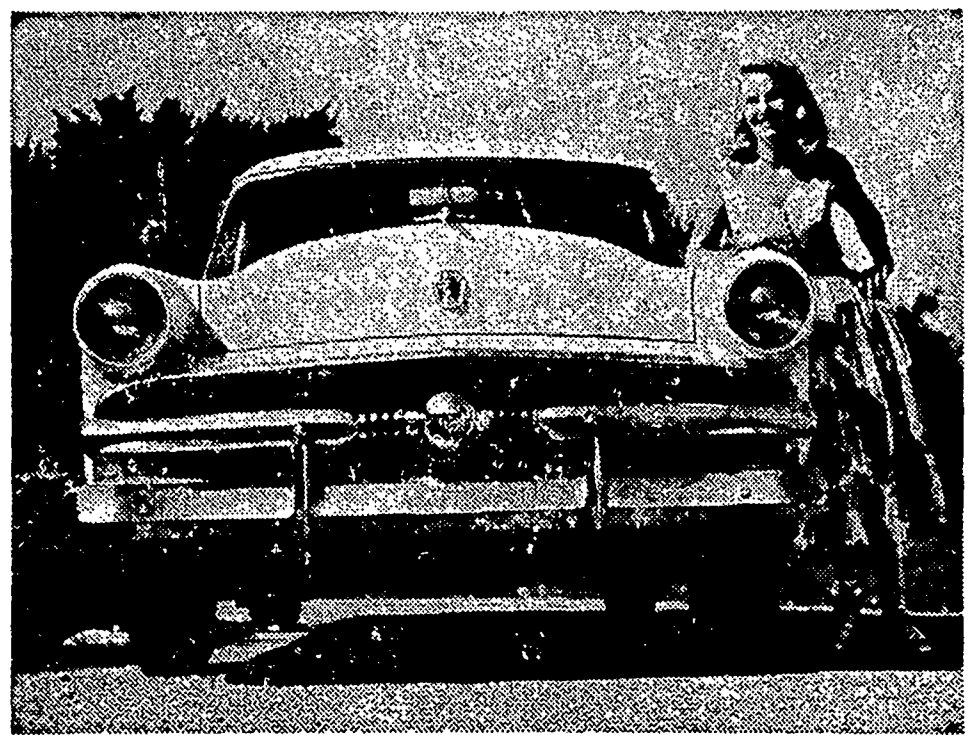
The Governor cited the advantages of pooling the resources of all of the state's educational institutions, including the privately owned schools and colleges for program service on a proposed educational television network for Iowa.

At the Governor's conference representatives of the Iowa Joint Committee on Educational Television presented plans for a 12-station network of educational TV stations.

He said it is fortunate that a plan for Iowa educational television has been developed prior to the state legislatures meeting this winter. He emphasized the importance of letting all of Iowa's citizens know of the promise of educational television.

"Since educational television shows such promise," he said, "we want to do the constructive thing; we want to avail ourselves to these facilities so that we can bring its great benefits to the entire citizenry of our state in the succeeding years."

Particularly interesting to Klemme and surrounding territory is the fact that under present plans for this set up, Mason City will be one of the towns to have a station.



The massive new grille of the 1953 Ford features a center spinner characteristic of Ford design and a low, road-hugging look which advances the trend in car styling Ford first introduced five years ago. Oblong parking lights are set low to enable the streamlined center bar to wrap around the front fenders and add to the lower, wider appearance.

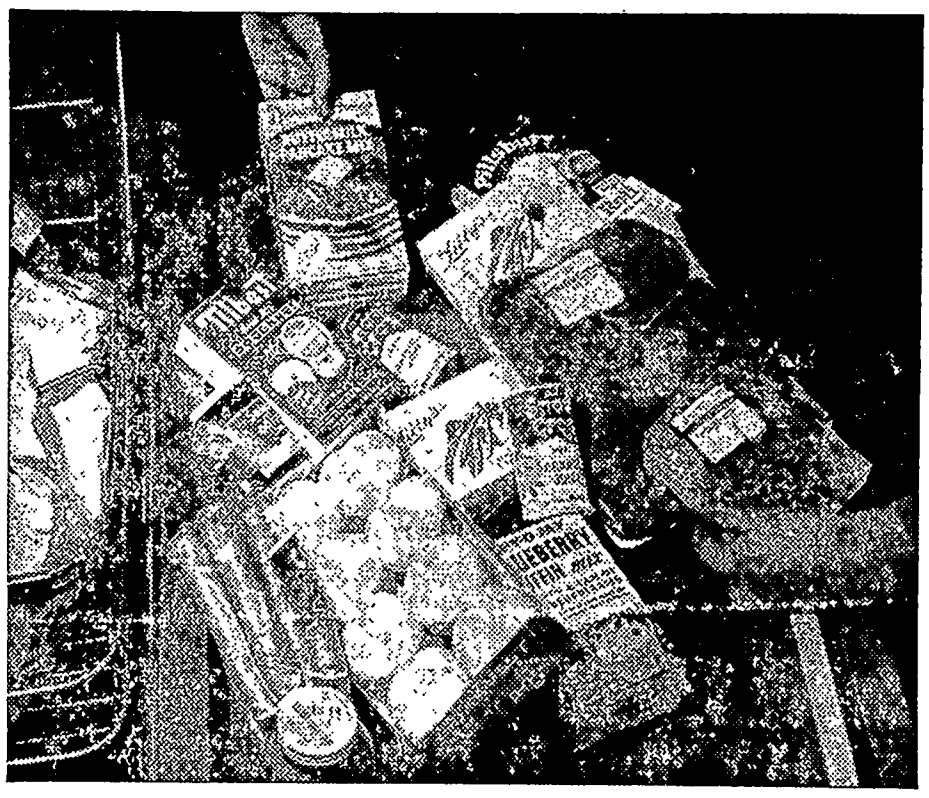
New Products, Equipment, Work Habits Mean—

Helps for the Homemaker



Food processors have found a multitude of ways to help out the family cook. Special service items, prepackaged and frozen foods snip welcome minutes from meal preparation time.

If American homemakers were to inventory recent developments that have made life at home pleasanter, easier, and perhaps more rewarding, they'd find no cupboard bare. At least that's the way Iowa State College extension economist see it.

FREEZERS, SPECIAL SERVICES

Special food services at the grocery store simplify meal preparation. There's good eating quick-as-a-wink in all kinds of ready-mixes. Prepackaged meats brown-and-serve baked goods, waffles, shoestring potatoes and nutmeats; frozen fruits and vegetables, frozen ready-to-cook fish and poultry; concentrated fruit juices, instant coffee and tea are other time-savers.

The homemaker with a home freezer finds she can smooth out peak loads of work during the food preservation season by freezing small amounts of fruits and vegetables at a time. Shopping is simplified when she finds good buys in cases of frozen foods. Her home-frozen foods taste so garden-fresh that the family tends to eat more fruits and vegetables.

NEW FABRICS, FINISHES

New upkeep-saving finishes for almost all fabrics, and wonderful new fibers are revolutionizing our wardrobes and home furnishings fabrics. With encouragement from magazines and home economists, more and more homemakers have organized "sewing centers" and have learned new, simplified techniques that make their stint at the sewing machine more enjoyable and productive.

Walls and floors have come in for new beauty and easier care, too. Washable paints; waterproof or highly washable wallpapers; canvas-backed wall coverings that can be applied over old cracked walls; new plastic tile that needs no coat of wax for protection—all these and more spell good news. Easy-to-care-for hard floor coverings are more durable and are styled for every room in the house. Cotton, rayon and the new synthetics are being made up into quality rugs and carpets.

Informal, well-constructed and often dual-purpose, today's furniture fits into crowded quarters has strength-without-bulk features. Simplicity in lines makes for easier upkeep.

NEW EQUIPMENT

Homemakers from coast to coast have accepted the drier as their most important laundry helper. Many new washers have different "load levels" built into them so as to save water and time. Steam-dry irons have become lighter weight and more service-free, and a few feature longer ironing periods between reservior refills.

In small kitchens, the 30-inch range with its oversize oven and standard 4-unit top has established a firm toehold. Homesize, easy-to-opeerate floor polishers team up with the vacuum cleaner in getting the housecleaning done. Upright freezers have come in for use where space is limited.

WORK ON WHEELS

There's been increased emphasis in the past few years on working practices and on kitchen and workroom arrangements that conserve time and wheels—work chairs, work tables laundry carts and even ironing tables—saves lifting, stooping and extra steps.

BAND NEWS

Following are the members of the All-County Band:

BEST WISHES FOR A WONDERFUL HOLIDAY

The Corner Store

SAM MARGARET ROGER BUTCH

By Paul Henderson
County Extension Director

Supplies of most things which Hancock County families need and want for better living will be adequate in the stores of this area in 1953. An price tags on things are likely to stay at about 1952 levels, according to economist at Iowa State College.

FOODS

There'll be more meat in 1953. Pork prices will be about the same, but beef and lamb will be less than this year. Milk may cost a little more and spring egg prices will be higher. But there will be more poultry meat—and the price will be lower.

What you'll pay for flour and bread depends upon how the 1953 wheat harvest turns out. Bread went up a little recently because of higher processing and distributing costs. Otherwise, we have ample supplies of cereals.

Prices for commercially grown vegetables will continue high. Potatoes won't come down much until homegrown supplies come in next year.

APPAREL AND FURNISHINGS

Clothing is in good supply and should continue so—barring an all-out war. Clothing prices, which started dropping in late 1951, are leveling off.

The 1952 cotton crop was smaller than a year ago. But it was large enough to meet our domestic and export needs. There's plenty of wool clothing. And prices here, too, seem to have stabilized.

Rugs, furniture and other home furnishings will be plentiful this year Merchants are keeping their stores adequately filled, but not overstocked. Prices will remain firm. Since few merchants have excess furnishings on hand, fewer clearance and forced sales can be expected. However, it will be wise to shop around and compare prices for the furnishings you want.

EQUIPMENT

Manufacturers have been able to produce more household equipment than they could sell. The result was that inventories reached top-heavy levels in mid-1952. The steel strike took some of this excess off the market. But supplies are likely to be ample, although list prices may be hiked a bit because of higher manufacturing costs.

Wool Retains Place as One of Top Fibers

Wool remains a "wonder fabric" of modern civilization even in comparison with the new "miracle fibers" developed in the twentieth century, according to Lucille Rea, extension textiles and clothing specialist at Iowa State College.

Miss Rea referred to a nationally circulated magazine article which recently described wool as "Wonder Fabric 'W'." It pointed out that wool, a natural fiber, still displays a wider variety of useful properties than man-made fibers. Miss Rea says the interest in the new miracle fibers is out, wool remains one of the most important and necessary clothing materials.

Wool has great warmth for its weight, she points out. It is nearly nonflammable. Firemen sometimes recommend smothering out a fire with a wool coat or rug.

Wool takes dyes well because it contains so many chemical groups "eager to combine" with fast dyes. It can be stretched to 30 or 50 percent of its length and will still spring back to its original dimensions Miss Rae says it is also one of the most absorbent of all fibers, taking up to 30 percent of its weight in water without becoming appreciably damp. It creates an air wall between the skin and outer air to maintain even body temperature regardless of how outside temperatures vary.

One farmer or rancher out of every five in this country is now developing or carrying out a soil and water conservation plan, reports the Soil Conservation Service.

According to the 1950 census, there are 100 women to 98.1 men in the U. S.

Christmas

When you hear the Christmas bells ring, stop and pause, think real for a moment. Just why are these bells ringing? Some know, others taking things for granted, think it just another celebration where man may have a good time for himself. But never forget the real blessing of Christmas is that a Saviour was born to save lost sinners, so let us think of the true meaning. "Glory to God in the highest and on earth peace, good will toward men."

Hancock County Now Ready To Take Taxes

County Treasurer Says 'Receipts Are Ready'

January 1st is the date when taxes become due, but they are not delinquent until March 31 each year, and while we should be able to show the agriculture land credit on the receipts when they are paid, yet the money is not sent to us in time and we must continue to issue checks for this when they make the money available.

Taxes in all the Corporations show about the same millage and this would make the taxes in each town the same. Township taxes which include the land and personal in the township will only vary with the valuation - this is more noticable with the Personal tax as this is figured on the amount of stock and machinery that you have. Many times the tax payer does not check to see what his value is. This is shown on your assessment sheet that you sign for the assesor.

McMillin informed us that-The Agriculture Land Credits law --- allows each land owner a credit of 40 acres or more (except the 40 acres on which the owner is receiving a Homestead credit) when the general fund of the school district has a millage of over 15 mills. The County treasurer will mail checks for this credit when they receive the money from the State.

All special assessment such as oiling streets, water assessments, and especially the special assessment on drainage are all due with the spring taxes and they are not divided in 1st and 2nd payments, as real estate taxes are. They are all due and payable with the first installment of taxes.

There are several other credits that a tax payer is allowed if he asks for them.

The Homestead credit allows a credit of $2500.00 on all property that is lived in for 6 months in a year. It must be asked for each year before July 1st.

The Soldier's exemption is given the men who were in service. This is figured on each one according to the war in which he served. It does not have to be asked for after it is once set on the books, unless you do change the property. If you do change location, you should notify the County Auditor.

Your dog tax can be paid to the assessor when he makes your assessment. Town dog tax should be paid to the Town Clerk.

Tax receipts must all be written and ready for the tax payer by January 1st. It is a big job but we have it done. When you come to pay your tax, you should know what property you own and check to see that it is all on the receipt.

Girls' Sectional Tourney to be Held in Klemme

Klemme has been selected as a site for one of the Girls' Sectional Basketball Tournaments. Dates of the event are January 26-27-29-31, and there are eight teams listed. Pairings have been announced, and first action will be between Alexander and Fertile. Goodell meets Hanlontown in the same bracket.

In the lower bracket Joice and Klemme tangle, followed by Meservey and Ventura.

Shamrocks to Seek Revenge from Bulldogs Next Tuesday Night

Basketball resumes after the holidays when the local teams meet the Kanawha basketballers on the Klemme floor next Tuesday night, January 6.

The Shamrockettes have two wins over the Kanawha girls, having beaten them by a fairly large margin in a regularly scheduled game, and coming out on top by a 10-point margin in the county tournament at Hayfield. They hope to keep their victory record over the Kanawha girls intact.

With the Shamrocks, the story is different. They played one of their poorer games when they met the Kanawha Bulldogs earlier in the season, and went down by a 10-point margin. They will be gunning for a victory to gain revenge for the humiliation they suffered in the earlier game.

R. A. Jorgenson, Sr., former Editor and Publisher of The Klemme Times, is making a good recovery from a heart attack which he suffered in October. He spent five weeks in the hospital and has now been home four weeks. Surprised for Fifteenth Wedding Anniversary

Tuesday was the 15th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Jurgemeyer, and Sunday evening they were surprised in honor of the event.

A large group of relatives brought "pot luck" and came to their house to spend the evening. "500" was played, everyone enjoyed the "pot luck" lunch, and at the close of the evening, the Jurgemeyers were presented with a purse of silver.

Those who were in on the surprise and helped the Jurgemeyers; to have a memorable 15th Wedding Anniversary were: Wm. Jurgemeyer, Mr. and Mrs. Everett Jurgemeyer and Katherine, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Meinders and family, and Mr. and Mrs. Laurice Lemke and family, of Garner; Mr. and Mrs. Erwin Nuehring and family, of Kanawha; Mr. and Mrs. John Meinders, Mr. and Mrs. August Josten and family, and Mr. and Mrs. Louis Jergemeyer, of Klemme; and Mr. and Mrs. Duard Lewis and Shelley of Humboldt.

BURNED

When a gas burner in his locker plant went out, proprietor Clyde Morse waited a few minutes for the gas fumes to clear out before lighting the burner again. But he didn't wait long enough. He was badly burned in a blast that demolished a door, and blew off the lids of lard cans in an adjoining room.

Electric Companies Announce Power Interchange Plan

Will Protect Customers Against Power Outages

The Iowa Electric Light and Power Company, of Cedar Rapids, and the Corn Belt Power Cooperative, of Humbolt, today annouced the signing of a contract providing for the interchange of 15,000 kilowatts of electric power between the two systems. The Iowa Electric Light and Power Company serves approximately 98,000 electric customers and 32,000 gas customers in 32 Iowa counties in central and northern Iowa. The Corn Belt Power Cooperative is composed of 12 REA member cooperatives, which, in turn, serve 30,000 farms in 25 counties throughout the north-central portion of the State.

Under the terms of the agreement, the Iowa Electric Light and Power Company will build a high-voltage transmission line from Marshalltown to Conrad. It will also build sub-stations near Reinbeck, Armstrong, and Spencer, at which points power can be interchanged. The Cooperative will install the necessary telemetering and supervisory control equipment for regulating the interchange of power between the two systems.

In a joint statement, Ben Jaspers, President, and Henry W. Hope, General Manager, of the Corn Belt Power Cooperative, and Sutherland Dows, President of the Iowa Electric Light and Power Company, emphasized that one of the important features of the contract will be the mutual benefit in protecting customers of both systems against power outages. The contract negotiations were handled through the Stanley Engineering Company, of Muscatine, consulting engineers for the Corn Belt Power Cooperative.

When either system calls on the other for power at any of the interchange points, it has the privilege of returning that power within six months. It will also provide some economies by permitting the generation of power on the most efficient units available to either system. The load characteristics of each system are such that the inter-connection will permit greater proportion of the power output to be generated on the more efficient steam units, with a resulting economy in generating costs.

Necessary construction of lines and sub-stations to interconnect the 69,000-volt system of the cooperative with the 115,000-volt system of the utility will be started at once, and the contract provides that his shall be completed on or before December 1, 1953.

WHERE DID THEY GO?

While we were digging through the files in search of items for the "Memory Joggers", our eye was caught by an article pertaining to a new law concerning standardization of width of runners for sleds, sleighs, etc.

We can remember when we were just a kid and used to hook on to some friendly farmer's bob and get a free ride. Those days are gone, but we thought you might get a kick out of this item from The Times of 30 years ago.

"While the sled law that goes into effect January 1st may work a slight hardship on some, it will surely benefit the many as sleds will be the same width as the standard wagons and cars. Below we give the law so that our subcribers may familiarize themselves with it

"Sleighs—standard width, unlawful use. On or after the 1st day of January 1923, it shall be unlawful for any person, firm or corporation in the state to sell any new or first hand draft sleigh, sled or bobsled, to any person or persons residing in this state for use herein, unless the runners of such sleigh shall measure from center to center, four feet and eight inches, and after such date it shall be unlawful for any person or persons to use upon any of the public highways of the state any such sled, sleigh or bobsled, purchased at first hand after said day of January, 1923 unless the runners shall measure from center to center four feet and eight inches."

However, this does not mean that farmers who still have narrow runner sleds must have them altered to correspond to the new law, as we under stand it. It will perhaps be many years before all sleds would be a standard width. Also, the law will not prohibit a farmer from selling a used sled to another farmer at public auction.

We have read many comments on the law in the papers, but the law is quite clear as to the new bobsleds."

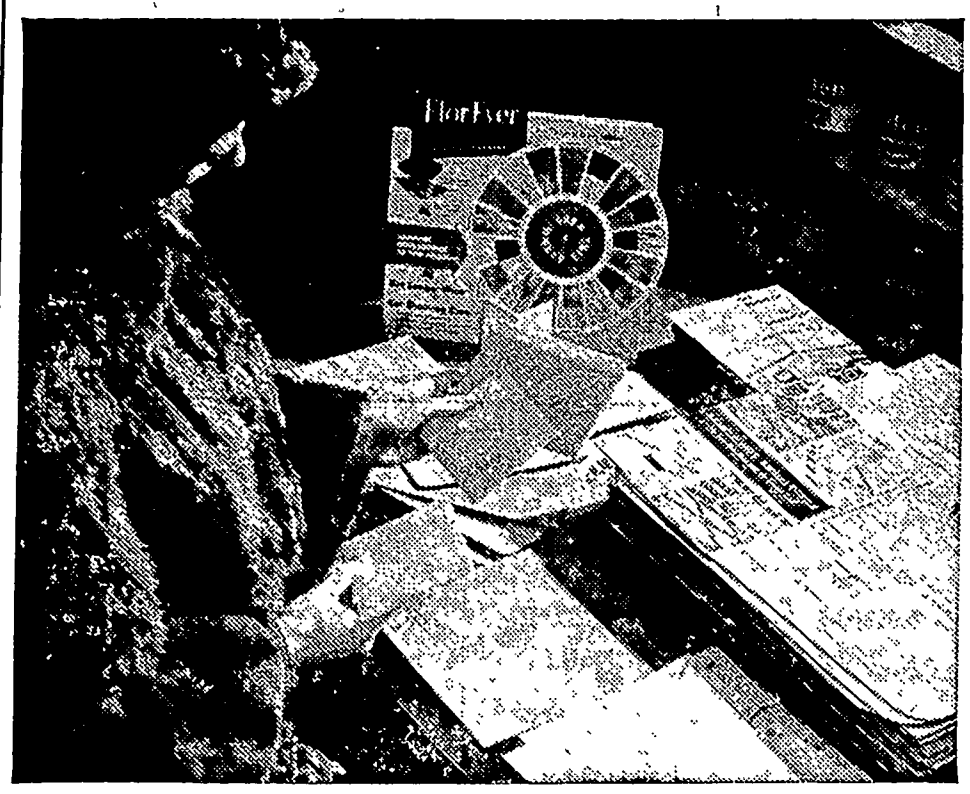
For Beauty Ease of Maintenance, Long Wear—

Behold Today's Hard Floor Coverings



Whether you're seeking a floor treatment for bathroom, playroom, living room or bedroom, you'll find today's up-and-coming hard floor coverings have much to offer.

Hard floor coverings such as linoleum, cork and tile are becoming steadily more adaptable for use all over the house. Restyling, use of new materials and manufacturing techniques and constant research are factors that have turned the tide and channeled these floor coverings to rooms other than bathroom and kitchen.

More and more families are asking for wall and floor coverings they can install themselves. Many manufacturers of hard-surface floor coverings cater to this demand by supplying complete installation kits and directions.

NEW PLASTICS

Vinyl plastic, available by the yard or in tile of various thicknesses, is a welcome newcomer in the field. According to June Brown, Iowa State College extension home furnishings specialist, it's available in a galaxy of colors and is easily cleaned with soap or detergent and water. It never needs waxing and is highly resistant to scratches and wear.

A rather expensive vinyl plastic carpeting is being developed, too. It is to resemble regular fiber carpeting, to be extremely resilient longwearing and easy to keep looking like new.

LINOLEUM

Linoleum is made up mostly of linseed oil, ground cork and pigment. It comes in various weights and is particularly serviceable in kitchen and bathroom. Keep its surface waxed and wipe up water and spots soon after they occur.

Daily dusting helps preserve the beauty of your linoleum, too, says Mrs. Brown. Protect your linoleum from lasting dents and mars by standing and heavy furniture on specially designed rests. Casters won't do.

A low-cost floor covering that calls for the same care is felt base. Its surface-printed designs the not permanent as through-to-the backing colors on linoleum

ASPHALT TILE

Asphalt tile is a serviceable low-cost flooring that can be installed over most any type subfloor. It's highly resistant to alkalies and moisture, and there's a special grease-proof type recommended for the kitchens and workshops. Asphalt tile needs a protective coat of self-polishing water-emulsion wax.

RUBBER TILE

Rubber tile has a glossy sheen and isn't easily dented. It has a high tensile strength, which means there's less danger of its cracking with age as the years go by. Oil and grease will damage rubber tile, so protect it in the kitchen with water-emulsion self-polishing wax.

CERAMIC TILE

Ceramic tile is used mostly in bathrooms, but there is a new unglazed tile you can use effectively in hallways and on hearths. Soap and water keep it shining clean. Give it a protective coat of wax.

Cork tile gives excellent insulation against heat and cold, has a very resilient, non-slip surface and can be installed over almost any type of subfloor. It's made of good grade cork that is flaked and baked in molds under pressure and impregnated with wax.

Select hard floor and wall coverings with an eye to serviceability and appropiateness, making sure of which type to use over the kind of sub-flooring you have. Give it the care it calls for, and expect long years of service and beauty.

Order Fertilizer Now to be Certain of Having Enough for Spring

Hancock county farmers were advised to take immediate action if they want to be sure of having on hand fertilizer they will need for 1953 planting operations.

"Critical losses in fertilizer production are threatened due to the slow movement of plant food from factory to farms thus far this year," reports the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee. "Overcrowded storage facilities are causing bottlenecks at factories.

"Already the output of essential materials used in fertilizer manufacture has been cut back. Reductions are reported in superphosphate schedules and in the production of sulfuric acid, a commodity that was critically low last year. Potash storages are filling up back to the mines

"Losses in fertilizer production cannot be recovered later, for during the spring rush season, plants are running 24 hours a day.

"Farmers cannot afford to gamble again with the weather, as they did last year. Then a serious shortage of plant food was averted by a rainy spring season which delayed corn planting several weeks. That enabled factories to catch up on production.

"By taking delivery now farmers will have the choice of the kinds and amounts of fertilizer they want, in prime condition. Shortages during the rush period may cause some farmers to get no plant food at all, or to take whatever is available.

THE FARM OUTLOOK

By Paul Henderson
County Extension Director

It looks as if Hancock County hog producers have passed the peak in hog marketings. But the first two weeks in December probably hung up a new record for hog slaughter in the interior markets, reports Francis Kutish, extension farm economist at Iowa State College.

He says part of this stemmed from the heavy marketings and part from the addition to killing capacity of certain Iowa slaughterers.

And the hog market has had a little more bounce during recent days, says the economist. The increased killing capacity in the interior markets has encouraged aggressive buying. And as hogs dwindle, Kutish thinks the aggressive buying will show up in some price advance.

The outlook still favors a moderate winter seasonal hog price advance between now and early March. Also hog marketings should be down 10 to 20 percent for the next 3 months, compared to last year's figures.

Kutish also points out that Hancock County farmers are seeing some price discrimination lately against heavyweight hogs. For example, the cut-out value of 240 to 270 pound butchers dropped more than that for 180 to 220 pound butchers in November.

Runs of heavy hogs have not been too large. Hogs weighing 240 to 270 pounds are now making up about 20 to 25 percent of the interior run. And hogs weighing 270 pounds account for less than 10 percent. Kutish believes if we get any sizable boost in the proportion of heavy butchers, we can look for greater price reductions on these heavier hogs.

History of Klemme

by Arthur Wellemeyer — Thirteenth Installment

KLEMME HOTEL

During the building boom of 1890, Alex Kirkwood built the Hotel, size 24 by 48, on the lots now occupied by the Hancock County Oil Association. The large sign over the door read "Kirkwood House". The Kirkwoods operated the Hotel for 7½ years. There were quite a few carpenters and laborers here at the time, building up the town. They were mostly without families and stayed at the hotel, which made the hotel a very busy place. At noon Mr. Kirkwood rang a large hand bell at the door of the hotel and the hungry people would come on the run. Every body ate at the one long table in the dining room.

Later the building was enlarged, with additions on the east and on the south, making it about three times its original size. It had about six bedrooms on the second floor.

The following landlords operated this hotel: Henry Terhufen, Dolf Fuller, Tom Elder, Ella Thompson, and Chris Blumer. On February 1st, 1926, the hotel was burned to the ground and was not rebuilt.

Mrs. Alex Kirkwood, a good cook, later operated a boarding house in Klemme for many years. For a while in the Jim Thomas building and later in the Shaffer and Dow building.

LIVERY BARN

Alex Kirkwood built the barn on the lots back of the hotel in 1890. He kept about four teams for hire. He would take you to Garner for one dollar and fifty cents, or rent you a rig for two fifty per day . . . except on July fourth when the rate was four dollars.

Seven years later, Oscar Carlson became the owner. He operated for twelve years. Chas. L. Yahnke then operated until the automobiles came. He even owned an "International High Wheeler" and later a Model T touring car, but the horse livery business was gone and Yahnke sold out and moved to a farm near Good Thunder, Minnesota.

Clark Bredbenner used the barn for a number of years. He bought and sold horses. Later the building was wrecked and the lumber sold to a farmer.

NEWSPAPER ESTABLISHED IN 1895

Six years after the Town of Klemme was founded, another progressive step was taken with the establishment of a newspaper, and the first copy of The Klemme Times was printed on a Washington hand press on August 30th, 1895. The first issue was sold at one dollar per copy.

J. R. Cline owned the equipment which was housed in a small building on main street, and some years later was moved into the back rooms of the old State Savings Bank building. In 1914 the present building was built by M. M. Magner and the paper moved into new quarters.

Victor R. Barry was the first editor and worked for Mr. Cline for three weeks when Geo. J. Hall took over the post of Editor. Hall remained with the paper about six months and then G. A. Griswold took over the reins on February 14, 1896.

For a number of years there was a rapid succession of Editors and the ownership of the paper changed several times. During these years the paper was published by Geo. L. Wellemeyer, Charles P. Ell, A. C. Flint, C. H. Mann, Fred Shipley, and M. M. Magner.

On July 11, 1917, R. A. Jorgenson took over the business from M. M. Magner and published The Klemme Times continuously for thirty-five years.

Soon after R. A. Jorgenson took over the business he made a large number of changes, installing a linotype machine, cylinder press, new type and other printing machinery and equipment.

The present Publisher and Editor of the Klemme Times, Lyndon Kilgore, took over October 15, 1952, and with the enthusiasm of youth, is already making improvements and shows promise of doing a good job as Editor.

The plant today is one of the best equipped weekly newspapers in Northern Iowa and is in keeping with the progressive spirit of the town of Klemme.

THE RAILROAD

The town of Klemme was built next to the B. C. R. & N. railroad tracks. How thankful we were for the railroad. The little trains, pulled by "toy" steam locomotives, hauled the products from our farms to distant markets, and everything we used from far away places was brought in by rail. A nice arrangement mutually profitable to all.

The B. C. R. & N. Company sold out to the Rock Island System in 1889. The depot was enlarged, more side tracks were put in, a large stock yard with cattle sheds was added, and in 1937 heavier rails were laid to accommodate more traffic.

Then something happened. About twenty-five years ago the automobile and the truck came into the picture, which called for drastic changes if the railroad was to survive.

The railroad considered running buses on their rails. They were to operate with one or two men, and run each way every hour or two, for the convenience of the traveling public.

But, because of certain regulations originating with the New Deal Government and the labor unions, it was forbidden to move any trains, no matter how small, without using five employees on each train, whether needed or not.

The management of the railroad, "hog tied" by these regulations, was not given a chance to compete with the one man buses on the pavement.

Thus they lost out on the following: 1st - They discontinued their passenger trains, 2nd - They lost their mail carrying contract, 3rd - Some of their express business went to parcel post, 4th - They practically quit hauling local freight, and 5th - The cattle and hog hauling went to the truck lines.

OVERSIGHT

Unintentionally, the name of Reva Elder was omitted from the roll of the class of 1930 in last week's issue.

However, the R. R. people claim in a recent circular, that in the United States as a whole, the hauling business is divided up as follows: 67% of the freight is hauled by rail, 19% by water, 1%, by air, and 13% by truck. But, in the Klemme Community it is obvious that the trucks do more than half of the hauling.

Another interesting fact is that the Klemme Station claims to do from 80 to 90 thousand dollars annual business. And still about all the railroad does for Klemme at the present time (1952) is to haul out carloads of grain, corn and old iron, and haul in carloads of lumber, cement and coal.

This branch of the Rock Island is gradually being killed by too much government regulations and to much dictation from the labor unions. Like killing the goose that lays the golden eggs.

It would be better for both the government and the unions, if they would ease up on their regulations, so as to give the management of the R. R. Company a chance to compete and fight for their life.

If this is not done, then Dear Reader, please consider this as an obituary for our branch of the Rock Island,, and my final word then would be, "May She Rust In Peace".

Ten U. S. Presidents have served two terms.

Department of Health Explains Cold Causes

Cover that sneeze! If you have a cold you can send 20,000 germ-laden droplets into the air each time you sneeze --- and after half an hour 4,000 of them will still be there waiting for someone else, the Iowa State Department of Health says.

Contrary to popular belief colds are not caught by standing in a draft or wearing wet shoes. These things help to further the success of the cold germ but actually a virus is responsible for those sniffles and chills. Once the germ has entered the body it is often easy to "catch" a cold. Over exposure to drafts, rapid changes of temerature and insufficient clothing to maintain proper body temperature all help to break down your resistance to the cold bug --- so avoid them.

To build up your defense against the cold germ get plenty of rest and to avoid catching cold avoid people with colds as much as possible. Also keep your feet dry by wearing overshoes and stay out of drafts.

During the holidays everyone is so busy there is precious little time for sleep, but your health depends on it. Your body needs it to function properly--and to fight the cold.

Remember, the next time you feel a cold coming on, take care of yourself. Go to bed and get as much rest as possible. Eat light meals with nourishing foods---drink plenty of water fruit juices and soups. Call a doctor if you have a fever, aches, or a racking cough for more than 24 hours. And always---cover your mouth with a handkerchief or your hand to stifle coughs and sneezes. The next one wants a chance to enjoy his holiday with out YOUR cold.

Recent interpretations of the capital gains provision in the federal income tax law may save Iowa farmers money. H. B. Howell, extension farm management specialist at Iowa State College, says this law now permits farmers to pay tax on only 50 percent of the money they received for sales of livestock used in draft, breeding or dairy purposes that have been kept at least a year.

Sherf to Talk on New Corn Disease

Arden Sherf, Iowa State College Extension Plant Pathologist, will discuss the "Purple Corn" disease that has shown up in Hancock County this year. Sherf will appear on o program at the Garner High School, Monday night, January 5, at 8 p. m. This is a county wide meeting for any or all farmers interested in this and other crop diseases and their control, according to County Extension Director Paul Henderson and Garner Agriculture Instructor Lyle Hullinger.

Sherf will show colored pictuers of disease during his discussion.

State Has New Tax Forms for Income Tax

State individual and farm income taxs forms were revised, and resemble federal returns. Iowa's long and short forms were combined. This year, withholding statements are requested on state returns.

For the first time, during 1952 a card index of more than 700,000 persons filing Iowa tax returns was built up by the tax commission. About 400,000 withholding records supplied by employers for 1951 are now being checked against that file, and the employees contacted if they should have filed returns, and did not.

Next year, income tax forms will be mailed to taxpayers. As 1952 returns are filed, address slips will be made for next year's mailing.

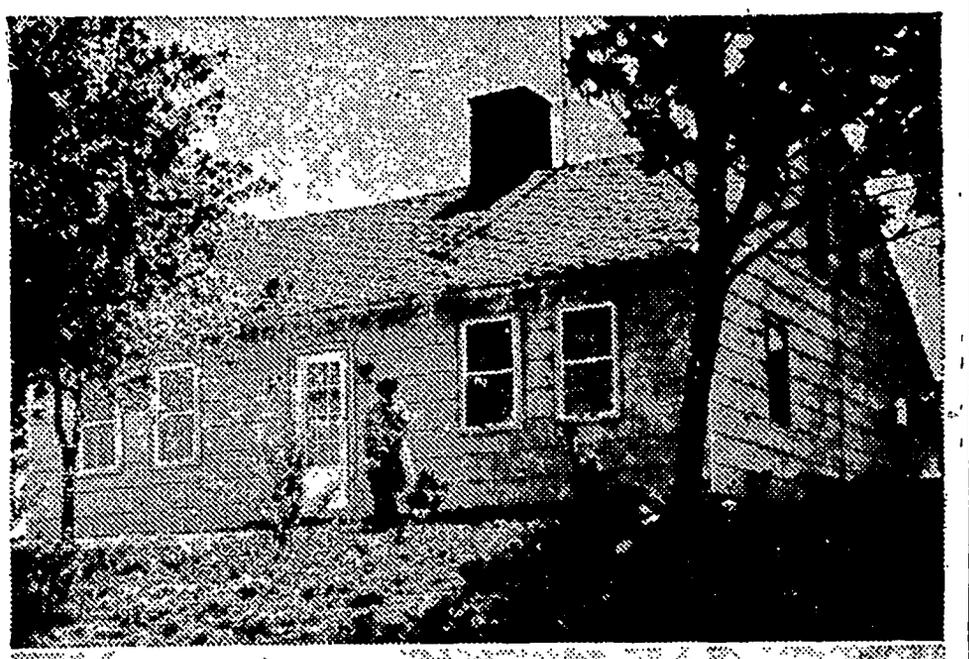
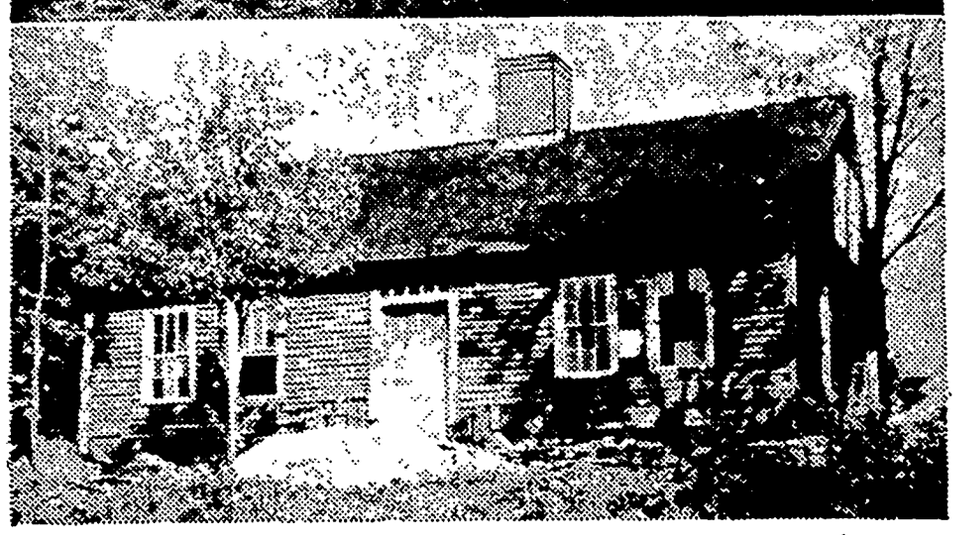
Veteran House Young Again





The new house, top, grew out of the old house, below. Chiefly responsible for the new look are colorful asphalt roof shingles and new white siding. The house had been abandoned for many years before an enterprising couple bought it and remodeled it.

Old houses are like sloppily wrapped packages. What shows on the outside isn't any clue to what's underneath.

The fact is that many old houses are in considerably better shape than they seem to be. They're more wornout on the surface than underneath, and if new roofing, siding and interior finish are put on an old framework a smart-looking, comfortable home is often the result.

The discerning house-hunter shouldn't be discouraged by poor exterior appearance. He should pry off a section of old siding to examine sheating and studs, and he should closely inspect the roof deck and rafters, joists, sills, the foundation, and other structural parts.

If the structure, or most of it, is sound, chances are that the house could be rebuilt at considerably less than the cost of a comparable new dwelling.

In remodeling the house pictured above in "before" and "after" versions, the first step was to patch the foundation and put in new sills. Then the roof was reconditioned with hexagonally shaped asphalt shingles. Contributing basic weathering ability, fire-resistance, and a choice of solid and blended colors, new asphalt roofing usually can be applied directly on top of the worn out material.

To complete the major work on the exterior, the old broken siding boards were covered with new white siding shingles.

Interior improvements began with new flooring. The remnants of old plaster were removed and insulating board was laid over the plaster lath. New wiring and plumbing and a new heating system were installed.

Iowa Highway Patrol to Hold Training School

David G. Herrick became chief of the Iowa highway patrol Thursday and announced a 4-week patrol recruit training school to be held at Camp Dodge beginning May 3.

He said approximately 35 men will be accepted to attend the school and that top graduates will fill 11 existing vacancies on the patrol and three vacancies on the drivers licensing examining force.

Other successful graduates of the school will form a reserve from which vacancies will be filled as they occur on the patrol or license examining force, Herrick said.

Applicants for the school must be between 5 feet 10 inches and 6 feet 2 inches in height with weight in proportion; between 22 and 32 years of age; citizen of the United States; a resident of Iowa for at least two years prior to application; and have a high school education or its equivalent.

All applicants must be able to pass a rigid character investigation and physical examination and 20-20 vision in each eye without glasses, Herrick said.

Application blanks may be obtained at patrol headquarters, New State Office Building, Des Moines, or at any of the patrol's 13 district offices in Des Moines, Osceola, Atlantic, Denison, Cherokee, Spencer, Humbolt, Mason City, Cedar Falls, Oelwein, Cedar Rapids, West Liberty and Fairfield.

Herrick said men wishing to join the highway patrol should file applications as soon as possible to allow ample time for field investigation and examinations which must be completed before the school begins.

Men attending the school will receive $100 in pay, clothes, food and quarters during the training period. Salaries of patrolmen range from $245 to $275 a month with uniforms and a retirement system provided.
